Lovett Is Named Defense Chief As Marshall Quits

President Accepts Resignation With "Great Reluctance"

ROBERT A. LOVETT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—President Truman boosted Robert A. Lovett into the job of defense secretary today after George C. Marshall resigned to seek once more a quiet retirement at his Leesburg, Va., home.

In Congress, there was immediate praise of Lovett's appointment with some Republican senators saying they were happy to see a civilian returned to the top control of the huge military establishment.

The Senate is expected to give quick approval to Lovett's nomination.

Marshall said he resigned for "very personal reasons" and after an understanding with Mr. Truman that his services at the Pentagon were to be only temporary. He was appointed secretary exactly one year ago.

Truman Praises Marshall

President Truman accepted the resignation "with great reluctance" and told the 70-year-old five-star general in a letter "no man has given his country more distinguished and patriotic service than have you x x x You have earned your retirement many fold and I wish you many good years at Leesburg."

Both Republicans and Democrats in Congress appeared happy over the Lovett appointment. He is a 56-year-old former New York investment banker who first came into the government in 1940 at President Roosevelt's request as assistant secretary of war.

This is the third time since World War II that Marshall has tried to retire to the quiet and peace of his home at Leesburg, Va. But twice he has been recalled to government service and he told Mr. Truman that if necessary he will come out of retirement temporarily again in the future.

Wartime Chief of Staff

After winning world renown as U. S. chief of staff in World War II, Marshall went into retirement at Leesburg. But two years later President Truman sent him to China on the fruitless mission to end the civil war there.

Then he was named secretary of state. He resigned this post in January, 1949, but not until the government had launched the giant foreign aid program to combat communism, which became known as "the Marshall Plan."

Exactly one year ago today, the President called Marshall from retirement again to succeed Louis A. Johnson as secretary of defense.

Marshall had an agreement with Mr. Truman at the time that he would serve only until June 30 of this year. The President persuaded him to extend his service until fall.

Defense Bill Debate Limited; Senate Passage Likely Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—The Senate put on a sudden burst of speed today toward final passage of the $61,103,856,030 defense bill after writing in curbs on Pentagon "white collar" employes and a two-year time limit on spending authority.

An agreement to limit debate—with only two hours for the final stage—indicated passage may be reached by tomorrow. A long list of amendments still awaited action, however.

Majority Leader McFarland (D-Ariz) won the speedup agreement late in the day as the Senate appeared to be bogged down in endless debate. Only a few protests were heard.

Before quitting for the day, the Senate beat down a series of attempts by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) to whittle $184,794,000 from funds which he said would go for tools to private industry and for expediting defense production.

Hunt Raps Douglas

Sen. Hunt (D-Wyo) accused Douglas of picking his figures "out of the air."

The Wyoming senator said Douglas didn't even hear the testimony supporting items in the bill "and yet he gets all the credit in the press for economy moves while the rest of us are criticized for voting against him."

Douglas replied mildly that he supposed he would be more popular in the Senate if he offered no fund-cutting amendments. But he said his proposals were based on his judgment as to what could be saved.

In other actions, the Senate:

1. Approved an amendment by Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) to cut the ceiling on "white collar" workers in defense agencies by 30,000 to an even 500,000.

Production Jobs Not Covered

The ceiling does not cover production jobs such as work in naval yards and ordnance plants.

2. Accepted an amendment by Sen. Douglas calling for a five per cent cut in funds for the Army's civilian employes in the Pentagon—estimated to save $3,354,000.

3. Decided to clamp a two-year limit on spending authority under the $61-billion bill, except for the Navy.

Peiping Radio Scores Report Attack Mistake

Allies Jab North On 80-Mile Front

TOKYO, Thursday, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Communists hinted today that the formal United Nations' apology for the inadvertent strafing of Kaesong Monday would not be entirely acceptable.

Such a decision would throw another roadblock in the path of a resumption of suspended Korean truce talks.

The North Korean-Chinese high command maintained an official silence on the Allied note of regret handed them Wednesday.

However, Peiping radio, broadcasting the first Red comment on the note, said:

Ridgway's Claim "Absurd"

"At last (General) Ridgway has been forced to admit that one of his planes carried out the Monday morning strafing attack on Kaesong. But his claim that the attack was a mistake is absurd . . . "

The radio quoted a Communist writer at the headquarters of Lt. Gen. Nam Il, senior Red armistice negotiator. While such writing was not official in the past it frequently has served as a bellweather of official Communist opinion.

Allied headquarters also was keeping a tight silence on an envelope handed to liaison officers by the Reds Wednesday. This presumably contained the Communist rejection of a Sept. 6 proposal by Gen. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander.

10 Red Protests Rejected

Ridgway wanted to change the site of truce negotiations from Kaesong to another point less subject to interruptions. The Reds in a broadcast Wednesday said this was totally unacceptable and merely an attempt by the Allies to dodge responsibility for alleged violations of Kaesong's neutrality zone.

The Allies have turned down 10 of the 11 Communist protests of neutrality violations as fraudulent or unworthy of reply.

In the complicated war of messages between the two camps the situation now called for the Reds to formally accept or reject the U. N.'s note of apology and for Ridgway to answer Red demands that he stop alleged "incessant violations" of the Kaesong neutral zone.

Robinson Regains Middleweight Title

Scoring a technical knockout over England's Randy Turpin, Sugar Ray Robinson last night regained his middleweight crown and at the same time gained revenge over Turpin, who dethroned Sugar Ray earlier this year. Above, Turpin is down in the tenth shortly before the end of the fight. After the battle, Turpin said he expected another match with Robinson. (Story on page 13)

Harry Gross Is Picked Up At Racetrack

Bookie 'Just Felt Like Getting Away'

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 12 (AP) — Kingpin Gambler Harry Gross, missing star witness in New York's mass police graft trial, was picked up at Atlantic City racetrack today, calmly betting on the horses.

"What have I done? — I just felt like getting away for a few days," the stocky, 35-year-old bookie explained.

New York police said Gross mysteriously slipped through a police guard at his Atlantic Beach, N. Y., home last night and vanished.

A nationwide manhunt was launched immediately for Gross whose scheduled testimony about his $20,000,000 a year police-protected gambling ring is admitted to be the key to the Empire State's great case against 18 policemen.

New Jersey state police and track detectives spotted the dapper big time bookie as he mingled with the crowd at the racetrack clubhouse.

D. A. Confirms Arrest

District Attorney Miles F. MacDonald in New York, smiling and obviously greatly relieved, confirmed Gross' arrest and went to New Jersey to pick up his star witness.

Meanwhile, in New York, the Federal Bureau of Investigation announced it had taken Gross into custody in New Jersey on a charge of "interstate flight to avoid giving testimony."

Gross told newsmen he thought police were making a big fuss over "just a bookie case."

"They'll parlay this thing into a three-ring circus," he said.

Gross is on bail, awaiting sentence as a gambler. He faces up to 65 years in prison.

"What have I done. I'm not a fugitive. If I didn't turn up for sentencing that would be one thing. But I'm out on bail. That's $25,000. I'd only be hurting myself if I didn't show up," he concluded.

He pooh-poohed reports of his disappearance and explained that he merely packed a bag and walked out the front door of the house about 6 p.m. (EDT) last night. Gross said he didn't know where the police were and "I didn't look for them."

No Fear Of Death Threats

He said he had been free to drive his car all during his bail period and just took off in the 1948 Cadillac convertible. Gross said he drove through the Holland Tunnel to New Jersey, stopped for dinner on the road and then continued the 180 miles from New York City to this shore resort.

He checked into the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall Hotel at 12:15 a.m. (EDT) today under the name of Harry Green, went for a walk on the boardwalk, had a cup of coffee and went to bed.

This morning, Gross said he ate breakfast and later went to the racetrack at McKee City, 11 miles from here.

He talked affably with police and newsmen, explaining that he had pleaded guilty to bookie charges against him. "I wanted to get it over with. I'm tired of it," he admitted.

Gross said he had no fear of death threats police said had been made against him and his family if he testified at the graft trial. Gross is expected to tell how he paid $1,000,000 a year to crooked cops to protect his vast gambling ring.

Margaret Truman Can Cook Too, Dad Informs Delegation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — Hint to prospective suitors: Margaret Truman can cook, too.

Source of this information: Her father, the President.

"I have long ago quit talking about Mama's cooking, because I have a good cook at home, Mr. Truman remarked to a delegation which presented him with a cake today. He added:

"And she also has made a good cook out of the musician who is our daughter. She can cook, too. I can't say she likes to cook as well as she likes to sing, but then she is able to do it."

The cake, made from Mrs. Truman's own recipe as it appears in a United Nations cook book, was presented by a group from the National Citizens Committee for United Nations Day.

Oldster Autos Reach Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Sept. 12 (AP) —Like a pair of highway ghosts out of another era, two ancient autos made the 170-mile trip from Detroit today in a shade under 12 hours.

Red-shirted, 76-year-old Jack Brause piloted his 1913 Stanley Steamer up to a local hotel at 8:24 p. m. (EST), and 19 minutes later was followed by the chugging 1911 Stoddard Dayton driven by Rube De Launty, 70. They left Detroit at 4:45 a. m. (EST).

Rube's gas-powered entry remained about 32 minutes ahead of the steamer on elapsed time since their start from Chicago, but Jack's steam "hot-rod" gained some 19 minutes in the day's run. Their schedule had called for them to arrive before noon.

Midway of their Toledo-Cleveland run, Brause and his tea kettle were running nearly an hour ahead. Both are employes of the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago, and are New York bound to settle an argument and win a $500 prize.

Retail Food Prices Rose .07% In August

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Retail food prices rose .07 per cent during August, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

The bureau estimated the nationwide index of retail food prices at 227.2 per cent of the 1935-39 average. That compared with the record high of 227.7 on July 15. The index on Aug. 15 was 227.0.

The new index, dated Aug. 27, is about 12 per cent above the pre-Korean level.

Higher prices for meats, fish, and eggs more than offset declines for fruits and vegetables, fats and oils, cereals and bakery products, a survey of eight cities revealed.

The largest price increase between July 30 and Aug. 27 was for eggs, which were up seasonally nearly seven per cent.

Allies Drive Slowly North

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Thursday, Sept. 13 (AP) — Hard fighting U. S. and South Korean infantrymen, supported by flamethrowers, tanks and planes, drove slowly northward Wednesday in limited objective attacks among the endless hills of Central and East Korea.

They met some of the stiffest resistance of recent months. The Allies ground forward along parts of an 80-mile front. It stretched from the iron-triangle sector on the west-central front to the Sea of Japan. The Allied objective was to keep the Communists off balance.

It was not spectacular fighting—except on a local scale—but it progressed like some huge construction job.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, told newsmen during inspection of U. S. 25th Division troops on the west-central front that there were no present indications the Red armies were ready to launch an offensive, despite the recent Communist buildup.

This seemed to contradict a state-

British Sub Found By Underwater TV

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Britain revealed tonight that the sunken submarine Affray, lost for almost two months at the bottom of the English Channel, had been found by use of underwater television.

The sub disappeared after it made a training dive April 16, carrying 75 men to their deaths. It was not found until June 14.

Big 3 Ministers Agree Cold War Progress Made

Foreign Chiefs Hold Day, Night Sessions

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—The Big Three foreign ministers spent four hours today on a study of world problems and then scheduled an unexpected night meeting—possibly to discuss bringing Western Germany into closer partnership with the West.

Secretary of State Acheson conferred for two hours this morning with Britain's Foreign secretary Herbert Morrison, and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman. They held a meeting of the same length this afternoon, and then the State Department announced there would be a third meeting beginning at 8:30 p. m. (EST).

At the morning session the Big Three surveyed their "cold war" strategy and reportedly agreed that the West is making definite progress in bulwarking its defenses against possible Communist aggression.

Rearmament Pace Too Slow

The foreign chiefs are trying to wind up their conference by tomorrow night so they can attend a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization opening in Ottawa Saturday.

Although optimistic about progress being made in the cold war, the foreign ministers were reported to feel that the West must still step up the pace of its rearmament if it is to protect the free world from attack.

The State Department kept a tight secrecy curtain drawn around the meetings.

But it was reliably reported the ministers were generally agreed that despite new danger spots the West was now better equipped to meet Communist aggression than it was when they last met in Brussels in December, 1950.

Red Pressure Not Slackening

But all three concurred, officials said, that Russia and its satellites show no signs of slackening pressure against the West.

A Moscow echo of this feeling today was a note to France, made public by the Soviet Union, declaring that rearmament of West Germany would violate not only the Potsdam agreement but the Soviet-French treaty of 1944.

Moscow charged that the Western Big Three planned to rearm West Germany in preparation of a new war.

News Conference Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — President Truman will hold his weekly news conference at 3 p. m. (EST) tomorrow.

Mammoth Airliner Crashes On Test Hop, Killing Three

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12 (AP)—A mammoth double-decked airliner, on a test and training flight, crashed on its back in shallow water in San Francisco Bay today, killing the three fliers aboard. It carried no passengers.

United Air Lines said the Stratocruiser was being flown by two senior captains, veterans in the service. They were Fred Angstadt of Los Angeles and Hugh C. Worthington of nearby San Mateo. With them was Charles Brogden of Millbrae, a suburb.

About 45 minutes after the ship left San Francisco airport, it flopped down in the mudflats 20 miles south of San Francisco and about two miles from shore.

The plane, built to carry up to 75 passengers, was a shapeless piece of wreckage.

TV Fight Fans Storm Theater

CHICAGO, Sept. 12 (AP)—About 600 persons, some dissatisfied by slow ticket taking or lack of tickets, broke scores of windows tonight while storming the State-Lake Theater, where the Robinson-Turpin fight was billed to be shown on a TV-movie screen.

The stampeders, many of whom suffered cuts and bruises, rushed into the theater, taking seats at will.

A special detail of 30 additional policemen was called to quell the disturbance.

The theater, which has a capacity of 2,800, had sold out within an hour after tickets were placed on sale at 5:30 p. m. The disturbance followed, at around 7 p. m., two hours before the fight was to start.

A theater official said nearly every window in the dozen doors was broken by the mob.

Two outlying theaters, also showing the fight on movie screens, had no trouble.

War Widow Grateful To Her Sympathizers

CHICAGO, Sept. 12 (AP)—A war widow wants friends she never has seen to know that she's grateful to them.

Mrs. Bernice Piorunski, 28, received word last month that the body of her soldier husband would be sent back from Korea, where he was killed in action.

To prepare for the funeral, she dipped into her small savings and bought a black suit for $19.95. Then the suit was stolen.

Stories of her plight appeared. She received as gifts two suits and $596 in cash from sympathizers.

Today newspapers carried a letter from the widow thanking all.

McMahon Terms Power Of A-Arms 'Truly Fantastic'

Atomic Stockpile 'Frightful Threat'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — Sen. McMahon (D-Conn) said today the destructive fury of America's atomic weapons is "truly fantastic . . . a frightful threat" that dwarfs anything previously known to man.

McMahon, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Committee, made the statement to newsmen on emerging from an "important" closed-door session with members of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Tight-mouthed as to details, McMahon told reporters:

"We have made truly remarkable progress in the development of atomic weapons. The destructive power in the atomic stockpile today is by any standards we have previously known truly fantastic."

No Comment On New Weapons

McMahon shied away from any comment about new weapons, but it was noted that in speaking of progress he used the word "development"—a hint perhaps of greatly improved weapons—rather than mere production.

The exact size of the nation's atomic bomb stockpile is a closely guarded secret.

McMahon also declined to say whether there was any connection between his statement and President Truman's San Francisco speech last week in which the President spoke of "fantastic" new weapons that could "wipe out civilization."

Mr. Truman made it clear that what he had in mind was something else than what he called the weapon "we all fear the most"—an apparent allusion to the projected hydrogen "hell bomb."

Rash Of New Weapons Hints

Since Mr. Truman's disclosure, there has been a rash of congressional hints about weird and shuddery new weapons. Among these, Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) told the Senate on Monday that the United States is acquiring "fantastic instruments by which man now conquers the atmosphere itself."

O'Mahoney is a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee which often hears top secrets in its consideration of requests for military funds.

RFC Crackdown Precedes Probe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — The government, charging "irregularities," cracked down on two large borrowers from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation today.

The move preceded initial Senate hearings tomorrow on charges that William H. Boyle, Jr., Democratic national chairman, allegedly was instrumental in securing an RFC loan for a third company. Boyle has issued a flat denial.

Administrator W. Stuart Symington, RFC's troubleshooting boss, announced his office has:

1. Stopped paying the $26,592.49 balance of a $1,887,500 loan obtained by the American Fixture and Manufacturing Co. of St. Louis. The reason: "Failure to report" an agreement for paying retainer fees to the Washington law firm of Joseph Rosenblum, a figure in the recent Senate probe of "influence" in RFC lending.

2. Given the Justice Department for possible action a report on an investigation of a $455,758 loan to Thomasville, Ala. Symington said the RFC had "reason to believe therew ere missstatements of fact and other irregularities which may be violations of law" in this case.

Suspended MIT Professor, Labelled Red, Is Indicted

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 12 (AP) —Prof. Dirk J. Struik, 56-year-old mathematics professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, today was indicted on a charge of advocating overthrow of the governments of the United States and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Shortly after the Middlesex County jury handed up the indictment, Prof. Struik was suspended from his post at MIT.

The indictment charged that "on May 1, 1948, by speech, exhibition, distribution and promulgation of certain written and printed documents, papers and pictorial representations he did advocate, advise, counsel and incite the overthrow of the governments of the United States and the Commonwealth of Masachusetts by force and violence."

A similar indictment was returned against Harry E. Winner, prominent Malden businessman. They were accused of conspiring with Martha H. Fletcher of Boston and Margaret Gilbert of Cambridge.

Dr. James R. Killian, Jr., MIT president, issued a statement that Struik's suspension "is in line with our announced policy."

Prof. Struik could not be reached for comment.

The Holland-born mathematician has denied in the past that he was a Communist although describing himself as a "good Marxist."

Peiping Radio Scores Report Attack Mistake

Allies Jab North On 80-Mile Front

TOKYO, Thursday, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Communists hinted today that the formal United Nations' apology for the inadvertent strafing of Kaesong Monday would not be entirely acceptable.

Such a decision would throw another roadblock in the path of a resumption of suspended Korean truce talks.

The North Korean-Chinese high command maintained an official silence on the Allied note of regret handed them Wednesday.

However, Peiping radio, broadcasting the first Red comment on the note, said:

Ridgway's Claim "Absurd"

"At last (General) Ridgway has been forced to admit that one of his planes carried out the Monday morning strafing attack on Kaesong. But his claim that the attack was a mistake is absurd . . . "

The radio quoted a Communist writer at the headquarters of Lt. Gen. Nam Il, senior Red armistice negotiator. While such writing was not official in the past it frequently has served as a bellweather of official Communist opinion.

Allied headquarters also was keeping a tight silence on an envelope handed to liaison officers by the Reds Wednesday. This presumably contained the Communist rejection of a Sept. 6 proposal by Gen. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander.

10 Red Protests Rejected

Ridgway wanted to change the site of truce negotiations from Kaesong to another point less subject to interruptions. The Reds in a broadcast Wednesday said this was totally unacceptable and merely an attempt by the Allies to dodge responsibility for alleged violations of Kaesong's neutrality zone.

The Allies have turned down 10 of the 11 Communist protests of neutrality violations as fraudulent or unworthy of reply.

In the complicated war of messages between the two camps the situation now called for the Reds to formally accept or reject the U. N.'s note of apology and for Ridgway to answer Red demands that he stop alleged "incessant violations" of the Kaesong neutral zone.

Allies Drive Slowly North

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Thursday, Sept. 13 (AP) — Hard fighting U. S. and South Korean infantrymen, supported by flamethrowers, tanks and planes, drove slowly northward Wednesday in limited objective attacks among the endless hills of Central and East Korea.

They met some of the stiffest resistance of recent months. The Allies ground forward along parts of an 80-mile front. It stretched from the iron-triangle sector on the west-central front to the Sea of Japan. The Allied objective was to keep the Communists off balance.

It was not spectacular fighting—except on a local scale—but it progressed like some huge construction job.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, told newsmen during inspection of U. S. 25th Division troops on the west-central front that there were no present indications the Red armies were ready to launch an offensive, despite the recent Communist buildup.

This seemed to contradict a state-

British Sub Found By Underwater TV

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Britain revealed tonight that the sunken submarine Affray, lost for almost two months at the bottom of the English Channel, had been found by use of underwater television.

The sub disappeared after it made a training dive April 16, carrying 75 men to their deaths. It was not found until June 14.

Suspended MIT Professor, Labelled Red, Is Indicted

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 12 (AP) —Prof. Dirk J. Struik, 56-year-old mathematics professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, today was indicted on a charge of advocating overthrow of the governments of the United States and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Shortly after the Middlesex County jury handed up the indictment, Prof. Struik was suspended from his post at MIT.

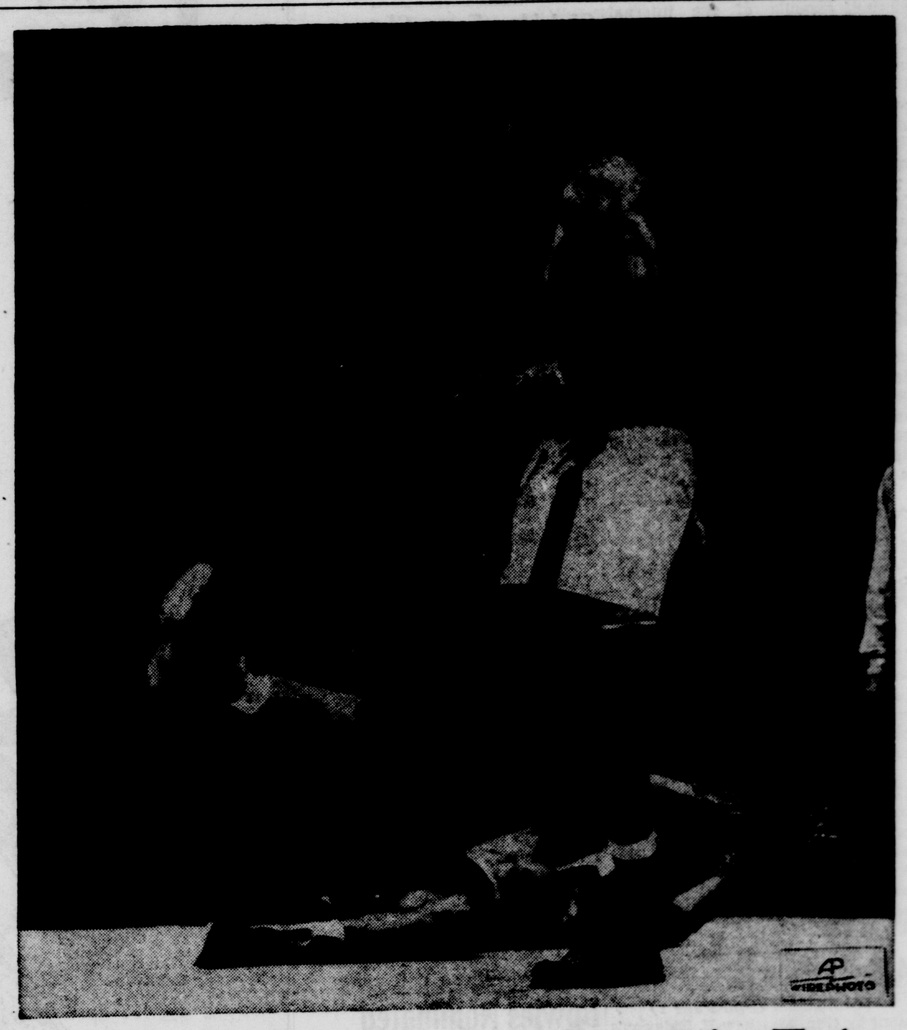
The indictment charged that "on May 1, 1948, by speech, exhibition, distribution and promulgation of certain written and printed documents, papers and pictorial representations he did advocate, advise, counsel and incite the overthrow of the governments of the United States and the Commonwealth of Masachusetts by force and violence."

A similar indictment was returned against Harry E. Winner, prominent Malden businessman. They were accused of conspiring with Martha H. Fletcher of Boston and Margaret Gilbert of Cambridge.

Dr. James R. Killian, Jr., MIT president, issued a statement that Struik's suspension "is in line with our announced policy."

Prof. Struik could not be reached for comment.

The Holland-born mathematician has denied in the past that he was a Communist although describing himself as a "good Marxist."



Robinson Regains Middleweight Title

Scoring a technical knockout over England's Randy Turpin, Sugar Ray Robinson last night regained his middleweight crown and at the same time gained revenge over Turpin, who dethroned Sugar Ray earlier this year. Above, Turpin is down in the tenth shortly before the end of the fight. After the battle, Turpin said he expected another match with Robinson. (Story on page 13)

Big 3 Ministers Agree Cold War Progress Made

Foreign Chiefs Hold Day, Night Sessions

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—The Big Three foreign ministers spent four hours today on a study of world problems and then scheduled an unexpected night meeting—possibly to discuss bringing Western Germany into closer partnership with the West.

Secretary of State Acheson conferred for two hours this morning with Britain's Foreign secretary Herbert Morrison, and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman. They held a meeting of the same length this afternoon, and then the State Department announced there would be a third meeting beginning at 8:30 p. m. (EST).

At the morning session the Big Three surveyed their "cold war" strategy and reportedly agreed that the West is making definite progress in bulwarking its defenses against possible Communist aggression.

Rearmament Pace Too Slow

The foreign chiefs are trying to wind up their conference by tomorrow night so they can attend a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization opening in Ottawa Saturday.

Although optimistic about progress being made in the cold war, the foreign ministers were reported to feel that the West must still step up the pace of its rearmament if it is to protect the free world from attack.

The State Department kept a tight secrecy curtain drawn around the meetings.

But it was reliably reported the ministers were generally agreed that despite new danger spots the West was now better equipped to meet Communist aggression than it was when they last met in Brussels in December, 1950.

Red Pressure Not Slackening

But all three concurred, officials said, that Russia and its satellites show no signs of slackening pressure against the West.

A Moscow echo of this feeling today was a note to France, made public by the Soviet Union, declaring that rearmament of West Germany would violate not only the Potsdam agreement but the Soviet-French treaty of 1944.

Moscow charged that the Western Big Three planned to rearm West Germany in preparation of a new war.

News Conference Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — President Truman will hold his weekly news conference at 3 p. m. (EST) tomorrow.

Mammoth Airliner Crashes On Test Hop, Killing Three

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12 (AP)—A mammoth double-decked airliner, on a test and training flight, crashed on its back in shallow water in San Francisco Bay today, killing the three fliers aboard. It carried no passengers.

United Air Lines said the Stratocruiser was being flown by two senior captains, veterans in the service. They were Fred Angstadt of Los Angeles and Hugh C. Worthington of nearby San Mateo. With them was Charles Brogden of Millbrae, a suburb.

About 45 minutes after the ship left San Francisco airport, it flopped down in the mudflats 20 miles south of San Francisco and about two miles from shore.

The plane, built to carry up to 75 passengers, was a shapeless piece of wreckage.

TV Fight Fans Storm Theater

CHICAGO, Sept. 12 (AP)—About 600 persons, some dissatisfied by slow ticket taking or lack of tickets, broke scores of windows tonight while storming the State-Lake Theater, where the Robinson-Turpin fight was billed to be shown on a TV-movie screen.

The stampeders, many of whom suffered cuts and bruises, rushed into the theater, taking seats at will.

A special detail of 30 additional policemen was called to quell the disturbance.

The theater, which has a capacity of 2,800, had sold out within an hour after tickets were placed on sale at 5:30 p. m. The disturbance followed, at around 7 p. m., two hours before the fight was to start.

A theater official said nearly every window in the dozen doors was broken by the mob.

Two outlying theaters, also showing the fight on movie screens, had no trouble.

War Widow Grateful To Her Sympathizers

CHICAGO, Sept. 12 (AP)—A war widow wants friends she never has seen to know that she's grateful to them.

Mrs. Bernice Piorunski, 28, received word last month that the body of her soldier husband would be sent back from Korea, where he was killed in action.

To prepare for the funeral, she dipped into her small savings and bought a black suit for $19.95. Then the suit was stolen.

Stories of her plight appeared. She received as gifts two suits and $596 in cash from sympathizers.

Today newspapers carried a letter from the widow thanking all.

McMahon Terms Power Of A-Arms 'Truly Fantastic'

Atomic Stockpile 'Frightful Threat'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — Sen. McMahon (D-Conn) said today the destructive fury of America's atomic weapons is "truly fantastic . . . a frightful threat" that dwarfs anything previously known to man.

McMahon, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Committee, made the statement to newsmen on emerging from an "important" closed-door session with members of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Tight-mouthed as to details, McMahon told reporters:

"We have made truly remarkable progress in the development of atomic weapons. The destructive power in the atomic stockpile today is by any standards we have previously known truly fantastic."

No Comment On New Weapons

McMahon shied away from any comment about new weapons, but it was noted that in speaking of progress he used the word "development"—a hint perhaps of greatly improved weapons—rather than mere production.

The exact size of the nation's atomic bomb stockpile is a closely guarded secret.

McMahon also declined to say whether there was any connection between his statement and President Truman's San Francisco speech last week in which the President spoke of "fantastic" new weapons that could "wipe out civilization."

Mr. Truman made it clear that what he had in mind was something else than what he called the weapon "we all fear the most"—an apparent allusion to the projected hydrogen "hell bomb."

Rash Of New Weapons Hints

Since Mr. Truman's disclosure, there has been a rash of congressional hints about weird and shuddery new weapons. Among these, Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) told the Senate on Monday that the United States is acquiring "fantastic instruments by which man now conquers the atmosphere itself."

O'Mahoney is a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee which often hears top secrets in its consideration of requests for military funds.

Burns Fatal To Mother

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Burns, 29, who rescued her three-year-old son from a fire in which her two other children burned to death, died today from burns suffered in the blaze.

Harry Gross Is Picked Up At Racetrack

Bookie 'Just Felt Like Getting Away'

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 12 (AP) — Kingpin Gambler Harry Gross, missing star witness in New York's mass police graft trial, was picked up at Atlantic City racetrack today, calmly betting on the horses.

"What have I done? — I just felt like getting away for a few days," the stocky, 35-year-old bookie explained.

New York police said Gross mysteriously slipped through a police guard at his Atlantic Beach, N. Y., home last night and vanished.

A nationwide manhunt was launched immediately for Gross whose scheduled testimony about his $20,000,000 a year police-protected gambling ring is admitted to be the key to the Empire State's great case against 18 policemen.

New Jersey state police and track detectives spotted the dapper big time bookie as he mingled with the crowd at the racetrack clubhouse.

D. A. Confirms Arrest

District Attorney Miles F. MacDonald in New York, smiling and obviously greatly relieved, confirmed Gross' arrest and went to New Jersey to pick up his star witness.

Meanwhile, in New York, the Federal Bureau of Investigation announced it had taken Gross into custody in New Jersey on a charge of "interstate flight to avoid giving testimony."

Gross told newsmen he thought police were making a big fuss over "just a bookie case."

"They'll parlay this thing into a three-ring circus," he said.

Gross is on bail, awaiting sentence as a gambler. He faces up to 65 years in prison.

"What have I done. I'm not a fugitive. If I didn't turn up for sentencing that would be one thing. But I'm out on bail. That's $25,000. I'd only be hurting myself if I didn't show up," he concluded.

He pooh-poohed reports of his disappearance and explained that he merely packed a bag and walked out the front door of the house about 6 p.m. (EDT) last night. Gross said he didn't know where the police were and "I didn't look for them."

No Fear Of Death Threats

He said he had been free to drive his car all during his bail period and just took off in the 1948 Cadillac convertible. Gross said he drove through the Holland Tunnel to New Jersey, stopped for dinner on the road and then continued the 180 miles from New York City to this shore resort.

He checked into the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall Hotel at 12:15 a.m. (EDT) today under the name of Harry Green, went for a walk on the boardwalk, had a cup of coffee and went to bed.

This morning, Gross said he ate breakfast and later went to the racetrack at McKee City, 11 miles from here.

He talked affably with police and newsmen, explaining that he had pleaded guilty to bookie charges against him. "I wanted to get it over with. I'm tired of it," he admitted.

Gross said he had no fear of death threats police said had been made against him and his family if he testified at the graft trial. Gross is expected to tell how he paid $1,000,000 a year to crooked cops to protect his vast gambling ring.

RFC Crackdown Precedes Probe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — The government, charging "irregularities," cracked down on two large borrowers from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation today.

The move preceded initial Senate hearings tomorrow on charges that William H. Boyle, Jr., Democratic national chairman, allegedly was instrumental in securing an RFC loan for a third company. Boyle has issued a flat denial.

Administrator W. Stuart Symington, RFC's troubleshooting boss, announced his office has:

1. Stopped paying the $26,592.49 balance of a $1,887,500 loan obtained by the American Fixture and Manufacturing Co. of St. Louis. The reason: "Failure to report" an agreement for paying retainer fees to the Washington law firm of Joseph Rosenblum, a figure in the recent Senate probe of "influence" in RFC lending.

2. Given the Justice Department for possible action a report on an investigation of a $455,758 loan to Thomasville, Ala. Symington said the RFC had "reason to believe therew ere missstatements of fact and other irregularities which may be violations of law" in this case.

"Unsatisfactory" Probe Of Reds Defeated Tydings, Butler Says

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12 (AP) — Sen. John M. Butler's side of the story is that Millard E. Tydings might still be a senator if he had conducted a "satisfactory" inquiry into communism.

The Republican who defeated the veteran Democrat Tydings in 1950 told a home town audience today the proof is that another Senate committee is doing the job over again.

Butler chose celebration of Port of Baltimore Day to give "my side of the story" of the campaign which resulted in a Senate investigation.

A Senate subcommittee held there was no grounds for recommending unseating Butler. It did criticize what it called "back street" methods used in the campaign.

Tydingsl ast year headed a subcommittee which investigated communism in the State Department. Butler said in his speech:

"I am advised by veteran members of the Senate and many persons in Maryland, that if Mr. Millard Tydings had conducted a full and satisfactory investigation of communism in the State Department, he would still be the senior senator from Maryland today.

"In that case, I would be practicing law and perhaps a lot happier individual.

"I am inclined to agree with that theory."

He added the clincher for the theory is that "the same investigation that Tydings was supposed to conduct but didn't, is now being done over by another Senate committee (The McCarran Committee on Internal Security)."

Butler took up one by one the accusations and criticisms made after his election, including the widely-publicized pamphlet "Off the Record" and the fining of his campaign manager, Jon Jonkel of Chicago.

The pamphlet circulated in the latter days of the campaign contained, among other things, a "composite" photograph of Tydings and Earl Browder, former chairman of the Communist Party in the United States.

Butler said he believed the picture was designed to illustrate the "attitude" displayed by Tydings when Browder testified last year. He said:

"Browder did appear before the subcommittee. The defeated candidate, as chairman, did question Browder and thank him most warmly for his testimony.

"Whatever else you read into that picture is a matter of imagination."

The junior senator pointed out that no evidence was ever produced that campaign funds were not used for proper purposes.

The only substantiated charges were that the rules for reporting funds were not carried out.

Pope Asks Unity To Subdue Reds

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 12 (AP)—Pope Pius XII appealed today for all Christians to unite in the Roman Catholic Church to beat back "the stormy assaults of the infernal enemy"—Communism.

His appeal in a 10,000 word encyclical was described officially by the Vatican as "of great importance from the historical, doctrinal and pastoral viewpoints."

In it, the Pontiff urged that no more time be wasted.

"Divided and dispersed, Christians cannot continue to lose time against the combined hosts" of the enemies of God, he said.

He appealed for Eastern Orthodox Catholics, who include those of Russia, to line up with Rome, saying:

"All those, especially in eastern countries, who because of the iniquity of the times are separated from the bosom and unity of the church, should render without hesitation the due reverent homage to this primacy, following the example and footsteps of their fathers."

He called upon all Christians to "unite under one banner."

U. N. Group Would Cut American Assessment

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 12 (AP) — Disregarding Soviet protests that the United States ought to pay half of the U. N. bills, a U. N. committee has recommended a cut in the U. S. assessment and an increase in Russia's dues to the U. N.

The proposed contributions for 1952, approved by a committee on contributions but still to be approved by the General Assembly, would cut the U. S. assessment from 38.92 per cent for 1951 to 36.90 per cent for 1952. The Soviet Union assessment would be raised from 6.98 to 9.85.

Whatever the opinions, there was evidence of an uninterrupted Red buildup. 100 Dogs' Heckling Too Much; Legal Surcease Asked

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP) — Col. Kennth F. May asked legal surcease from the heckling of an even 100 dogs.

"Mongrel, puppy, whelp and hound, and curs of low degree," explained May's lawyer, quoting the Poet Goldsmith — and they all live in a kennel next door to the colonel.

May demanded an injunction against the owners of the Osborne boarding kennels to stop the din.

He said the dogs start barking at 5 a. m. and go on barking until midnight, and have put his wife in the hospital with a nervous breakdown.

The panel of judges said they would assign the injunction suit for trial as soon as possible.

Girl Has Even Chance To Survive Stabbing

DES MOINES, Sept. 12 (AP) — The pretty 23-year-old clerk who was stabbed by a rejected suitor while she attended Catholic mass yesterday now appears to have a 50-50 chance to survive, Broadlawns Hospital said today.

The hospital said Theresa O'Connor,, 23, has been given a series of blood transfusions. She suffered two deep stab wounds in the back, two head wounds and an arm wound.

John A. Masterson, 24, who was jailed on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder, was removed during the day from a straitjacket in which he was placed after a fight with other prisoners last night.

Iran Oil Ultimatum Started To Britain

TEHRAN, Iran, Sept. 12 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh today started his oil ultimatum to Britain, via Washington. He says Britain must resume talks within two weeks or face expulsion of the 350 British refinery technicians remaining in Iran.

Apparently with the hope the United States again will act as mediator, the ultimatum was cabled to Iranian Ambassador Nasrollah Entezam in Washington to be turned over to President Truman's special envoy, W. Averell Harriman. Harriman arranged the talks which broke down Aug. 22.

The cable asked that Harriman relay the ultimatum to the British, but it was not known here whether he will consent.

Bowles Nominated Ambassador To India

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — Chester Bowles, former Connecticut governor, was nominated ambassador to India today in a shift involving two key diplomatic posts.

President Truman, in making the nomination, also accepted the long-pending resignation of Henry F. Grady, ambassador to Iran.

The present envoy to India, Loy W. Henderson, was selected to replace Grady at Teheran.

Off-Track Bet Plan Spurned

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12 (AP)—A proposal that off-track, pari-mutuel betting on horse races be permitted in Maryland got the heave-ho from a Legislative Council committee today.

The finance committee of the council rejected the idea unanimously.

The proposal was advanced by Delegate Wagner (D-Balto 2nd). He explained that the scheme was not a measure to legalize bookmaking, but to extend the system of betting now established.

Wagner explained that under his plan, off-track betting places would be established by the tracks themselves, under jurisdiction of the State Racing Commission, and that bets accepted would become part of the mutuel pool at the tracks.

He contended the plan would only make betting available to those without the opportunity to attend the races, and would reduce illegal wagers with bookmakers.

Wagner was alone in advocating the measure. It was opposed by the tracks, law enforcing agencies, and churchmen.

The action by the finance committee today preceded a hearing by the full council on proposed changes in the state Corrupt Election Practices Act.

The eight witnesses who appeared were almost unanimous in agreeing that the present law should be changed to require reports of expenditures by candidates and their agents be filed in a central location.

Off-Track Bet Plan Spurned

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12 (AP)—A proposal that off-track, pari-mutuel betting on horse races be permitted in Maryland got the heave-ho from a Legislative Council committee today.

The finance committee of the council rejected the idea unanimously.

The proposal was advanced by Delegate Wagner (D-Balto 2nd). He explained that the scheme was not a measure to legalize bookmaking, but to extend the system of betting now established.

Wagner explained that under his plan, off-track betting places would be established by the tracks themselves, under jurisdiction of the State Racing Commission, and that bets accepted would become part of the mutuel pool at the tracks.

He contended the plan would only make betting available to those without the opportunity to attend the races, and would reduce illegal wagers with bookmakers.

Wagner was alone in advocating the measure. It was opposed by the tracks, law enforcing agencies, and churchmen.

The action by the finance committee today preceded a hearing by the full council on proposed changes in the state Corrupt Election Practices Act.

The eight witnesses who appeared were almost unanimous in agreeing that the present law should be changed to require reports of expenditures by candidates and their agents be filed in a central location.

Press Galleries Of Congress

Whether the four Washington correspondents for Tass, Soviet Union press association, shall still be admitted to the press galleries of Congress is to be decided within a few days. The standing committee of press gallery correspondents is waiting for answers to two questions it has asked: Of the State Department, Is Tass a propaganda agency? Of the Justice Department, Is Tass an espionage outfit?

Although eligibility for the press galleries of Congress rests with the members themselves, it has been put there by Congress, which has ultimate authority over the galleries. The present rules on membership are promulgated by the Speaker of the House, who attests their approval by the Senate Rules committee.

The rules provide: "Administration of the press galleries shall be vested in a standing committee elected by accredited members of the galleries." The committee is to interpret House Rule 35 and Senate Rule 34.

House Rule 35 says reputable "reporters and correspondents" shall be admitted to the House press gallery "under such regulations as the Speaker may . . . prescribe." Senate Rule 34 says that the Senate Rules committee shall make "such regulations respecting the reporters' galleries of the Senate . . . as will confine their occupancy and use to bona fide reporters for daily newspapers (and) to bona fide reporters of news or press associations requiring telegraph service to their membership."

The rules promulgated by the Speaker for the two press galleries prescribe further that the standing committee of correspondents "shall limit membership . . . to bona fide correspondents of repute in their profession." The Committee shall not admit to membership any person who does not satisfy it that:

(1) His principal income is from news correspondence "intended for publication in newspapers entitled to second-class mailing privileges."

(2) He does not, and while a member will not, do paid publicity or promotion work, or prosecute any claim before Congress or a government department.

(3) He does not, while a member will not, engage in lobbying.

The standing committee has ruled that these regulations bar membership to employes of any U. S. government agency, including the Voice of America. And, as the Scripps-Howard papers point out, the Soviet ambassador in London freed the Tass bureau there from a libel suit in 1948 by calling it a "department of the Soviet government."

In the earliest days of the Congress, reporters were on occasion admitted to the floor to take down the debates, but the privilege was often granted on a favoritism basis. Thus the anti-administration Federal Republican in its issue of October 1, 1813, complained that its "reporter" was denied entrance to the House, while the publisher of the pro-administration National Intelligencer had a seat on the floor of the House, a chair next to the vice president in the Senate.

Today so many newspaper men and women ask for admission to the press galleries of Congress that it must be restricted by space available. Separate galleries are now provided for news photographers, for radio correspondents, for representatives of magazines. In 1951 the press galleries alone have 750 members, of whom 56, or 7½ per cent, represent foreign papers.

"Volunteers" For War

Many troops from Soviet satellite states in Europe are swelling the Chinese Red forces in Korea, according to Gen. Ridgway. However, those states will probably claim that such troops are "volunteers." The Chinese Communist government for months made the same claim about its own soldiers in Korea, until the pretense collapsed from its inherent absurdity.

For several centuries bilateral treaties between certain nations have pledged that neither, while neutral, would allow its citizens, or even its inhabitants, to aid an enemy of the other during a war. The Second Hague Conference of 1907 did not go so far. It did forbid recruiting in neutral territory for foreign combatant troops, but failed to require a neutral state to restrain individuals from departing to serve in a belligerent army.

As early as 1794 the United States forbade any of its inhabitants while in its territory to make arrangements for military service against any state with which this country was at peace. But this legislation, as renewed and expanded, did not forbid such arrangements when made outside of U. S. territory. In both World Wars many residents of this country went to Canada to enlist in Allied armies before the U. S. became a belligerent.

The U. S. neutrality legislation has been enforced with a certain amount of discretion. In the 1930s, we winked at individual enlistments in this country to fight for China against Japan, for Finland against the Soviet Union, even for Italy against Ethiopia. But not long after the Spanish Civil War broke out, in 1936, this government tried to prevent sailings to fight for the Loyalists, then confiscated the passports of Americans returning from Spain after service in the Loyalist ranks.

Propaganda From 'Frisco

This week gives the Kremlin a chance to study how much it gained, or lost, in propaganda from the act put on by the Russian delegates to the San Francisco conference. The Kremlin will study, too, whether the American counter-moves at San Francisco strengthened or weakened the American position in the minds of the peoples of the world, especially the peoples of Asia.

The Soviet Union was far ahead of the United States in appreciating the value of propaganda. Moscow may gladly take over by force when and where it can—witness Czechoslovakia, but also knows that it can often gain its ends by propaganda whenever and wherever force by itself would fail. The Communist answer to the old question, "Is the pen mightier than the sword?" is "sometimes No, sometimes Yes."

Certainly the Kremlin has spared no pains to prevent the peoples under its rule from hearing the American side of the story. According to some authorities, the Russians have been spending more to prevent the Voice of America from reaching those peoples than the Voice of America has been spending, or has been allowed by Congress to spend, on its broadcasts.

This country learned slowly and by hit-or-miss what the Communists learned long ago, that propaganda can backfire unless it is skilful. We are now trying to avoid any imputation of telling other peoples what to do and of extolling our material wealth. We are concentrating, rather, on (1) disproving Russian lies about us, (2) rehearsing the mere truth about Russian actions, and (3) emphasizing the freedom for the individual in the American as distinct from the Communist way of life.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Mothball Anemia

A young boy was admitted to a hospital because he had been ill for four days. According to his mother, the lad had refused food, vomited, and his pale skin was assuming a yellow tint. The physician immediately recognized the child's difficulty: Lederer's anemia of more than average severity.

The mother was questioned and the only clew she could give was that the lad had been playing with mothballs the day before the onset of his illness. Because naphthalene is the active ingredient of mothballs, poisoning from this source was suspected. This toxic agent affects the organs responsible for blood development. However, mothball poisoning is said to be rare because naphthalene is not absorbed and passes thru the digestive tract in harmless fashion. At least this is what the textbooks say; now it is obvious that certain revisions are in order.

Not long ago four Detroit children were admitted as acute emergencies to the pediatrics clinic of the Wayne university medical school. Their ages ranged from 2 to 2½ years. All were suffering from nausea, vomiting, fever, diarrhea, and severe anemia. Close questioning revealed that two of the youngster had been sucking on mothballs. Doctors Zuelzer and Apt decided that further investigation was in order. They reviewed the literature on the subject and found no record of such cases in America. Naphthalene intoxication had been reported from Africa, India, Brazil, and Europe but the majority resulted from the use of this chemical in treating roundworms.

The physicians decided to feed mothballs to animals and they promptly developed anemia somewhat similar to that which occurred in the children. By putting two and two together the conclusion was reached that mothball poisoning was responsible for the blood disorder and that this type of anemia was noted from time to time but mothballs had not been suspected as the offending agents. These little white pellets must look tempting to any toddler and when we realize how carelessly they have been placed around the average home, it is logical to assume that poisonings have occurred before. It is more than a coincidence also that most cases of this peculiar form of anemia were observed in boys and girls around 2 years old.

While this was going on in the middle west, a 6 day old infant was admitted to a children's hospital in California. This baby seemed to be doing well until her skin suddenly turned slightly yellow and her lips blue. The mother had nursed the baby and had not done anything unusual except to use diapers that had been stored in mothball crystals. Altho they had been rinsed in water they still reeked of the repellent. Now the hospital physicians wonder whether the child also had been poisoned by napthalene. This chemical is not too soluble in water, hence it is unlikely that rinsing had much effect, but is extremely soluable in oil and the mother had rubbed oil on the baby's skin every day. It is possible that the oil withdrew naphthalene from the diapers and the body absorbed it from the skin.

From now on mothballs must be added to the growing list of household hazards. They should be labeled and stored on an upper shelf, out of reach of the small fry.

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses the diet in hypertension.

NO DANGER

M. V. writes: Is it safe for a person who has had a heart attack to take an antihistaminic product for the relief of hay fever?

REPLY

To the best of my knowledge, it is safe.

KNOCKED OUT BY THE SUN

M. W. writes: If a person is affected by the sun, what is the best thing to do?

REPLY

If sunstroke has occurred, have the victim move to a cool place and lie down with the head and shoulders elevated slightly. Apply ice or wet cloths to the head and start cooling the body with cold water. No stimulants should be given but if the individual is conscious, an iced drink may be appreciated. If sunstroke is severe, hospitalization is required. In heat exhaustion, the sufferer should lie down in a cool place and take water to which one-third teaspoonful of salt has been added to each glass. Hot coffee sometimes is helpful.

STRIPED SKIN

L. D. writes: What can you tell me about stria, a striped condition of my arms and shoulders?

REPLY

These white or pinkish, smooth, shiny, depressed lines appear in areas where the skin has been overstretched or injured. Pressure or tension has resulted in rupture of the elastic fibers. The lines are most common in the abdominal wall subsequent to pregnancy, on the breasts after lactation, or after weight reduction. Other sites on which they appear are the buttocks, thighs, knees, elbows, and shoulder blades.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

China Lobby Wangled Shells From U. S. Navy; Two Five-Percenters Got Commission On Sale; Eisenhower Would Run As Democrat If Taft Gets GOP Nod

WASHINGTON — There's something awfully peculiar about the way the Senate refuses to investigate graft in the sale of American war supplies to Nationalist China; also the manner in which some of these supplies went to Communist China.

This graft and the part played by the China lobby was exposed in this column three months ago, including huge fortunes made by Chinese in cornering the soybean market, money made by Chiang Kai-Shek's relatives in selling tin to the Communists, and a phony gasoline deal attempted by the Nationalist air force.

Furthermore, Sen. Lyndon "Lying-Down" Johnson's investigating committee has had some of these facts for months. But in keeping with his Texas nickname, he laid down on the job.

Meanwhile, here are more facts showing how an American admiral persuaded General MacArthur's headquarters to release 62,000 rounds of Navy shells one month after the Korean War started—with a lush profit paid to S. G. Fassoulis and Miran Aprahamian, the five percenters for the China lobby.

Fassoulis and Aprahamian, heads of the Commerce International Corporation, had hired Adm. Charles M. Cooke, Jr., together with 10 other retired American officers who are stationed on Formosa, in the dual capacity of advisers to Fassoulis and Aprahamian as well as advisers to Chiang Kai-Shek. They include Gen. R. L. Peterson, Cooke's son-in-law, Maj. C. F. Field; and did include Marine Gen. O. T. Pfeifer and Adm. H. L. Grosskopf, all retired. The latter two have now withdrawn.

Arms Brokers

One month after the Korean War started, and when the U. S. Navy needed to conserve all its ammunition, Admiral Cooke induced MacArthur's headquarters to sell 22,000 rounds of three-inch Navy shells plus 40,000 rounds of 20-mm. shells and 40-mm. shells.

The story given out at the time was that the shells were scrap, about to be dumped into the sea. This, however, was not true. The price paid for the three-inch shells was $3 each—a bargain basement rate, because the original list surplus price was $36 each.

But the interesting thing is that Fassoulis and Aprahamian got a 12 per cent commission on the deal.

Significant also is the fact that it was the U. S. Navy, not the Chinese Navy, which was guarding Formosa at the time. In view of the long transport across the Pacific, therefore, it was the U. S. Navy, not the Chinese, who stood to need reserve ammunition.

S. G. Fassoulis, when queried by this column, admitted the facts but claimed the shells were defective.

NOTE—Admiral Cooke is the officer who, while commander of U. S. naval forces in the Western Pacific at the end of the war, used an LST boat to transport his auto to Shanghai to sell it on the black market. Naval enlisted men in Shanghai at that time were being jailed for selling cigarets on the black market.

Washington Pipeline

General Ike has told friends confidentally that he would run as a Democrat if Taft gets the GOP nomination. He regards Taft's fight-China-now policy as disastrous and his election as a "catastrophe." . . . (If Taft's nominated, Ike may not get the chance to be a Democrat. Truman's friends are pulling every wire to get Taft the GOP nod, say their man is itching to take Taft on.) . . . Wiley Senator Brewster of Maine, Taft's chief strategist, has a plan to nullify Eisenhower. He would send Taft to Europe, stage a conference with Eisenhower, then announce that Taft would follow any European policy the General proposed . . . Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany is smarting under the reply given him when he asked to make a trip to see Truman. The White House answer was: "Too busy." . . . The American Embassy in Moscow cables that Foreign Minister Vishinsky is virtually out, hasn't been seen around the Foreign Office for weeks. Andre Gromyko, the sallow diplomat of San Francisco, is now running the Foreign Office. (He's close to Stalin, too).

Inside Baseball

Happy Chandler's job of baseball commisioner has been peddled to a whole row of big names—J. Edgar Hoover, General MacArthur, Gen. Emmett "Rosie" O'Donnell of the Air Force. All turned it down . . . Jim Farley was proposed by the New York Yankees, but rejected on the first ballot at a closed-door caucus of the ball-team owners . . . So was George Trautman of the minor leagues . . . One handicap against Ohio's Gov. Frank Lausche was the backstage wire-pulling of Sen. John Bricker who doesn't want Lausche running against him for the Senate next year. This didn't help Lausche much. His best backer, incidentally, was John Galbreath, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates and a real estate partner of Bricker's. (Lausche asked for a 10-year contract, instead of the seven years given Happy Chandler.) . . . Real trouble in selecting a baseball czar has been that the club owners wanted a "front" more than they wanted a two-fisted cleaner-up of baseball ills—namely, the Eastern monopoly and the serflike draft of minor league players.

Merry-Go-Round

Good news about polio: Doctors believe this year's epidemic is about over. Total cases this year will reach about 30,000, which, although too high, is a lot better than the tragic total of 42,000 two years ago . . . Chief Justice Vinson has been staying home with a sick wife. Mrs. Vinson has been through a long, long siege, but is reported better . . . Dynamic Sen. Jim Duff of Pennsylvania, and the man he picked as Governor of Pennsylvania, John S. Fine, will have one of their few meetings Saturday—at the wedding of beautiful Louise Steinman in Lancaster, Pa. (Duff and Fine have not been seeing eye-to-eye since the election.)

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New England Pilgrimage

While the San Francisco Conference was in session, I was traveling in the atmosphere of old New England. Maybe I should have got all excited, hopped on a plane, got me a seat in the press gallery and watched Messrs. Acheson and Gromyko fight the battle of wits and words.

Instead, starting in these Berkshire Hills, we motored toward Maine. First we went to a little place called Sturbridge where a New England village of the 18th Century has been reconstructed within its proper setting. There we lunched and the trip had an unexpectedly good start.

Then we motored to Concord, to the city of Emerson and Hawthorne and the irrespressible Alcotts. My little girl was principally interested in "Little Women" and my wife in the chaste houses of New England.

Hawthorne pervades this area. Concord, Salem, Stockbridge — he seems to have left his mark wherever he lived; and to see a chair on which Emerson sat and Hawthorne wrote is to get at the very roots of things American.

We were on our way to York Harbor, Maine, where I was to do a chore of speech-making for my friend, Marion Martin. Unfortunately, I missed Portsmouth on this trip. No city has more charming early American houses than Portsmouth, except Salem, and Charleston, South Carolina. To Portsmouth's houses, even a tourist must devote a week; that is, if the tourist finds beautiful homes interesting and exciting and if his imagination can make him feel the lives of our progenitors.

For a house bespeaks personality. That is never true of a city apartment or of those banged together affairs with all modern conveniences but no lived-in atmosphere. Show me what kind of homes men build for their families, and I can almost sense their ideals of life. That, in a simpler and even truer way, my little girl said about Louisa May Alcott's home in Concord, and about the House of the Seven Gables in Salem where Hawthorne's cousin, Susan Ingersoll, lived.

We bedded down in Salem at the Hawthorne Hotel, which the local citizens built just off the square. But we could not remain indoors with so much beauty about us. So we trudged through the night, looking at the outsides of these unbelievably beautiful houses, some of which we would visit the next day.

The builders of these homes, many dead a century or so, were known to me with such intimacy as comes from China coast fables. For many of them were the masters and supercargoes of the clipper ships which sailed from Salem to Asia when this nation was young, bringing back with them silks and teas and spices to enrich the lives of our people.

Their homes speak eloquently of their great love for country and family. Only such as dreamed of home on the vast and tumultuous seas, as they rounded the Cape or sailed across the expansive Pacific, could put such affection into the place to which, wind and weather being willing, they would one day return. The doors of Chestnut Street are a holiday of affection for home. And in Salem all the doors of the old houses point to the sea, as Moslems pray facing toward Mecca. In the Essex Institute, it is possible to spend hours, perhaps years, tracing out the stories of these courageous traders.

In the "House of Seven Gables" and in other houses, there are, of course, secret staircases and chimneys into which children could be hidden. This was for safety against Indian raids and such events. Those people knew no security and risked much and perhaps that is why their houses are built so closely together. And yet, even now, there is an air of peace and quiet in this town which is hard to find elsewhere, particularly in a place where industry and neon signs and the automobile are also present.

Salem captured my imagination and love and I could not help wondering why the Ford Foundation, which seeks to spend millions in all parts of the world, does not devote itself to the restoration and preservation of the national monuments of American tradition. New England is rich in such treasures; but they exist all over this land. Henry Ford was captured by an enthusiasm for old America; it would be a living monument to him if all the beauty of the early periods of American life could be preserved as the French safeguard their national monuments. That would be something useful for the Ford Foundation to do.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Is It Accurate?

WASHINGTON

To suggest that testimony given under oath is specifically untruthful, is a very grave thing to do. In all honesty, however, it is now necessary to ask whether the much-publicized ex-Communist, Louis Budenz, has not been untruthful in his testimony before the McCarran subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

This is deeply important. Budenz has so far been the key witness in San Pat. McCarran's attempt to prove that the disaster in China was the result of a Communist plot centering in the Institute of Pacific Relations. Many responsible persons and publications are saying that if McCarran can prove his case, he will "justify" Sen. McCarthy. Bt if the case is being proved with false testimony that puts the matter in a very different, not to say a rather lurid, light.

Let us examine the actual testimony of Budenz, as it relates to one individual, John Carter Vincent, former chief of the State Department's Far Eastern Affairs division, and now American representative at Tangier. Budenz has been questioned about Vincent at least twice. On the first occasion, during the investigation conducted by Sen. Millard E. Tydings, he was rather pressingly invited to accuse Vincent of being a Communist. He did not deny the possibility, but he also refused to make the charge, explaining that he had to be "careful in my statements."

In contrast, before the McCarran subcommittee, Budenz became extremely positive. He said flatly that "from officials reports I have received," he knew Vincent to be a "member of the Communist party."

He was then reminded by the subcommittee counsel, Robert Morris, a specialist in leading questions, that Vincent accompanied Henry A. Wallace as his political advisor, on the Wallace vice presidential tour of the Far East in the spring of 1944. Budenz affirmed in reply that he had "heard in official Communist party circles that John Carter Vincent and Owen Lattimore were members of the Communist party travelling with Henry Wallace." Being requested to elaborate, he continued:

Communists Interested

"The trip by Wallace to China was followed by the Communists with a great deal of interest in discussions in the politburo. In those discussions it was pointed out that Mr. Wallace was more or less under good influences from the Communist viewpoint, that is to say, that he had on one hand Mr. Lattimore, and on the other John Carter Vincent, both of whom were described as being in line with the Communist viewpoint, seeing eye to eye with it, and that they would guide Mr. Wallace largely along those paths."

There are two aspects of this testimony, in so far as John Carter Vincent is concerned. First, there is the simple statement of fact, that Vincent was an enrolled and dependable Communist, whom the party politburo relied upon to "guide Mr. Wallace" along the path of the party line. Second, there is the obvious and unquestionably intended implication, that Vincent actually succeeded in guiding Wallace in this manner, and that the party politburo was delighted with the result.

Before the Tydings subcommittee, Budenz had previously testified that "Wallace's trip was followed with very great care and detail by the Communist party." The picture conveyed is at once detailed and complete, of Wallace on his journey being managed and controlled by the two Communists, Vincent and Lattimore, and of all the transactions of the trip being known in detail to the Communist inner circle in New York.

This Budenz testimony seems very smooth and very damning, until you examine it in conjunction with the only key document in the case. This document is Henry Wallace's report on China to President Roosevelt, which has just been published in this space for the first time. The important point is that when this report was drafted at Kunming at the close of Wallace's trip in 1944, the man accused by Budenz, John Carter Vincent, was present and a full participant.

Three Recommendations

With Vincent's frank concurrence, Wallace made three vital recommendations to Roosevelt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, whose military policy was disastrously weakening the regime of Chiang Kai-shek, who already planned to transfer American military aid to the Chinese Communists, was to be removed from command in China. The President was to name a new military commander who would also serve as his "personal representative" with the Generalissimo. And Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer was proposed for this post, as being "persona grata to Chiang."

If these recommendations of the Wallace report had been promptly acted upon, they would have averted China's catastrophes of that summer of 1944, and Chiang Kai-shek would probably be ruling in China today. The President partly followed these recommendations later on, with effects profoundly unfavorable to the Communist cause. In short, the whole wretched China story shows no clearer, more decisive anti-Communist act than this Wallace report in which John Carter Vincent participated and concurred.

Was this then the act of a Communist "party member," trusted by the party inner circle to exert "good influences from the Communist viewpoint," and to "guide" Wallace along the party line? And what about the politburo following Wallace's trip "with very great care and detail," with all the unusual advantages conferred by having two agents in the party? If Vincent and Lattimore really were agents, as testified by Budenz, how can the politburo have missed hearing of the Wallace report? And if they did hear of it, why was not Vincent disciplined as disloyal, and why did not Budenz mention these crucial facts?

There is only one answer to all these questions. The contemporary documentary evidence refutes Budenz's late-remembered verbal evidence in implication and in detail. Every word he has said about Vincent would surely be thrown out, in any court of law in the land. The hard facts cannot be escaped.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman put his political foot into it with his speech attacking those who want to see the government economize on expenditures.

The truth is that while it is hard to cut the budget and keep some political fences built up, the number of citizens affected by the higher taxes is far larger in political power than those relatively few who benefit by governmental favors and benefits that could be cut.

What Mr. Truman may not realize is that his administration has not assisted Congress in cutting the budget and that even on military expenses the impression is given that when the executive branch hands a figure to Congress that's the last word on the subject.

There's nothing sacrosanct about executive agency figures. For a long time the habit has been to pad the figures on the expectation that Congress would cut them down.

Must Change Views

It's true that there are certain nondefense items which can't be cut, such as the interest on the public debt. But to say that all expenditures for veterans cannot be reviewed or that other established programs of governmental spending cannot be reduced is to be unrealistic.

Sooner or later the atmosphere in Washington will have to change from one of indifference to the fact that the saturation point in taxes is being reached to one of solicitude as to how future revenues are to be raised. Sooner or later also government borrowing will become more difficult when the public begins on understand that there are limits on taxation. Sooner or later it will become apparent, moreover, that the mere increasing of rates doesn't bring in more revenues and actually may bring in less money. The point of diminishing returns, it is believed, already has been reached, for example, on both tobacco and liquor taxes.

The contrast between the attitude of a private business facing a financial stringency and the attitude of government is striking indeed. A private business has no compunctions about eliminating waste and luxuries when the time comes to balance the budget. But the federal government under analogous circumstances doesn't cut till it hurts—it rarely cuts at all.

Congress, to be be sure, has the main responsibility. A few members, like Senator Douglas of Illinois and Senator Byrd of Virginia — and there are a few others—have been urging the need for economy. But the majority in both parties are afraid to antagonize the pressure groups which are interested in maintaining a flow of federal appropriations especially to certain sections of the country.

Need National Leadership

The only leadership that can be expected to deal with this kind of a situation must be national. The President represents the entire country and not any particular state or district. But when a President refuses to countenance the drive for economy and actually assails those who try to economize, then a feeling of despair arises which can be far more dangerous in the long run than is apparent today.

For eventually, as a psychology develops nationally that no matter what the arguments are the administration in power intends to keep on spending, the fear of a run on the dollar will arise. There is no exception to the rule—once a people lose confidence in the integrity of their monetary unit they do not readily regain it without a major reorganization of fiscal affairs. The danger signals may appear shortly as foreign governments seek to revalue their own currencies higher to meet what they see is a depreciating dollar.

High prices aren't the only stimulus to inflation. Much more important is a possible loss of confidence in the dollar — and this could emanate from a failure to economize and a failure to tax on a basis that will produce needed revenue.

Press Galleries Of Congress

Whether the four Washington correspondents for Tass, Soviet Union press association, shall still be admitted to the press galleries of Congress is to be decided within a few days. The standing committee of press gallery correspondents is waiting for answers to two questions it has asked: Of the State Department, Is Tass a propaganda agency? Of the Justice Department, Is Tass an espionage outfit?

Although eligibility for the press galleries of Congress rests with the members themselves, it has been put there by Congress, which has ultimate authority over the galleries. The present rules on membership are promulgated by the Speaker of the House, who attests their approval by the Senate Rules committee.

The rules provide: "Administration of the press galleries shall be vested in a standing committee elected by accredited members of the galleries." The committee is to interpret House Rule 35 and Senate Rule 34.

House Rule 35 says reputable "reporters and correspondents" shall be admitted to the House press gallery "under such regulations as the Speaker may . . . prescribe." Senate Rule 34 says that the Senate Rules committee shall make "such regulations respecting the reporters' galleries of the Senate . . . as will confine their occupancy and use to bona fide reporters for daily newspapers (and) to bona fide reporters of news or press associations requiring telegraph service to their membership."

The rules promulgated by the Speaker for the two press galleries prescribe further that the standing committee of correspondents "shall limit membership . . . to bona fide correspondents of repute in their profession." The Committee shall not admit to membership any person who does not satisfy it that:

(1) His principal income is from news correspondence "intended for publication in newspapers entitled to second-class mailing privileges."

(2) He does not, and while a member will not, do paid publicity or promotion work, or prosecute any claim before Congress or a government department.

(3) He does not, while a member will not, engage in lobbying.

The standing committee has ruled that these regulations bar membership to employes of any U. S. government agency, including the Voice of America. And, as the Scripps-Howard papers point out, the Soviet ambassador in London freed the Tass bureau there from a libel suit in 1948 by calling it a "department of the Soviet government."

In the earliest days of the Congress, reporters were on occasion admitted to the floor to take down the debates, but the privilege was often granted on a favoritism basis. Thus the anti-administration Federal Republican in its issue of October 1, 1813, complained that its "reporter" was denied entrance to the House, while the publisher of the pro-administration National Intelligencer had a seat on the floor of the House, a chair next to the vice president in the Senate.

Today so many newspaper men and women ask for admission to the press galleries of Congress that it must be restricted by space available. Separate galleries are now provided for news photographers, for radio correspondents, for representatives of magazines. In 1951 the press galleries alone have 750 members, of whom 56, or 7½ per cent, represent foreign papers.

"Volunteers" For War

Many troops from Soviet satellite states in Europe are swelling the Chinese Red forces in Korea, according to Gen. Ridgway. However, those states will probably claim that such troops are "volunteers." The Chinese Communist government for months made the same claim about its own soldiers in Korea, until the pretense collapsed from its inherent absurdity.

For several centuries bilateral treaties between certain nations have pledged that neither, while neutral, would allow its citizens, or even its inhabitants, to aid an enemy of the other during a war. The Second Hague Conference of 1907 did not go so far. It did forbid recruiting in neutral territory for foreign combatant troops, but failed to require a neutral state to restrain individuals from departing to serve in a belligerent army.

As early as 1794 the United States forbade any of its inhabitants while in its territory to make arrangements for military service against any state with which this country was at peace. But this legislation, as renewed and expanded, did not forbid such arrangements when made outside of U. S. territory. In both World Wars many residents of this country went to Canada to enlist in Allied armies before the U. S. became a belligerent.

The U. S. neutrality legislation has been enforced with a certain amount of discretion. In the 1930s, we winked at individual enlistments in this country to fight for China against Japan, for Finland against the Soviet Union, even for Italy against Ethiopia. But not long after the Spanish Civil War broke out, in 1936, this government tried to prevent sailings to fight for the Loyalists, then confiscated the passports of Americans returning from Spain after service in the Loyalist ranks.

Propaganda From 'Frisco

This week gives the Kremlin a chance to study how much it gained, or lost, in propaganda from the act put on by the Russian delegates to the San Francisco conference. The Kremlin will study, too, whether the American counter-moves at San Francisco strengthened or weakened the American position in the minds of the peoples of the world, especially the peoples of Asia.

The Soviet Union was far ahead of the United States in appreciating the value of propaganda. Moscow may gladly take over by force when and where it can—witness Czechoslovakia, but also knows that it can often gain its ends by propaganda whenever and wherever force by itself would fail. The Communist answer to the old question, "Is the pen mightier than the sword?" is "sometimes No, sometimes Yes."

Certainly the Kremlin has spared no pains to prevent the peoples under its rule from hearing the American side of the story. According to some authorities, the Russians have been spending more to prevent the Voice of America from reaching those peoples than the Voice of America has been spending, or has been allowed by Congress to spend, on its broadcasts.

This country learned slowly and by hit-or-miss what the Communists learned long ago, that propaganda can backfire unless it is skilful. We are now trying to avoid any imputation of telling other peoples what to do and of extolling our material wealth. We are concentrating, rather, on (1) disproving Russian lies about us, (2) rehearsing the mere truth about Russian actions, and (3) emphasizing the freedom for the individual in the American as distinct from the Communist way of life.

How To Keep Well

Mothball Anemia

A young boy was admitted to a hospital because he had been ill for four days. According to his mother, the lad had refused food, vomited, and his pale skin was assuming a yellow tint. The physician immediately recognized the child's difficulty: Lederer's anemia of more than average severity.

The mother was questioned and the only clew she could give was that the lad had been playing with mothballs the day before the onset of his illness. Because naphthalene is the active ingredient of mothballs, poisoning from this source was suspected. This toxic agent affects the organs responsible for blood development. However, mothball poisoning is said to be rare because naphthalene is not absorbed and passes thru the digestive tract in harmless fashion. At least this is what the textbooks say; now it is obvious that certain revisions are in order.

Not long ago four Detroit children were admitted as acute emergencies to the pediatrics clinic of the Wayne university medical school. Their ages ranged from 2 to 2½ years. All were suffering from nausea, vomiting, fever, diarrhea, and severe anemia. Close questioning revealed that two of the youngster had been sucking on mothballs. Doctors Zuelzer and Apt decided that further investigation was in order. They reviewed the literature on the subject and found no record of such cases in America. Naphthalene intoxication had been reported from Africa, India, Brazil, and Europe but the majority resulted from the use of this chemical in treating roundworms.

The physicians decided to feed mothballs to animals and they promptly developed anemia somewhat similar to that which occurred in the children. By putting two and two together the conclusion was reached that mothball poisoning was responsible for the blood disorder and that this type of anemia was noted from time to time but mothballs had not been suspected as the offending agents. These little white pellets must look tempting to any toddler and when we realize how carelessly they have been placed around the average home, it is logical to assume that poisonings have occurred before. It is more than a coincidence also that most cases of this peculiar form of anemia were observed in boys and girls around 2 years old.

While this was going on in the middle west, a 6 day old infant was admitted to a children's hospital in California. This baby seemed to be doing well until her skin suddenly turned slightly yellow and her lips blue. The mother had nursed the baby and had not done anything unusual except to use diapers that had been stored in mothball crystals. Altho they had been rinsed in water they still reeked of the repellent. Now the hospital physicians wonder whether the child also had been poisoned by napthalene. This chemical is not too soluble in water, hence it is unlikely that rinsing had much effect, but is extremely soluable in oil and the mother had rubbed oil on the baby's skin every day. It is possible that the oil withdrew naphthalene from the diapers and the body absorbed it from the skin.

From now on mothballs must be added to the growing list of household hazards. They should be labeled and stored on an upper shelf, out of reach of the small fry.

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses the diet in hypertension.

NO DANGER

M. V. writes: Is it safe for a person who has had a heart attack to take an antihistaminic product for the relief of hay fever?

REPLY

To the best of my knowledge, it is safe.

KNOCKED OUT BY THE SUN

M. W. writes: If a person is affected by the sun, what is the best thing to do?

REPLY

If sunstroke has occurred, have the victim move to a cool place and lie down with the head and shoulders elevated slightly. Apply ice or wet cloths to the head and start cooling the body with cold water. No stimulants should be given but if the individual is conscious, an iced drink may be appreciated. If sunstroke is severe, hospitalization is required. In heat exhaustion, the sufferer should lie down in a cool place and take water to which one-third teaspoonful of salt has been added to each glass. Hot coffee sometimes is helpful.

STRIPED SKIN

L. D. writes: What can you tell me about stria, a striped condition of my arms and shoulders?

REPLY

These white or pinkish, smooth, shiny, depressed lines appear in areas where the skin has been overstretched or injured. Pressure or tension has resulted in rupture of the elastic fibers. The lines are most common in the abdominal wall subsequent to pregnancy, on the breasts after lactation, or after weight reduction. Other sites on which they appear are the buttocks, thighs, knees, elbows, and shoulder blades.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

China Lobby Wangled Shells From U. S. Navy; Two Five-Percenters Got Commission On Sale; Eisenhower Would Run As Democrat If Taft Gets GOP Nod

WASHINGTON — There's something awfully peculiar about the way the Senate refuses to investigate graft in the sale of American war supplies to Nationalist China; also the manner in which some of these supplies went to Communist China.

This graft and the part played by the China lobby was exposed in this column three months ago, including huge fortunes made by Chinese in cornering the soybean market, money made by Chiang Kai-Shek's relatives in selling tin to the Communists, and a phony gasoline deal attempted by the Nationalist air force.

Furthermore, Sen. Lyndon "Lying-Down" Johnson's investigating committee has had some of these facts for months. But in keeping with his Texas nickname, he laid down on the job.

Meanwhile, here are more facts showing how an American admiral persuaded General MacArthur's headquarters to release 62,000 rounds of Navy shells one month after the Korean War started—with a lush profit paid to S. G. Fassoulis and Miran Aprahamian, the five percenters for the China lobby.

Fassoulis and Aprahamian, heads of the Commerce International Corporation, had hired Adm. Charles M. Cooke, Jr., together with 10 other retired American officers who are stationed on Formosa, in the dual capacity of advisers to Fassoulis and Aprahamian as well as advisers to Chiang Kai-Shek. They include Gen. R. L. Peterson, Cooke's son-in-law, Maj. C. F. Field; and did include Marine Gen. O. T. Pfeifer and Adm. H. L. Grosskopf, all retired. The latter two have now withdrawn.

Arms Brokers

One month after the Korean War started, and when the U. S. Navy needed to conserve all its ammunition, Admiral Cooke induced MacArthur's headquarters to sell 22,000 rounds of three-inch Navy shells plus 40,000 rounds of 20-mm. shells and 40-mm. shells.

The story given out at the time was that the shells were scrap, about to be dumped into the sea. This, however, was not true. The price paid for the three-inch shells was $3 each—a bargain basement rate, because the original list surplus price was $36 each.

But the interesting thing is that Fassoulis and Aprahamian got a 12 per cent commission on the deal.

Significant also is the fact that it was the U. S. Navy, not the Chinese Navy, which was guarding Formosa at the time. In view of the long transport across the Pacific, therefore, it was the U. S. Navy, not the Chinese, who stood to need reserve ammunition.

S. G. Fassoulis, when queried by this column, admitted the facts but claimed the shells were defective.

NOTE—Admiral Cooke is the officer who, while commander of U. S. naval forces in the Western Pacific at the end of the war, used an LST boat to transport his auto to Shanghai to sell it on the black market. Naval enlisted men in Shanghai at that time were being jailed for selling cigarets on the black market.

Washington Pipeline

General Ike has told friends confidentally that he would run as a Democrat if Taft gets the GOP nomination. He regards Taft's fight-China-now policy as disastrous and his election as a "catastrophe." . . . (If Taft's nominated, Ike may not get the chance to be a Democrat. Truman's friends are pulling every wire to get Taft the GOP nod, say their man is itching to take Taft on.) . . . Wiley Senator Brewster of Maine, Taft's chief strategist, has a plan to nullify Eisenhower. He would send Taft to Europe, stage a conference with Eisenhower, then announce that Taft would follow any European policy the General proposed . . . Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany is smarting under the reply given him when he asked to make a trip to see Truman. The White House answer was: "Too busy." . . . The American Embassy in Moscow cables that Foreign Minister Vishinsky is virtually out, hasn't been seen around the Foreign Office for weeks. Andre Gromyko, the sallow diplomat of San Francisco, is now running the Foreign Office. (He's close to Stalin, too).

Inside Baseball

Happy Chandler's job of baseball commisisoner has been peddled to a whole row of big names—J. Edgar Hoover, General MacArthur, Gen. Emmett "Rosie" O'Donnell of the Air Force. All turned it down . . . Jim Farley was proposed by the New York Yankees, but rejected on the first ballot at a closed-door caucus of the ball-team owners . . . So was George Trautman of the minor leagues . . . One handicap against Ohio's Gov. Frank Lausche was the backstage wire-pulling of Sen. John Bricker who doesn't want Lausche running against him for the Senate next year. This didn't help Lausche much. His best backer, incidentally, was John Galbreath, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates and a real estate partner of Bricker's. (Lausche asked for a 10-year contract, instead of the seven years given Happy Chandler.) . . . Real trouble in selecting a baseball czar has been that the club owners wanted a "front" more than they wanted a two-fisted cleaner-up of baseball ills—namely, the Eastern monopoly and the serflike draft of minor league players.

Merry-Go-Round

Good news about polio: Doctors believe this year's epidemic is about over. Total cases this year will reach about 30,000, which, although too high, is a lot better than the tragic total of 42,000 two years ago . . . Chief Justice Vinson has been staying home with a sick wife. Mrs. Vinson has been through a long, long siege, but is reported better . . . Dynamic Sen. Jim Duff of Pennsylvania, and the man he picked as Governor of Pennsylvania, John S. Fine, will have one of their few meetings Saturday—at the wedding of beautiful Louise Steinman in Lancaster, Pa. These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New England Pilgrimage

While the San Francisco Conference was in session, I was traveling in the atmosphere of old New England. Maybe I should have got all excited, hopped on a plane, got me a seat in the press gallery and watched Messrs. Acheson and Gromyko fight the battle of wits and words.

Instead, starting in these Berkshire Hills, we motored toward Maine. First we went to a little place called Sturbridge where a New England village of the 18th Century has been reconstructed within its proper setting. There we lunched and the trip had an unexpectedly good start.

Then we motored to Concord, to the city of Emerson and Hawthorne and the irrespressible Alcotts. My little girl was principally interested in "Little Women" and my wife in the chaste houses of New England.

Hawthorne pervades this area. Concord, Salem, Stockbridge — he seems to have left his mark wherever he lived; and to see a chair on which Emerson sat and Hawthorne wrote is to get at the very roots of things American.

We were on our way to York Harbor, Maine, where I was to do a chore of speech-making for my friend, Marion Martin. Unfortunately, I missed Portsmouth on this trip. No city has more charming early American houses than Portsmouth, except Salem, and Charleston, South Carolina. To Portsmouth's houses, even a tourist must devote a week; that is, if the tourist finds beautiful homes interesting and exciting and if his imagination can make him feel the lives of our progenitors.

For a house bespeaks personality. That is never true of a city apartment or of those banged together affairs with all modern conveniences but no lived-in atmosphere. Show me what kind of homes men build for their families, and I can almost sense their ideals of life. That, in a simpler and even truer way, my little girl said about Louisa May Alcott's home in Concord, and about the House of the Seven Gables in Salem where Hawthorne's cousin, Susan Ingersoll, lived.

We bedded down in Salem at the Hawthorne Hotel, which the local citizens built just off the square. But we could not remain indoors with so much beauty about us. So we trudged through the night, looking at the outsides of these unbelievably beautiful houses, some of which we would visit the next day.

The builders of these homes, many dead a century or so, were known to me with such intimacy as comes from China coast fables. For many of them were the masters and supercargoes of the clipper ships which sailed from Salem to Asia when this nation was young, bringing back with them silks and teas and spices to enrich the lives of our people.

Their homes speak eloquently of their great love for country and family. Only such as dreamed of home on the vast and tumultuous seas, as they rounded the Cape or sailed across the expansive Pacific, could put such affection into the place to which, wind and weather being willing, they would one day return. The doors of Chestnut Street are a holiday of affection for home. And in Salem all the doors of the old houses point to the sea, as Moslems pray facing toward Mecca. In the Essex Institute, it is possible to spend hours, perhaps years, tracing out the stories of these courageous traders.

In the "House of Seven Gables" and in other houses, there are, of course, secret staircases and chimneys into which children could be hidden. This was for safety against Indian raids and such events. Those people knew no security and risked much and perhaps that is why their houses are built so closely together. And yet, even now, there is an air of peace and quiet in this town which is hard to find elsewhere, particularly in a place where industry and neon signs and the automobile are also present.

Salem captured my imagination and love and I could not help wondering why the Ford Foundation, which seeks to spend millions in all parts of the world, does not devote itself to the restoration and preservation of the national monuments of American tradition. New England is rich in such treasures; but they exist all over this land. Henry Ford was captured by an enthusiasm for old America; it would be a living monument to him if all the beauty of the early periods of American life could be preserved as the French safeguard their national monuments. That would be something useful for the Ford Foundation to do.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Is It Accurate?

WASHINGTON

To suggest that testimony given under oath is specifically untruthful, is a very grave thing to do. In all honesty, however, it is now necessary to ask whether the much-publicized ex-Communist, Louis Budenz, has not been untruthful in his testimony before the McCarran subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

This is deeply important. Budenz has so far been the key witness in San Pat. McCarran's attempt to prove that the disaster in China was the result of a Communist plot centering in the Institute of Pacific Relations. Many responsible persons and publications are saying that if McCarran can prove his case, he will "justify" Sen. McCarthy. Bt if the case is being proved with false testimony that puts the matter in a very different, not to say a rather lurid, light.

Let us examine the actual testimony of Budenz, as it relates to one individual, John Carter Vincent, former chief of the State Department's Far Eastern Affairs division, and now American representative at Tangier. Budenz has been questioned about Vincent at least twice. On the first occasion, during the investigation conducted by Sen. Millard E. Tydings, he was rather pressingly invited to accuse Vincent of being a Communist. He did not deny the possibility, but he also refused to make the charge, explaining that he had to be "careful in my statements."

In contrast, before the McCarran subcommittee, Budenz became extremely positive. He said flatly that "from officials reports I have received," he knew Vincent to be a "member of the Communist party."

He was then reminded by the subcommittee counsel, Robert Morris, a specialist in leading questions, that Vincent accompanied Henry A. Wallace as his political advisor, on the Wallace vice presidential tour of the Far East in the spring of 1944. Budenz affirmed in reply that he had "heard in official Communist party circles that John Carter Vincent and Owen Lattimore were members of the Communist party travelling with Henry Wallace." Being requested to elaborate, he continued:

Communists Interested

"The trip by Wallace to China was followed by the Communists with a great deal of interest in discussions in the politburo. In those discussions it was pointed out that Mr. Wallace was more or less under good influences from the Communist viewpoint, that is to say, that he had on one hand Mr. Lattimore, and on the other John Carter Vincent, both of whom were described as being in line with the Communist viewpoint, seeing eye to eye with it, and that they would guide Mr. Wallace largely along those paths."

There are two aspects of this testimony, in so far as John Carter Vincent is concerned. First, there is the simple statement of fact, that Vincent was an enrolled and dependable Communist, whom the party politburo relied upon to "guide Mr. Wallace" along the path of the party line. Second, there is the obvious and unquestionably intended implication, that Vincent actually succeeded in guiding Wallace in this manner, and that the party politburo was delighted with the result.

Before the Tydings subcommittee, Budenz had previously testified that "Wallace's trip was followed with very great care and detail by the Communist party." The picture conveyed is at once detailed and complete, of Wallace on his journey being managed and controlled by the two Communists, Vincent and Lattimore, and of all the transactions of the trip being known in detail to the Communist inner circle in New York.

This Budenz testimony seems very smooth and very damning, until you examine it in conjunction with the only key document in the case. This document is Henry Wallace's report on China to President Roosevelt, which has just been published in this space for the first time. The important point is that when this report was drafted at Kunming at the close of Wallace's trip in 1944, the man accused by Budenz, John Carter Vincent, was present and a full participant.

Three Recommendations

With Vincent's frank concurrence, Wallace made three vital recommendations to Roosevelt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, whose military policy was disastrously weakening the regime of Chiang Kai-shek, who already planned to transfer American military aid to the Chinese Communists, was to be removed from command in China. The President was to name a new military commander who would also serve as his "personal representative" with the Generalissimo. And Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer was proposed for this post, as being "persona grata to Chiang."

If these recommendations of the Wallace report had been promptly acted upon, they would have averted China's catastrophes of that summer of 1944, and Chiang Kai-shek would probably be ruling in China today. The President partly followed these recommendations later on, with effects profoundly unfavorable to the Communist cause. In short, the whole wretched China story shows no clearer, more decisive anti-Communist act than this Wallace report in which John Carter Vincent participated and concurred.

Was this then the act of a Communist "party member," trusted by the party inner circle to exert "good influences from the Communist viewpoint," and to "guide" Wallace along the party line? And what about the politburo following Wallace's trip "with very great care and detail," with all the unusual advantages conferred by having two agents in the party? If Vincent and Lattimore really were agents, as testified by Budenz, how can the politburo have missed hearing of the Wallace report? And if they did hear of it, why was not Vincent disciplined as disloyal, and why did not Budenz mention these crucial facts?

There is only one answer to all these questions. The contemporary documentary evidence refutes Budenz's late-remembered verbal evidence in implication and in detail. Every word he has said about Vincent would surely be thrown out, in any court of law in the land. The hard facts cannot be escaped.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman put his political foot into it with his speech attacking those who want to see the government economize on expenditures.

The truth is that while it is hard to cut the budget and keep some political fences built up, the number of citizens affected by the higher taxes is far larger in political power than those relatively few who benefit by governmental favors and benefits that could be cut.

What Mr. Truman may not realize is that his administration has not assisted Congress in cutting the budget and that even on military expenses the impression is given that when the executive branch hands a figure to Congress that's the last word on the subject.

There's nothing sacrosanct about executive agency figures. For a long time the habit has been to pad the figures on the expectation that Congress would cut them down.

Must Change Views

It's true that there are certain nondefense items which can't be cut, such as the interest on the public debt. But to say that all expenditures for veterans cannot be reviewed or that other established programs of governmental spending cannot be reduced is to be unrealistic.

Sooner or later the atmosphere in Washington will have to change from one of indifference to the fact that the saturation point in taxes is being reached to one of solicitude as to how future revenues are to be raised. Sooner or later also government borrowing will become more difficult when the public begins on understand that there are limits on taxation. Sooner or later it will become apparent, moreover, that the mere increasing of rates doesn't bring in more revenues and actually may bring in less money. The point of diminishing returns, it is believed, already has been reached, for example, on both tobacco and liquor taxes.

The contrast between the attitude of a private business facing a financial stringency and the attitude of government is striking indeed. A private business has no compunctions about eliminating waste and luxuries when the time comes to balance the budget. But the federal government under analogous circumstances doesn't cut till it hurts—it rarely cuts at all.

Congress, to be be sure, has the main responsibility. A few members, like Senator Douglas of Illinois and Senator Byrd of Virginia — and there are a few others—have been urging the need for economy. But the majority in both parties are afraid to antagonize the pressure groups which are interested in maintaining a flow of federal appropriations especially to certain sections of the country.

Need National Leadership

The only leadership that can be expected to deal with this kind of a situation must be national. The President represents the entire country and not any particular state or district. But when a President refuses to countenance the drive for economy and actually assails those who try to economize, then a feeling of despair arises which can be far more dangerous in the long run than is apparent today.

For eventually, as a psychology develops nationally that no matter what the arguments are the administration in power intends to keep on spending, the fear of a run on the dollar will arise. There is no exception to the rule—once a people lose confidence in the integrity of their monetary unit they do not readily regain it without a major reorganization of fiscal affairs. The danger signals may appear shortly as foreign governments seek to revalue their own currencies higher to meet what they see is a depreciating dollar.

High prices aren't the only stimulus to inflation. Much more important is a possible loss of confidence in the dollar — and this could emanate from a failure to economize and a failure to tax on a basis that will produce needed revenue.

Infested Pines Are Described

Entomologist Explains Protective Measures

Pine trees in dwelling areas occasionally turn brown and die from the attacks of bark weevils. There are several kinds of the borers and they work from ground level up into the trunk and branches, according to T. L. Bissell, University of Maryland Extension entomologist. Sometimes gum runs from the borings and sometimes a fine sawdust. Infested trees lose their green color, turn yellow and then die, often in a few weeks.

If a pine tree has turned yellow and there are signs of beetle work in the bark the tree is beyond recovery, Bissell says. It should be cut down and destroyed or barked to protect other pines in the neighborhood. Beetles will soon leave the dying trees for others.

Trees can be protected from bark beetle attack by spraying the bark with chlordane, using one half pint of 48 percent emulsion to three gallons of water. Spray the trunk and larger limbs. Three gallons of four trees, six to eight inches in trunk diameter.

Pine trees are predisposed to bark beetle attack by fire injury and by changing the ground level near the trunk — either the adding or removal of soil. Avoid such changes in the ground level, says Bissell.

Sapsuckers, which are a species of woodpecker, make rows of holes in the bark of many trees but do not kill a tree. Do not mistake these for borer holes.

L. Leslie Helmer, assistant plant superintendent of the Celanese Corp., called attention yesterday to the company's part in annual Chemistry week.

He said Bjorn Anderson, vice president in charge of research for Celanese will be interviewed in a national radio program, "You and the World," tonight at 7 o'clock over Columbia stations. He will discuss "Clothes and Chemicals."

The program is a part of the observance this week of the American Chemical Society's diamond jubilee.

Major Doak Is Called To Duty

Major Robert L. Doak, 409 Broadway, has been recalled to active duty with the Army, being scheduled to report Monday at Camp Breckenridge, Ky.

Past commander of J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets, Doak is the third Cumberland major called back by the Army. The other two already on active duty are Hugh D. Shires at Fort Knox, Ky., and Marvin E. Inge at Alexandria, Va.

Major Doak, a veteran of World War II in the ETO, entered the service September 12, 1941 and was separated July 13, 1945. He was commander of Company B, Eighth Division, 121st Infantry and was wounded August 12, 1944 at St. Malo. He rose from the ranks of a private.

Major Doak, a graduate of Pennsylvania Avenue High School, has been working as a salesman for the Lever Brothers Company. He and his wife, Aline, are the parents of a son and daughter.

tinued, the company's wage bill has gone up $3,000,000.

He presented a study which compared the earnings of 23 large Maryland corporations with those of the telephone company. Before the war, he said, the industries earned an average of 9 per cent on their net investments, the telephone company 7 per cent. Since the war, he said, the earnings of the industries have averaged 14 per cent, the telephone company's 5 per cent.

Since the war, he continued, the company has spent $115,000,000 expanding its facilities, doubling its investment. It has added 260,000 telephones—a 62 per cent increase. It has installed 22,000 rural telephones. It has built 43 new buildings and made major additions to 16 others. It has installed nearly a million miles of wire.

Rates Below Other Gains

The prices of food, automobiles, and electrical appliances have gone up anywhere from 93 to 248 per cent since before the war, Morrel said. Telephone rates have gone up only 27 per cent.

Fowler said the value of the company's property had increased to $171,900,000 by the end of last June, as compared with $142,500,000 at the end of 1948.

Charles S. Garland, head of a large Baltimore investment firm, argued for the company that its rates should recognize "either the present day cost of its property or its actual capital invested in terms of present day dollars."

Garland said the serious deterioration in the investment position of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the parent company, is another evidence of the impact of inflation on the telephone industry. The 1951 market value of AT&T stock, he pointed out, is 7 per cent less than it was in 1940.

Safety Group Explains Purpose

Functions of the safety committee, a new addition to the Department of Streets and Public Property, were explained at a meeting Tuesday at City Hall.

Lynn Walker, inspector for the State Industrial Accident Commission, presided. He said that the committee was not created to set up rules and regulations but to act in an advisory capacity.

The group's membership is on a rotating basis. Employes of the various departments will take turns as committee members.

Attending the session were Superintendent Martin M. Corrigan and John Wilson, representing the Street Department; Lester Bolinger, Engineering; Ralph Thuss, Recreation; Frank J. Aman, Parks; and Clarence Day, Constitution Park.

Charles S. Garland, head of a large Baltimore investment firm, argued for the company that its rates should recognize "either the present day cost of its property or its actual capital invested in terms of present day dollars."

Garland said the serious deterioration in the investment position of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the parent company, is another evidence of the impact of inflation on the telephone industry. The 1951 market value of AT&T stock, he pointed out, is 7 per cent less than it was in 1940.

Safety Group Explains Purpose

Functions of the safety committee, a new addition to the Department of Streets and Public Property, were explained at a meeting Tuesday at City Hall.

Lynn Walker, inspector for the State Industrial Accident Commission, presided. He said that the committee was not created to set up rules and regulations but to act in an advisory capacity.

The group's membership is on a rotating basis. Employes of the various departments will take turns as committee members.

Attending the session were Superintendent Martin M. Corrigan and John Wilson, representing the Street Department; Lester Bolinger, Engineering; Ralph Thuss, Recreation; Frank J. Aman, Parks; and Clarence Day, Constitution Park.

ASA Alumnae Chapter Plans Activities

Members of Cumberland Alumnae Chapter, Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority discussed the meetings for the next three months at the first business session since the Summer recess, which was held last evening at the home of Mrs. James Grosh, LaVale.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Cornelius, Jr., Plymouth drive and will be strictly a business meeting. In November the group plans to pack a Thanksgiving food basket for the Associated Charities at the home of Miss Lois Stine, Bedford Street. Miss Margaret Reid will be hostess to the club at her home, Cumberland Street, December 12. The club is hoping to do Christmas work for the Associated Charities at this time.

Plans were completed for a private card party. It is being held October 4 at the Girl Scout house, beginning at 8 o'clock. Bridge, canasta and 500 are to be played and prizes awarded at each table.

Attending were Miss Reid, Mrs. James McClure, Salisbury; Mrs. Bruce Fable, Mrs. Beulah Montesant, Frostburg; Miss Doris Davis, Miss Stine and Mrs. Cornelius.

TA Society Reports

The Travelers Aid Society received the monthly report at the city hall, Wednesday. Mrs. William Lee presided at the meeting and reports were given by Mrs. Nora Fleming and Mrs. Hugh Kilroy.

There were 15 refused aid; one investigation made for Travelers Aid in another city; 48 contacts; 33 investigations; 27 meals provided; lodging given to 12; transportation for seven; gas to three; letters to six; three wires sent; and 93 local calls completed.

Others present were Mrs. William Blake, Mrs. William McClean and Mrs. W. Donald Smith.

MRS. CHARLES IRWIN SUPLEE

Mary Barbara Dahl Is Bride Of Charles Irwin Suplee

Miss Mary Barbara Dahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Dahl, Forest Hills, Pittsburgh, the latter the former Miss Rita V. Truog, this city, became the bride of Charles Irwin Suplee, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Suplee, Ingram, Pa., September 1, the 31st wedding anniversary of her parents. The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 10 a. m., in St. Maurice Church with Rev. James A. Davin officiating. Rev. John McDowell, of Catholic University of America, and Rev. F. A. Atkinson, Pittsburgh, were in the sanctuary. David Ferland sang the Ave Maria and the Gregorian mass, and was organist.

The bridal party included Miss Margaret Carlin and Miss Joanne Burke, bridesmaids: Joseph Buery, Long Island, served as Mr. Suplee's best man with I. S. Suplee, Jr., Joseph Y. Suplee, and Charles Wenzel, Pittsburgh, were the ushers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an ankle length gown of shell pink slipper satin, which she designed and made herself. It was fashioned with a wide sweetheart neckline and vestee outlined and filled in with ivory French embroidered medallions belonging to her maternal grandmother. Larger medallions were appliqued on the full skirt. Her veil, a family heirloom of ivory point bische lace, was held in place by a small seed pearl tiara. She carried a prayer book with white orchid marker and shower of lily of the valley and fleur d'amour.

The attendants' gowns were of gray over rose nylon marquisette. They carried phansopsis orchids nested in trailing ivy. Their headdresses were of ivy leaves.

Mrs. Dahl chose a rose crepe dress with Navy accessories for her daughter's wedding. She had a corsafe of orchids. Mrs. Suplee wore a gray lace over rose, with which she wore gray accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride is a graduate of Mt. Mercy College, Pittsburgh. The bridegroom is a graduate of Catholic University of America.

A wedding reception was held at the Woman's Club, Forest Hills after which a buffet supper was held at the home of the bride's parents. After a wedding trip to Quebec, Canada, Mr. Suplee and his bride will reside in Washington.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Homer B. Carlton, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rohman, city; Mr. and Mrs. William Dahl, Miss Alayne Thomas, Meyersdale and persons from New Jersey, Long Island, Philadelphia and Chicago.

MP Night, Tournament Plans Made

The early Fall season's largest attendance record promises to be broken tonight at the Cumberland Country Club, when the first of two Full Master Point nights in September, is played, Albert D. Heacox president, reports.

Both North and South, East and West winners in both sections A and B will receive a Full Master Point direct from the New York headquarters of the American Contract Bridge League. All winners down to fourth position will receive Fractional Master Points.

Mr. Heacox, announces that Al Sobel, one of America's greatest directors and bridge authority, and the director of all the National Tournaments held annually, will direct and manage the Mason and Dixon Sectional Tournament at the Cumberland Country Club, October 13 and 14. The tournament is being sponsored by the Western Maryland Bridge Association and will carry full sectional rating for Master Point awards.

The two day schedule begins at 2 p. m. October 13 with Men's Pairs Women's Pairs; following at 8 p. m., with a Mixed Pairs. October 14 at 2 p. m., will be the opening session of the Open Pairs; and at 7:30 p. m., finals of the Open Pairs.

There will also be a special game for all players who do not play in both sessions Sunday. It will be at 7:30 Sunday evening. This special game is open to all bridge players.

It is not necessary to belong to the Western Maryland Bridge Association to play in the tournament and all bridge players in the area are welcome.

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin is honorary chairman of the tournament, and the Theodore R. McKeldin trophy will be presented to the winning pair of the open pair event. The men's pair event will have The Manhattan trophy for the winners; the women's pair, the Old Export trophy; the mixed pair event will have the George C. Ward trophy, which is being by the Western Maryland Bridge Association in honor of Mr. Ward, in appreciation of serving as director for the first year of the organization.

All runner ups in all events will receive prizes. The Master Point award for all winners will be based on the attendance, and it is possible to win from 5 to 15 Master Points for each event.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON—Whenever the soothsayers declare there could be nothing new under the Washington sun, just about that time—whamoo—something new!

Like the ex-ambassador's wife picketing the White House.

Yes, that's one the newspapers missed.

When the recently-arrived ambassador, Dr. Vladimir Prochazka, went to see HST, some angry Czech exile picketeers were protesting outside the White House. . . . One of them, a tall, neatly dressed lady, was the wife of former Ambassador Slavik. . . . After her husband resigned, when the Communists took over in February of '48, the couple asked for political asylum and took a modest but comfortable house on 36th Street in Georgetown.

AUSTINE

Once they entertained in a luxurious embassy, next thing they were taking in roomers . . . the one-time ambassadress prepared all the food and the one-time ambassador did the marketing.

Then, the other day Madame Slavik dropped her pots and pans to join the picket line. . . . First time in history the wife of an ex-ambassador has picketed the White House.

Speaking of ex-ambassadresses, this week society planks down the red plush rug to welcome Maria Martins, wife of the ex-Brazilian ambassador to Washington . . . Senora Martins, a celebrated sculptress in her own right, rides high, wide and atop the wave since her husband's friend, President Vargas, swept back into office in Brazil's last election.

After what doctors call a "cerebral accident" Senator Tobey (he ranked with Kukla, Fran and Ollie during TV's crime hearings), according to his office staff, "gets stronger every day" . . . Date of return to work still indefinite . . . The New Hampshire solon's wife also suffered a most unfortunate accident . . . She slipped in the kitchen and broke her hip.

Naturally, the old-fashioned "hymn sing" scheduled every August and presided over by Tobey was postponed this year.

For nearly 40 years the balding, moralizing, Baptist teetotaler, has whooped up this annual gathering which draws some 800 hymn singers . . . The Senator always played accompaniment on his upright piano, smack in the middle of a hayfield on his 100-acre farm near Temple, N. H.

Tobey refers to this farm as "The Original Garden of Eden—without the Original Sin."

Mrs. Leslie Biffle, wife of the secretary of the Senate, and a beautiful baroness sneaked off to a Hudson River reducing resort this summer . . . The baroness lost weight, but the Biffle gained.

"Wouldn't you know it," drawled Mrs. Biffle resignedly, "them that has gits."

Busy these days turning out a series of articles for national magazines is the daughter of late Representative Sol Bloom . . . He served for many years as chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, you remember . . . And daughter Vera Bloom authored a vera, vera good book about Washington . . . I so enjoyed the opening lines:

"Even if Judgement Day is well advertised in advance, I'm quite sure that there will be a party going on in Washington, and that everyone there will feel they had some very good reason why they simply had to go."

She ended up by calling Washington a city where pleasure will always be a duty. And duty a pleasure.

In the powder room at a prominent divorcee's cocktail party, two feline friends were discussing the age of their hostess . . . Said one: "She has the face of a woman of 30. The allure of a girl of 20. And the mind of a child of 10. Add them up."

There are changes in sleeves and necklines for fall. Do you know which ones are right for you?

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Of all the rules that make clothes look smart and right, one you should never defy is this: Analyze each new fashion in relation to your own figure type to see whether it does something for your figure — or against it.

If your conclusion is that the style does nothing for you, leave it to the other girls, and seek some alternate that is "pro" your special contours. Dame Fashion is so prodigal with her designs that you will never have to look for long. This season you have great scope even in your choice of such details as sleeves and necklines where significant innovations have been made.

Which Sleeve for You?

New sleeve silhouettes fall into two groups, the full-rounded and the narrow-straight. Which is for yous? That's easily answered.

The full-rounded sleeve is bloused and suspended from a dropped shoulder, balloon-shaped and set-in, puffed out from a raglan shoulder, or contoured like a chicken leg ("poulet", Paris calls it). Such fullness adds girth to your chest or waist, particularly when the shoulder is dropped. Will your figure take it?

Of all these sleeve fashions, a modified raglan-puff is best on a heavy figure. The diagonal seaming of the shoulder cuts across the girth of the chest, minimizing the increased width of the sleeves. And since these sleeves taper to nothing below the elbow, they add no bulk at the waistline.

To make you look taller, slimmer and covered up, the new narrow-tight sleeve is long, set in, or cut in. The "cover-up" look is a new trend worth noting in contrast to last year's bare "after-five fashions".

Neckline in Fashion

In clothes for all occasions, the stand-away characteristic of the new necklines makes it a pace-setter. It may be banded to stand away from the throat, cut from the shoulder to stand away, or wired . . . but stand away is what it's sure to do, to give the effect of a frame for the neck and face.

Naturally, therefore, it's highly flattering to both your neck and face when it's shaped to conform to the best lines of each. Just make sure that it does. That's easy when you use this Powers Girl formula: Never wear a neckline that is cut to repeat a line in your throat or face that you'd like to have . . . lifted!

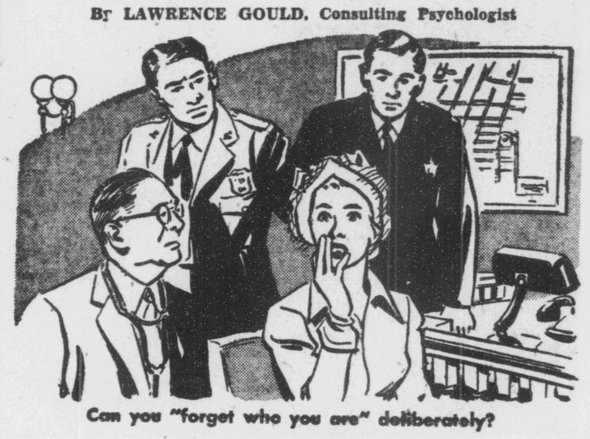
Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

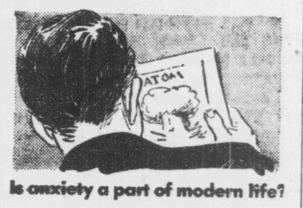


Can you "forget who you are" deliberately?

Answer: Not by any conscious wish or effort of will. Partial or complete amnesia is the result of an unconscious refusal to remember (that is, to admit to consciousness) ideas which are too frightening or painful to be endured. This refusal may involve a particular episode like a terrifying war experience, or one's whole life situation, including his name and identity. Either way, the person neither consciously "chose" to forget nor can remember by wishing or trying to do so. Lessening the fear by means of hypnotism or injections of narcotic drugs is the most promising method of restoring memory in such cases.

May childish feelings make you give unwisely?

Answer: Yes. Repeated exposures of "phony" charitable agencies as well as of street beggars who are richer than the people who give money to them show that most of us go on the principle of giving first and thinking afterwards. Our motive for doing so is sometimes good will, but may also be a childish fear of being scolded for refusing to "share" with another. As children we should have preferred to keep our toys or candy to ourselves, but were shamed or even punished if we tried to do so. As a result, we still tend to "give" on demand, regardless of whether we are really helping anyone by doing so.



Is anxiety a part of modern life?

Answer: It is an inevitable part of present-day "culture," maintains Rollo May in a symposium compiled by Drs. P. H. Hoch and J. Zubin of the New York Psychiatric Institute. In the 18th and 19th centuries men felt secure in the belief that "reason" would enable them to control their emotions and create world peace and order, but that belief has been shattered by the discoveries of Freud and others. Today we feel insecure and anxious because we have been forced to admit that both we and the rest of mankind are more or less at the mercy of unconscious "drives" which we can neither fully understand nor control.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON—Whenever the soothsayers declare there could be nothing new under the Washington sun, just about that time—whamoo—something new!

Like the ex-ambassador's wife picketing the White House.

Yes, that's one the newspapers missed.

When the recently-arrived ambassador, Dr. Vladimir Procharka, went to see HST, some angry Czech exile picketeers were protesting outside the White House. . . . One of them, a tall, neatly dressed lady, was the wife of former Ambassador Slavik. . . . After her husband resigned, when the Communists took over in February of '48, the couple asked for political asylum and took a modest but comfortable house on 36th Street in Georgetown.

AUSTINE

Once they entertained in a luxurious embassy, next thing they were taking in roomers . . . the one-time ambassadress prepared all the food and the one-time ambassador did the marketing.

Then, the other day Madame Slavik dropped her pots and pans to join the picket line. . . . First time in history the wife of an ex-ambassador has picketed the White House.

Speaking of ex-ambassadresses, this week society planks down the red plush rug to welcome Maria Martins, wife of the ex-Brazilian ambassador to Washington . . . Senora Martins, a celebrated sculptress in her own right, rides high, wide and atop the wave since her husband's friend, President Vargas, swept back into office in Brazil's last election.

Ewald Named Classified Unit Head In Annual Chest Drive

Edward L. Ewald, commercial manager of the Potomac Edison Company, will head the Classified Section of the 1951 Community Chest and United Defense Fund (USO) campaign, according to an announcement yesterday morning by George L. Buchanan, general chairman.

The Red Feather campaign this year includes the county quota of $9,560 for the USO which with the needs of the nine Chest agencies brings the goal to $105,159.48, the largest since the combined funds of World War 2.

Ewald has been active in previous Chest and Red Cross campaigns. He is a member of the Rotary Club and member of its Board of Directors, a member of the Mercantile Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce and is serving on the Board of Central YMCA. He is a member of Centre Street Methodist Church and a member of the finance committee of the church.

Organized By Firm Size

The Classified Section of this year's campaign is being organized by size of firm rather than by business classifications.

"Business and industrial firms where there are more than eight employes, governmental offices and the public schools will be formed in groups of about 25 concerns," Ewald said.

"There will be eight groups of the larger business units and each group will be headed by a chairman who with a small committee will invite heads of the firms and offices to give fullest cooperation in presenting the appeal to the entire force.

"With the inclusion of the United Defense Fund which most of us think of as the USO, there are nine agencies receiving the support of every earner in our community. If there were ten separate campaigns, most everyone would give at least a dollar. What we hope is that this scale of giving can be reached in our united appeal," Ewald stated.

Budgets Investigated

The Classified chairman pointed out one of the greatest safeguards of the Community Chest has been that agency budgets have been carefully investigated by a committee appointed for that purpose. The United Defense Fund before it was recommended for inclusion in the Chest campaign this fall went through the same process of having to justify programs and proposed expenditures.

The nationwide goal for the United Defense Fund has been set at $18,624,854 and is to provide only for services directly related to the national emergency such as the reactivated United Service Organization (USO), limited advisory help for communities dislocated by emergency activities and limited aid to the destitute Korean refugees.

The campaign here will open early in October and be concluded within a two-week period.

IT'S ALL OVER NOW, and Japan's Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida settles back in an arm chair and enjoys a good cigar. Happy that his country is back in the society of nations after the signing of the Japanese peace treaty, Yoshida pledged anew faith that his people "would honor the trust accorded them in the peace treaty." IT'S ALL OVER NOW, and Japan's Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida settles back in an arm chair and enjoys a good cigar. Happy that his country is back in the society of nations after the signing of the Japanese peace treaty, Yoshida pledged anew faith that his people "would honor the trust accorded them in the peace treaty." ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

United Nations employes, some of whom have been accused as Communists, enjoy immunity from United States laws, since it operates as a country within a country. Last week a United Nations judiciary organ ordered the reinstatement of two employes fired by Secretary General Trgvye Lie. One of these employes was a woman who is an American editor for UN who was named in testimony before the Un-American Activities Committee of the House as a courier for a Communist ring.

On the eve of the Japan peace treaty negotiations in San Francisco, Associate Justice William O. Douglas announced after returning from a summer trip in the Far East near the Chinese border, that the United States should recognize Red China. Senator Tom Connally (D) of Texas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, denounced Mr. Douglas' statement with the comment he should stop making "fool statements." The feeling was general in Congress that this remark might be used to good advantage by the Russians and that a member of the Supreme Court should remain aloof from politics and policy-making.

Taxes are pinching everyone's pocketbook but in spite of high taxes the majority of American people make an honest computation and pay their taxes. Public indignation is rising over the recent revelation of corruption in the Bureau of Internal Revenue in widely scattered places over the country. These defections have shown up in St. Louis, Boston, New York, northern California and Wisconsin and include shakedowns of persons in tax difficulties, connivance with racketeers, failure to prosecute tax fraud cases where underworld characters were concerned, and accepting fees from firms under the official's jurisdiction. A recent survey revealed that in the last five years more than 230 employes of the Bureau of Internal Revenue have been dismissed.

The State Department has an office for Congressional Relations which is supposed to be a liaison between the department and members of Congress. Most Congressmen have not met any of the 27 State Department liaison officers. Testifying at an appropriations hearing, a representative of the liaison office could not give a detailed report of the work being done but stated that the office handled 6,300 pieces of mail in a year's time, an average of 31 letters a day for the 27 employes in that office.

A recent Congressional hearing disclosed that the Navy is paying $3,083.42 for its jeeps, while the Army pays $2,702 for jeeps. No explanation was given by the Defense Department. With the Department of Defense budget now over $60 billion for this year, the American people have a right to expect this money to be spent in a manner to get the most for its value.

UNDER THE DOME

I was advised by the Post Office Department that the extension of Rural Route 2 out of Cumberland will be authorized at the earliest possible date. This will provide service for the residents of Hinkle Road.

The National Production Authority approved the priority for the Cresaptown Civic Improvement Association to purchase a water tank for the town. I had asked for expeditious action on the application.

At the meeting of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin held at Bedford Springs, I acted as moderator. The discussion was in connection with the proposed C. and O. Canal Parkway.

For some time I have been in touch with the Wage Stabilization Board relative to the request of the management of a hotel in the District to increase wages for certain positions.. I was advised that the request has been worked out satisfactorily.

I delivered the charge to the Knights at the tournament of the Mechanicsville Fire Department at Mechanicsville.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

MRS. EDWARD B. CLARK

Mrs. Mary Minerva Clark, 74, wife of Edward B. Clark, 508 Columbia Avenue died yesterday morning in Memorial Hospital where she was admitted 22 days ago. She had been ill four months.

A native of Berkeley Springs, W. Va., Mrs. Clark came here 55 years ago. Her parents were the late Robert and Rebecca (Snyder) Johnston. She held membership in Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

Surviving, besides her husband, are a daughter, Mrs. Anthony Molinari, this city; three sisters, Mrs. Matilda Rice, Mrs. Helen Johnston and Mrs. Agnes Wilbert, all of Cumberland; three brothers, John T. Johnston, Pittsburgh; Lloyd and Charles Johnston, this city; five grandchildren and one great granddaughter.

The body is at the Kight Funeral Home. Services will be conducted Saturday at 2 p. m. in Emmanuel Episcopal Church by Rev. H. M. Richardson, rector. Burial will take place in Rose Hill Cemetery. The family requests that flowers be omitted.

MRS. EDWARD VINTON

Mrs. Blanche H. Vinton, 68, sister of George Humphreys, this city, died Monday at her home in Fairchance, Pa.

Rites were held yesterday afternoon from the Wagner-Cooley Funeral Home, Fairchance. Burial was in Maple Grove Cemetery there.

A daughter of the late Edward and Jane (Jordan) Humphreys, she held membership in Fairchance Presbyterian Church. Survivors include her husband, Edward Vinton; a son, Warren Vinton, at home, and another brother, Bruce Humphreys, Fairchance.

ERNEST L. SANTMYIRE

Services for Ernest Lloyd Santmyire, 61, RFD No. 1, Oldtown, machinist at the B. and O. backshops here, who died in Memorial Hospital Tuesday night as a result of a bullet wound of the right temple, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Oldtown Assembly of God Church. Rev. Harley Wigfield will officiate and burial will be in Woodrow, W. Va.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who investigated with State Trooper Robert Wolford, said the wound was self-inflicted with a .22 rifle.

Authorities said Santmyire left home about 6:15 and went to the barn, about 100 yards from the house. When he failed to return for supper, members of the family investigated. His son-in-law, Robert Herrell, found him at 7:15 in a sitting position in a hatchery section of his barn, with the weapon on his lap. The butt of the gun was against a door.

Born August 14, 1890, in Bloomery, Hampshire county, W. Va., the vicitm was a son of Thomas and Elizabeth (Allen) Santmyire. Survivors include his widow, the former Miss Mary A. Cowgill.

Also surviving are six daughters, Mrs. Lloyd Hardy, Paw Paw, W. Va.; Mrs. Howard Stansberry, Mrs. James Abe, Mrs. Robert Herrell and Mrs. Franklin DeVore, Oldtown, and Miss Cleo Santmyire, at home; three sons, William Franklin Santmyire, Wiley Ford, W. Va.; Pfc. Thomas L. Santmyire, USAF, Fort Knox, Ky., and Alvey Richard Santmyire, at home.

He leaves two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Bloch, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Roy Leach, Hancock; two brothers, John Santmyire, Reading, Pa., and James Santmyire, Berkeley Springs, W. Va., and 19 grandchildren.

The body will remain at the residence.

ROBERT K. DeVAULT

Robert Kenneth DeVault, 40, of Route 1, LaVale, died Tuesday afternoon in Allegany Hospital where he had been a patient since Monday.

Born August 14, 1911, in West Virginia, Mr. DeVault served in the Navy during World War II and was a member of Cumberland Aerie No. 245, F. O. Eagles, and Cumberland Lodge No. 271, L. O. O. Moose. He was a son of Mrs. Mary E. (Mills) DeVault and the late John W. DeVault.

In addition to his mother, he leaves two daughters, Miss Susan DeVault, York, Pa., and Miss Mary Virginia DeVault, this city; two sisters, Mrs. Laura Knoche, with whom he resided, and Mrs. Albert Jenkins, Grahamtown, and a brother, Harold DeVault, this city; seven nieces and seven nephews.

Mr. DeVault has been employed as a driver for the Engle Meat Market.

The body will remain at the Stein Funeral Home.

MRS. ELIZABETH TORBET

Mrs. Elizabeth Fred Torbet, 74, widow of James E. Torbet, died early yesterday at her residence, 405 Homer Street, after an illness of 18 months.

Mrs. Torbet was born in Lonaconing, a daughter of the late Joseph and Annie (Thompson) Laird. She held membership in Southminster Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are two sons, Millard M. and James E. Torbet, this city; two sisters, Mrs. Annie Dash, Charleroi, Pa., and Mrs. Minnie Dixon, Wilmington, Del., and six grandchildren. The family requests that flowers be omitted.

LAW FUNERAL

A requiem mass for Mrs. Marie Anna Law, 58, wife of Eugene W. Law, 206 Fulton Street, died Sunday at Allegany Hospital, was celebrated yesterday morning in St. Patrick's Catholic Church by Rev. Thomas A. Hardesty, assistant pastor. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Pallbearers were Olin Layman, Andrew H. Heller, Ralph Tewell, Hugh O'Rourke, Aaron Ruppert and Oscar Willard.

GEORGE M. CORBIN

PARSONS, W. Va. — Rites for George Martin Corbin, 80, retired painter and resident of Hendricks for many years, who died Monday night, were conducted yesterday afternoon from the Greenlief Funeral Home here by Rev. Robert L. Greynolds, pastor of St. John's Methodist Church. Burial was in McNeely Cemetery, Hendricks.

Born February 20, 1871, in Harrisonburg, Va., he was a son of the late John and Mary (Payne) Corbin. His wife, the former Stella Huffman, died December 25, 1946.

Surviving are two sons, Glavis Corbin, Petersburg, and Carl Corbin, Prestonburg, Ky.; a daughter, Mrs. Glee Swearingen, Baltimore; one brother, Osa Corbin, Staunton, Va., and 13 grandchildren.

MILLER SERVICES

KEYSER, W. Va.—Services for William Ernest Miller, Jr., 31, who was killed Saturday when he toppled from a steel gondola at the B. and O. westbound hump in Cumberland, were held Tuesday afternoon in Church of the Brethren here. Rev. Fred Bowman, pastor, officiated.

Nancy Hank Post No. 3515, Veterans of Foreign Wars, accorded military honors at the grave with Walter J. Cross in command. Color guards were Calvin Gillespie and Marvin Cole. The firing squad was composed of Charles Boyce, Arnold Staggs, L. C. Shuck, Harold Snyder and Roy VanMeter.

Color bearers included Chester Rotruck and J. L. Leary. Glenn Jackson sounded taps and I. N. Godfrey acted as chaplain.

Pallbearers were Chester Rotruck, Arnold Staggs, L. C. Shuck, Leon Wilkins, Charles Boyle and John O. Leary.

JUDY BURIAL

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—Garry Lee Judy, one-day-old son of Junior and Betty Jane (Hoopengarner) Judy, West Fairview Street, who died Monday at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser was buried Tuesday afternoon in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

Services at the Boal Funeral Home there were in charge of Rev. J. E. Dettra, pastor of Westernport Church of the Brethren.

MRS. NANCY C. RUBLE

ELK GARDEN, W. Va. — Mrs. Nancy Catherine Ruble, 86, formerly of Nethken, died here Tuesday at the home of her son, Henry Stonebraker, with whom she resided the past six weeks. She had been in failing health two years.

Born April 7, 1865, in Grant county, Mrs. Ruble was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abe Iman.

Thrice married, she was the widow of Solomon Isaac Ruble who died May 24, 1941. Her first husband was the late Harrison Stonebraker.

Surviving are seven other children, George Stonebraker, Shallmar, Md.; Mrs. Annie Dunithan and Mrs. Clara Liller, Elk Garden; Mrs. Bessie Shillingburg, Cross; Mrs. Rose Pownell, Dacota; Mrs. Bertie Landis, Baltimore, and Mrs. Esther Wilson, Kitzmiller, Md.; a sister, Mrs. Rhoda Hanlin, and one brother, Henry Iman, both of Mt. Storm; 34 grandchildren and 67 great grandchildren.

Mrs. Ruble also leaves ten stepchildren, Mrs. Jessie Tuel, Estel and Howard Ruble, Elk Garden; Mrs. Edna Matheny and Mrs. Freda Matheny, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio; Floyd Ruble, Freeport, Pa.; Mrs. Carrie Miskinio, Jefferson, Pa.; Technical Sgt. DEATHS and FUNERALS

MRS. EDWARD B. CLARK

Mrs. Mary Minerva Clark, 74, wife of Edward B. Clark, 508 Columbia Avenue died yesterday morning in Memorial Hospital where she was admitted 22 days ago. She had been ill four months.

A native of Berkeley Springs, W. Va., Mrs. Clark came here 55 years ago. Her parents were the late Robert and Rebecca (Snyder) Johnston. She held membership in Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

Surviving, besides her husband, are a daughter, Mrs. Anthony Molinari, this city; three sisters, Mrs. Matilda Rice, Mrs. Helen Johnston and Mrs. Agnes Wilbert, all of Cumberland; three brothers, John T. Johnston, Pittsburgh; Lloyd and Charles Johnston, this city; five grandchildren and one great granddaughter.

The body is at the Kight Funeral Home. Services will be conducted Saturday at 2 p. m. in Emmanuel Episcopal Church by Rev. H. M. Richardson, rector. Burial will take place in Rose Hill Cemetery. The family requests that flowers be omitted.

MRS. EDWARD VINTON

Mrs. Blanche H. Vinton, 68, sister of George Humphreys, this city, died Monday at her home in Fairchance, Pa.

Rites were held yesterday afternoon from the Wagner-Cooley Funeral Home, Fairchance. Burial was in Maple Grove Cemetery there.

A daughter of the late Edward and Jane (Jordan) Humphreys, she held membership in Fairchance Presbyterian Church. Survivors include her husband, Edward Vinton; a son, Warren Vinton, at home, and another brother, Bruce Humphreys, Fairchance.

ERNEST L. SANTMYIRE

Services for Ernest Lloyd Santmyire, 61, RFD No. 1, Oldtown, machinist at the B. and O. backshops here, who died in Memorial Hospital Tuesday night as a result of a bullet wound of the right temple, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Oldtown Assembly of God Church. Rev. Harley Wigfield will officiate and burial will be in Woodrow, W. Va.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who investigated with State Trooper Robert Wolford, said the wound was self-inflicted with a .22 rifle.

Authorities said Santmyire left home about 6:15 and went to the barn, about 100 yards from the house. When he failed to return for supper, members of the family investigated. His son-in-law, Robert Herrell, found him at 7:15 in a sitting position in a hatchery section of his barn, with the weapon on his lap. The butt of the gun was against a door.

Born August 14, 1890, in Bloomery, Hampshire county, W. Va., the vicitm was a son of Thomas and Elizabeth (Allen) Santmyire. Survivors include his widow, the former Miss Mary A. Cowgill.

Also surviving are six daughters, Mrs. Lloyd Hardy, Paw Paw, W. Va.; Mrs. Howard Stansberry, Mrs. James Abe, Mrs. Robert Herrell and Mrs. Franklin DeVore, Oldtown, and Miss Cleo Santmyire, at home; three sons, William Franklin Santmyire, Wiley Ford, W. Va.; Pfc. Thomas L. Santmyire, USAF, Fort Knox, Ky., and Alvey Richard Santmyire, at home.

He leaves two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Bloch, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Roy Leach, Hancock; two brothers, John Santmyire, Reading, Pa., and James Santmyire, Berkeley Springs, W. Va., and 19 grandchildren.

The body will remain at the residence.

ROBERT K. DeVAULT

Robert Kenneth DeVault, 40, of Route 1, LaVale, died Tuesday afternoon in Allegany Hospital where he had been a patient since Monday.

Born August 14, 1911, in West Virginia, Mr. DeVault served in the Navy during World War II and was a member of Cumberland Aerie No. 245, F. O. Eagles, and Cumberland Lodge No. 271, L. O. O. Moose. He was a son of Mrs. Mary E. (Mills) DeVault and the late John W. DeVault.

In addition to his mother, he leaves two daughters, Miss Susan DeVault, York, Pa., and Miss Mary Virginia DeVault, this city; two sisters, Mrs. Laura Knoche, with whom he resided, and Mrs. Albert Jenkins, Grahamtown, and a brother, Harold DeVault, this city; seven nieces and seven nephews.

Mr. DeVault has been employed as a driver for the Engle Meat Market.

The body will remain at the Stein Funeral Home.

MRS. ELIZABETH TORBET

Mrs. Elizabeth Fred Torbet, 74, widow of James E. Torbet, died early yesterday at her residence, 405 Homer Street, after an illness of 18 months.

Mrs. Torbet was born in Lonaconing, a daughter of the late Joseph and Annie (Thompson) Laird. She held membership in Southminster Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are two sons, Millard M. and James E. Torbet, this city; two sisters, Mrs. Annie Dash, Charleroi, Pa., and Mrs. Minnie Dixon, Wilmington, Del., and six grandchildren. The family requests that flowers be omitted.

LAW FUNERAL

A requiem mass for Mrs. Marie Anna Law, 58, wife of Eugene W. Law, 206 Fulton Street, died Sunday at Allegany Hospital, was celebrated yesterday morning in St. Patrick's Catholic Church by Rev. Thomas A. Hardesty, assistant pastor. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Pallbearers were Olin Layman, Andrew H. Heller, Ralph Tewell, Hugh O'Rourke, Aaron Ruppert and Oscar Willard.

GEORGE M. CORBIN

PARSONS, W. Va. — Rites for George Martin Corbin, 80, retired painter and resident of Hendricks for many years, who died Monday night, were conducted yesterday afternoon from the Greenlief Funeral Home here by Rev. Robert L. Greynolds, pastor of St. John's Methodist Church. Burial was in McNeely Cemetery, Hendricks.

Born February 20, 1871, in Harrisonburg, Va., he was a son of the late John and Mary (Payne) Corbin. His wife, the former Stella Huffman, died December 25, 1946.

Surviving are two sons, Glavis Corbin, Petersburg, and Carl Corbin, Prestonburg, Ky.; a daughter, Mrs. Glee Swearingen, Baltimore; one brother, Osa Corbin, Staunton, Va., and 13 grandchildren.

MILLER SERVICES

KEYSER, W. Va.—Services for William Ernest Miller, Jr., 31, who was killed Saturday when he toppled from a steel gondola at the B. and O. westbound hump in Cumberland, were held Tuesday afternoon in Church of the Brethren here. Rev. Fred Bowman, pastor, officiated.

Nancy Hank Post No. 3515, Veterans of Foreign Wars, accorded military honors at the grave with Walter J. Cross in command. Color guards were Calvin Gillespie and Marvin Cole. The firing squad was composed of Charles Boyce, Arnold Staggs, L. C. Shuck, Harold Snyder and Roy VanMeter.

Color bearers included Chester Rotruck and J. L. Leary. Glenn Jackson sounded taps and I. N. Godfrey acted as chaplain.

Pallbearers were Chester Rotruck, Arnold Staggs, L. C. Shuck, Leon Wilkins, Charles Boyle and John O. Leary.

JUDY BURIAL

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—Garry Lee Judy, one-day-old son of Junior and Betty Jane (Hoopengarner) Judy, West Fairview Street, who died Monday at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser was buried Tuesday afternoon in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

Services at the Boal Funeral Home there were in charge of Rev. J. E. Dettra, pastor of Westernport Church of the Brethren.

MRS. NANCY C. RUBLE

ELK GARDEN, W. Va. — Mrs. Nancy Catherine Ruble, 86, formerly of Nethken, died here Tuesday at the home of her son, Henry Stonebraker, with whom she resided the past six weeks. She had been in failing health two years.

Born April 7, 1865, in Grant county, Mrs. Ruble was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abe Iman.

Thrice married, she was the widow of Solomon Isaac Ruble who died May 24, 1941. Her first husband was the late Harrison Stonebraker.

Surviving are seven other children, George Stonebraker, Shallmar, Md.; Mrs. Annie Dunithan and Mrs. Clara Liller, Elk Garden; Mrs. Bessie Shillingburg, Cross; Mrs. Rose Pownell, Dacota; Mrs. Bertie Landis, Baltimore, and Mrs. Esther Wilson, Kitzmiller, Md.; a sister, Mrs. Rhoda Hanlin, and one brother, Henry Iman, both of Mt. Storm; 34 grandchildren and 67 great grandchildren.

Mrs. Ruble also leaves ten stepchildren, Mrs. Jessie Tuel, Estel and Howard Ruble, Elk Garden; Mrs. Edna Matheny and Mrs. Freda Matheny, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio; Floyd Ruble, Freeport, Pa.; Mrs. Carrie Miskinio, Jefferson, Pa.; Technical Sgt. Girl, 6, Sends Poem To Dead Brother's Outfit

NEWKIRK, Okla., Sept. 11—(AP)—Sgt. Lawrence James of Newkirk, Okla., didn't get to read the nice poem his 12-year-old sister wanted to send to him in Korea—but his buddies did.

Sharon Annette James saw the poem in a pamphlet she found at school and copied it, substituting her name throughout the verse.

Before Sharon could mail the poem, her family received word of his death. Her mother, Mrs. Lawrence James, felt that the little girl's thoughtfulness should not go to waste.

She mailed the poem to James' "outfit for the rest of the men to share."

First reports from Korea said Sharon had written the poem entitled "Thank You Soldier!" This apparently sprang from the fact that the little girl had copied the two-verse rhyme and substituted her own name in the key line to make it read:

"Sharon sends her thanks to Joe."

Mrs. James explained that Sharon had not claimed authorship but simply read the poem at school and liked the sentiment. The name of the author was not available here.

Sharon is a slender sixth grader with brown hair. She likes to read history books, collects toy dogs and has about 60. She plays the piano and likes to read.

"Sharon's favorite books are about history," Mrs. James said. "However, she likes other types and reads comic books too."

Sharon's father is a grain operator in this northern Oklahoma town near the Kansas border.

The average swordfish weighs over 200 pounds.

Need Of Civil Defense Cited By County Director Barger

The county director of Civil Defense, in a kickoff statement for Civil Defense Week said yesterday "the success of the program in event of attack or emergency is up to the cooperation of the individual citizen."

William G. Barger, LaVale, who heads the county setup, declared preparedness is only a small premium to pay against the staggerrisks of atomic warfare.

Civil defense is a job of civilians. In modern warfare civilians as well as soldiers bear the brunt of attack, he said, adding "the people at home must take care of the home front. You and your organizations make up a great portion of the home front."

"A basic problem confronting both the county and city Civil Defense officials is an apathy on the part of the public. Many confidently expect to be out of town in event of an emergency," Barger related. "Such will not be the case. You must learn what to do for yourself and your neighbor personally."

Here is where education takes on importance. During the observance of Civil Defense Week which began yesterday both county and city officials are attempting to bring to the home the importance of preparedness. This is being done through distribution of literature and poster displays.

No public demonstrations are planned here during the week.

Training and organization are key problems in the county's embryo program. Needed are health workers, rescue crews, engineering squads, welfare workers, firefighters, traffic police, telephonists, messengers, telegraphers, broadcasters, wardens, truck and car drivers, mechanics and staff workers.

Filling of these posts is the major concern, along with training, of area defense officials today. They need volunteers.

"You are responsible for Civil Defense," Barger said, adding "the whole idea is to help you protect yourself and to make the best use of your own special ability and skill in an emergency. Then you will be able to save yourself and others if trouble comes."

Only golfer to break 70 in the 1934 Open at Merion was Tom Creavy. He shot a 66.

Need Of Civil Defense Cited By County Director Barger

The county director of Civil Defense, in a kickoff statement for Civil Defense Week said yesterday "the success of the program in event of attack or emergency is up to the cooperation of the individual citizen."

William G. Barger, LaVale, who heads the county setup, declared preparedness is only a small premium to pay against the staggering risks of atomic warfare.

Civil defense is a job of civilians. In modern warfare civilians as well as soldiers bear the brunt of attack, he said, adding "the people at home must take care of the home front. You and your organizations make up a great portion of the home front."

"A basic problem confronting both the county and city Civil Defense officials is an apathy on the part of the public. Many confidently expect to be out of town in event of an emergency," Barger related. "Such will not be the case. You must learn what to do for yourself and your neighbor personally."

Here is where education takes on importance. During the observance of Civil Defense Week which began yesterday both county and city officials are attempting to bring to the home the importance of preparedness. This is being done through distribution of literature and poster displays.

No public demonstrations are planned here during the week.

Training and organization are key problems in the county's embryo program. Needed are health workers, rescue crews, engineering squads, welfare workers, firefighters, traffic police, telephonists, messengers, telegraphers, broadcasters, wardens, truck and car drivers, mechanics and staff workers.

Filling of these posts is the major concern, along with training, of area defense officials today. They need volunteers.

"You are responsible for Civil Defense," Barger said, adding "the whole idea is to help you protect yourself and to make the best use of your own special ability and skill in an emergency. Then you will be able to save yourself and others if trouble comes."

Only golfer to break 70 in the 1934 Open at Merion was Tom Creavy. He shot a 66.

Hercules, C & P Are Victors; Robinson Regains Title

Finalists Will Meet Tonight At Penn Ave.

Elks And Eagles Lose 9-1, 5-0; Gate Is $106.25

Hercules Powder Company and C&P Telephone tossers eliminated the two Rocking Chair League entries to advance to the finals of the first annual Western Maryland Invitational Softball Tournament last night at Penn Avenue field.

The Phone Company nine reversed the procedure against the Eagles' shutout ace, Allan Sheetz, by blanking the Birds, 3-0 in the opener of the semi-final twin bill last night. Frank Toler batted and pitched his Hercules mates to an easy triumph over the Elks in the second tilt, 9-1.

Meet Tonight

The two teams will meet in the finals of the tournament in the first game of a tripleheader scheduled tonight at the South End field. Game time will be 6 p. m.

City Rec Director Ed Hoey reported 391 paid admissions witnessed the contests and the gate receipts of $106.25 brought the three-day total to $232.10 toward the formation of a new baseball league for 15 and 16 year olds next season.

In last night's opener the Phone Company got to Sheetz's offerings early and tallied three runs in the first and added two more in the third to coast to victory behind Hayden Phillips' five-hit whitewashing.

Smith smashed out a three-bagger and Buddy Giles a double to pace the winners' attack while Lou Riehl banged Phillips for three of the losers' bingles, including a two-base blow. Phillips walked only one and struck out four in blanking the Rocking Chair champions.

Toler Pounds Ball

In the nightcap, Toler walloped a triple and two home runs, batting in six runs and scoring three himself as the Hercules Powder team easily turned back the Elks. Toler allowed his opponents only five hits with rival hurler, Bill Underdonk, smashing a fourth inning circuit clout to spoil his shutout bid. The winners raked the offerings of Underdonk for 12 safeties including a double by Frank Urbas in addition to Toler's three extra-base wallops. Bob Pence hit a double for the losers.

In the other attractions offered in tonight's three-star bill B'nai B'rith and the Lions will meet at 7:30 p. m. in the final game for the Hot Stove League championship and at 9 o'clock the Amvets and Cunningham's collide in the second of their three-game championship series for the Men's Rec League title.

Red Sox Edge Detroit, 2-1, Gain In Race

Pesky's 10th Inning Triple Beats Gray

BOSTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox pitcked up a half game on the idling Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees by sweeping a two-game series with the Detroit Tigers today with a 10-inning 2-1 decision.

The third-place Boston forces now are four and a half games back of the Indians and three and a half behind the Yanks.

Both hurlers had given but four hits until the Pesky-Vollmer combine decided the final Boston-Detroit contest of the season.

While gaining a 12-10 season edge over the Tigers, the Red Sox wound up with a 5-1 record against Gray's offerings. Box:

Ted Schroeder Tops McGregor

Aussie Is Defeated In Five-Set Match

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12 (INS) — Ted Schroeder today defeated Australia's Ken McGregor in a sizzling five-set quarter final match in the 25th annual Pacific Southwest championships.

Schroeder notched his hard-won victory by scores of 6-4, 0-6, 6-3, 5-7 and 6-2.

It was the rubber match between the two netters. McGregor won their first meeting in Davis Cup play last year and Schroeder evened the score with a five-set victory in the Pacific Southwest tourney last year.

Schroeder's opponent in Friday's semi finals will be top seeded domestic ace, Tony Trabert, of Cincinnati, who today eliminated "Upset Kid" Harry Likas, of San Francisco, 6-0, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2.

Likas had gained the quarters by upsetting first Mervyn Rose of the Australian Davis Cup team, and then Budge Patty, U. S. Davis Cupper.

Frank Sedgman, the sole surviving member of the Australian Davis Cup team, meets 1950 U. S. singles king Art Larsen, of San Francisco, in tomorrow's feature quarter-final match.

The other quarter final test tomorrow pits Herb Flam, of Beverly Hills, who was bypassed by U. S. Davis Cup officials, against Philadelphia's Vic Seixas.

Thomas Loses Grid Opener

PARSONS, W. Va., Sept. 11—Thomas High School Bears opened their football season with Rowlesburg last week, losing 47-7. Their other games scheduled for this year include Petersburg at home, Sept. 14; Moorefield, away, Sept. 21; Circlesville, away, Sept. 28; Parsons, at home, Oct. 3; Terra Alta, Oct. 12, away and Pruntytown at home on Oct. 20.

Ed Supak, new coach of Thomas this year reported the following members on his squad:

Buzz Yeager, Eddie Quattro, Pete Natale, Elliot Ours, Bill Snyder, Glenn Shephard, Leonard Trenanto, Don Huffman, James Hamner and Robert Pase, all lettermen.

Topper Wins Top Flight Golf Match

John Topper defeated Judge Morgan C. Harris 5 and 4 yesterday in a championship flight golf match in the Cumberland Country Club's men's fall tournament.

In other matches George Young defeated Dr. Frank Cawley 1 up in 18 holes in a first flight match; Fritz Eiler edged Cy Bowers 1 up in 23 holes and Stanley Jacobson defeated R. E. Guard 5 and 4 in second flight rounds; and Charles Pinto won over Lee Cohn 3 and 1 in a third flight match.

Beard Wins First "Player" Nomination

Richard Beard, fleet halfback on Coach Bill Hahn's Fort Hill High football team, captured the first "Player of the Week" award given each season by Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus for the outstanding local gridder to perform in the Fort Hill Stadium each week.

Beard was nominated for his outstanding play against Moorefield High in last week's 20-7 decision for the Sentinels in which the halfback tallied two touchdowns and two extra points.

He won the nod over teammate Bill Lee by also sparkling on defense for Fort Hill. Beard won the title once last year.

Art Houtteman To Be Released

Former Tiger Star In Army Hospital

CAMP PICKETT, Va., Sept. 12 (AP)—Art Houtteman, former Detroit Tigers' pitching ace, will be released from the army this weekend.

Officials of the 43rd Infantry Division, stationed at Camp Pickett, announced several days ago that Houtteman would be given a medical discharge for a disability incurred prior to his induction last fall. They said today his separation would be completed by Sunday.

In recent weeks, the 24-year-old righthander has been under observation at the post hospital.

Houtteman suffered critical injuries in an automobile collision at Lakeland, Fla., during the 1949 spring training season.

However, he recovered quickly and turned in 15 victories for the Tigers that year.

Last season, the willowy six-foot-two chunker won 19 while dropping 12 for the second place Bengals.

At Camp Pickett, Pfc. Houtteman was the star of the 43rd Infantry Division team which captured the Virginia State semipro championship.

Romney To Play Six Away, Opens At Berkeley Today

Indians In PVC Bow In Contest At 2 P. M.

Romney High School's Pioneers will launch their 1951 football campaign today by playing the Berkeley Springs High School Indians at Berkeley Springs, W. Va., at 2 p. m.

It will be the first Potomac Valley Conference game of the season for Coach Richard "Dick" McElwee's Hampshire Countains and the game will also mark Berkeley Springs' debut in the West Virginia grid circuit. Berkeley was admitted to membership at the February meeting of the conference at Davis, W. Va.

Undefeated Last Year

Last year, Romney had an undefeated team that won nine games and tied one. In fact, the 1950 eleven rolled up a grand total of 376 points in 10 games, believed to be an all-time scoring record for a high school team in the tri-state district. In 1949 the Pioneers scored nine wins against a single loss and in 1947 and 1948 Romney elevens won 7 and lost 3 each season. During the four consecutive successful seasons the school's football record is 32 wins, 7 losses and one tie.

First stringers of last year's unbeaten team back in uniform are: David Heare, quarterback; Orville "Teenie" Payne, halfback; Gerald Parker and Dick Everett, ends, and Charles Shahan, guard.

Play Six Games Away

The Pioneers are scheduled to play nine games, six of which will be played on the home field. The home games are with Franklin, Ridgeley and Farmington. All are slated to start at 1:45.

Conference opponents are Berkeley Springs, Franklin, Moorefield, Ridgeley and Parsons. Last year Romney shared the conference championship with Moorefield.

The only night game on Romney's card is with Homer Fizer's University High eleven at Morgantown, Friday, October 12. Romney defeated UHS last year by the score of 32-7.

Here's Romney's complete 1951 card with scores of last year's games in brackets:

Sept. 13—Berkeley (46-13), away.
Sept. 21—Charles Town (49-0) away.
Sept. 28—Franklin (39-0), home.

LaSalle Host To Pittsburgh Team At Stadium Tomorrow

St. Wendelin Opposes Locals In Opener

Coach Phil Carolan's LaSalle High Explorers will open their 1951 grid campaign by playing host to St. Wendelin's High of Pittsburgh, Pa., tomorrow at Fort Hill Stadium. Game time will be 8 p. m.

LaSalle has nine returning lettermen while the visiting eleven will be composed also of nine seniors and lettermen.

The Pittsburgh squad will be opening its season here and is headed by Coach Wilbert Rall and assistant coach Ben Gigliotti. St. Wendelin defeated LaSalle 25-6 in their first meeting last season.

The 1950 Pittsburgh team captured five of seven decisions and will play another seven-game schedule this year.

Coach Rall is expected to bring a squad of 37 players to Cumberland and has indicated his tentative starting lineup will compose of Tilberry and Hiener at ends; Miller and Bauman at tackles; Jackson and McKibben at guards; Jansky at center and W. Winans, E. Zuzak, Malloy and C. Winans in the backfield. Rall reports his squad is green and inexperienced. The starting line will average 157 pounds in weight and the backfield 151.

Coach Carolan announced yesterday Jim O'Rourke, senior guard, will be LaSalle's acting captain for the opener.

Saturday Linsly Military Institute of Wheeling, W. Va., will visit the local stadium to meet Coach Bill Hahn's championship Fort Hill High eleven. It will be the opening tilt for the West Virginians while Fort Hill will be playing their second game at the Greenway Avenue oval. Game time will be 8 p. m.

Also on Saturday, Cumberland third entry, Allegany High, will begin its campaign by traveling to Frostburg for an afternoon session with Coach Joe Hoopengardner's Beall High eleven. The game will start at 2:30.

LASALLE CAPTAIN — James "Salty" O'Rourke, LaSalle High School guard, has been named acting captain for the Explorers' opening football game tomorrow night at Fort Hill stadium with St. Wendelin's High of Pittsburgh, Pa. Jim is a senior and a letterman playing his third season of varsity ball for the locals. He stands five feet seven inches tall and weighs 135 pounds.

Red Sox Capture Tri-Towns Title

The Red Sox defeated the Cardinals in the third and final game of their series yesterday at Westernport to capture the Tri-Towns Little League title by a score of 8 to 2.

Raines hurled six-hit ball and struck out eight to pace the winners. Fazenbaker, Scalletta and Barracks each had two hits for the Red Sox while Creasy banged a triple for the Cards. The score:

RED SOX ..... 025 001—8 8 3
CARDINALS ..... 000 020—2 6 8

Raines and Barracks. Delilo, Niland (3) and Wilson.

Sugar Ray Wins TKO In Tenth

Middleweight Bout Stopped By Referee With 8 Seconds Left

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, suddenly turned killer by blood streaming from his left eye, won back his world middleweight title from Britain's Randy Turpin tonight on a technical knockout with a violent attack that forced Referee Ruby Goldstein to stop the fight at 2:52 of the tenth round.

Unleasing the full fury of his bombs after the sturdy Briton opened the gash over his left eye, the sleek Harlem Sugar Ray shot the works in one furious burst that yanked to its feet the sellout crowd of over 65,000 at the Polo Grounds.

One thunderous right to the head, coming out of a flurry of blows caved Turpin's tricky defense. Down went the 23-year-old Negro on his back. Taking full advantage of the count he scraped himself off the deck at nine.

But Robinson, who lost his 160-pound crown in a tremendous upset in London July 10, was not to be denied. Pinning Turpin against the ropes with the fury of his drive, he rained blow after blow at the reeling champion.

All Randy could do was twist his head. He couldn't even raise his hands to ward off the stunning blows.

It seemed as though his head surely must be torn from his shoulders by the enraged slasher.

Goldstein peered closely at badly damaged Randy—but still the blows continued in relentless attack. Just when Randy appeared ready to pitch forward on his face, the referee stopped it. At the end Turpin reeled forward wildly and almost sank to his knees.

Dodgers, All-Stars Play 8-8 Deadlock

The Dodgers, Cumberland Little League champions, and the Penn-Mar Little League All-Stars battled to an 8-8 deadlock yesterday at Stitcher field in a game halted because of darkness.

Witt and Martz paced the visitors with three hits apiece, the latter getting a homerun. Fair's three bingles, including a circuit smash topped the Dodgers' attack.

No arrangements have been set for the playoff of the contest, Manager Bill Buzzard of the Dodgers announced last night. The score:

PEN-MAR ..... 010 331—8 9 2
DODGERS ..... 014 102—8 10 7

Martz, Glass (4) and Jamison. Cave and Fair.

Seagram's 7 Crown. Blended Whiskey. 86.8 Proof. 65% Grain Neutral Spirits. Seagram-Distillers Corporation, Chrysler Building, New York.

Hercules, C & P Are Victors; Robinson Regains Title

Finalists Will Meet Tonight At Penn Ave.

Elks And Eagles Lose 9-1, 5-0; Gate Is $106.25

Hercules Powder Company and C&P Telephone losers eliminated the two Rocking Chair League entries to advance to the finals of the first annual Western Maryland Invitational Softball Tournament last night at Penn Avenue field.

The Phone Company nine reversed the procedure against the Eagles' shutout ace, Allen Sheetz, by blanking the Birds, 5-0 in the opener of the semi-final twin bill last night. Frank Tuler batted and pitched his Hercules mates to an easy triumph over the Elks in the second tilt, 9-1.

Meet Tonight

The two teams will meet in the finals of the tournament in the first game of a tripleheader scheduled tonight at the South End field. Game time will be 6 p. m.

City Rec Director Ed Hoey reported 350 paid admissions witnessed the contests and the gate receipts of $106.25 brought the three-day total to $282.10 toward the formation of a new baseball league for 15 and 16 year olds next season.

In last night's opener the Phone Company got to Sheetz's offerings early and tallied three runs in the first and added two more in the third to coast to victory behind Hayden Phillips' five-hit whitewashing.

Smith smashed out a three-bagger and Buddy Giles a double to pace the winners' attack while Lou Kotil banged Phillips for three of the losers' singles, including a two-base blow. Phillips walked only one and struck out four in blanking the Rocking Chair champions.

Tuler Pounds Ball

In the nightcap, Tuler walloped a triple and two home runs, batting in six runs and scoring three himself as the Hercules Powder team easily turned back the Elks. Tuler allowed his opponents only five hits with rival hurler, Bill Underdonk, smashing a fourth inning circuit clout to spoil his shutout bid. The winners raked the offerings of Underdonk for 12 safeties including a double by Frank Urbas in addition to Tuler's three extra-base wallops. Bob Feiser hit a double for the losers.

In the other attractions offered in tonight's three-star bill B'nai B'rith and the Lions will meet at 7:30 p. m. in the final game for the Hot Stove League championship and at 9 o'clock the Amvets and Cunningham's collide in the second of their three-game championship series for the Men's Rec League title.

Thomas Loses Grid Opener

PARSONS, W. Va., Sept. 11—Thomas High School Boats opened their football season with Rowlesburg last week, losing 47-7. Their other games scheduled for this year include Petersburg at home, Sept. 28; Moorefield, away, Sept. 21; Circleville, away, Sept. 28; Parsons, at home, Oct. 5; Terra Alta, Oct. 12, away and Pruntytown at home on Oct. 26.

Ed Supak, new coach of Thomas this year reported the following members on his squad:

Russ Yeager, Eddie Quattro, Pete Statak, Elliot Ours, Bill Snyder, Glenn Shepheard, Leonard Tremaine, Don Huffman, James Hammer and Robert Pase, all lettermen.

Topper Wins Top Flight Golf Match

John Topper defeated Judge Morgan C. Harris 3 and 4 yesterday in a championship flight golf match in the Cumberland Country Club's men's fall tournament.

In other matches George Young defeated Dr. Frank Cawley 1 up in 19 holes in a first flight match; Fritz Eller edged Cy Bowers 1 up in 20 holes and Stanley Jacobson defeated R. E. Guard 3 and 4 in second flight rounds; and Charles Pinto won over Lee Cohn 3 and 1 in a third flight match.

Beard Wins First "Player" Nomination

Richard Beard, fleet halfback on Coach Bill Hahn's Fort Hill High football team, captured the first "Player of the Week" award given each season by Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus for the outstanding local gridder to perform in the Fort Hill Stadium each week.

Beard was nominated for his outstanding play against Moorefield High in last week's 20-7 decision for the Sentinels in which the halfback tallied two touchdowns and two extra points.

He won the nod over teammate Bill Lee by also sparkling on defense for Fort Hill. Beard won the title once last year.

Red Sox Edge Detroit, 2-1, Gain In Race

Pesky's 10th Inning Triple Beats Gray

BOSTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox pitched up a half game on the idling Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees by sweeping a two-game series with the Detroit Tigers today with a 10-inning 2-1 decision.

The third-place Boston forces now are four and a half games back of the Indians and three and a half behind the Yanks.

Both hurlers had given but four hits until the Pesky-Vollmer combine decided the final Boston-Detroit contest of the season.

While gaining a 12-10 season edge over the Tigers, the Red Sox wound up with a 5-1 record against Gray's offerings. Box:

Ted Schroeder Tops McGregor

Aussie Is Defeated In Five-Set Match

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12 (INS) — Ted Schroeder today defeated Australia's Ken McGregor in a sizzling five-set quarter final match in the 25th annual Pacific Southwest championships.

Schroeder notched his hard-won victory by scores of 6-4, 0-6, 6-3, 5-7 and 6-2.

It was the rubber match between the two netters. McGregor won their first meeting in Davis Cup play last year and Schroeder evened the score with a five-set victory in the Pacific Southwest tourney last year.

Schroeder's opponent in Friday's semi finals will be top seeded domestic ace, Tony Trabert, of Cincinnati, who today eliminated "Upset Kid" Harry Likas, of San Francisco, 6-0, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2.

Likas had gained the quarters by upsetting first Mervyn Rose of the Australian Davis Cup team, and then Budge Patty, U. S. Davis Cupper.

Frank Sedgman, the sole surviving member of the Australian Davis Cup team, meets 1950 U. S. singles king Art Larsen, of San Francisco, in tomorrow's feature quarter-final match.

The other quarter final test tomorrow pits Herb Flam, of Beverly Hills, who was bypassed by U. S. Davis Cup officials, against Philadelphia's Vic Seixas.

Pierce Wins 13th

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—(AP)—Billy Pierce scattered six Washington hits in pitching the Chicago White Sox to a 3-0 victory tonight. The win was the lefthander's 13th and gave Chicago a 14-8 record over the Senators for the season. Score:

Art Houtteman To Be Released

Former Tiger Star In Army Hospital

CAMP PICKETT, Va., Sept. 12 (AP)—Art Houtteman, former Detroit Tigers' pitching ace, will be released from the army this weekend.

Officials of the 43rd Infantry Division, stationed at Camp Pickett, announced several days ago that Houtteman would be given a medical discharge for a disability incurred prior go his induction last fall. They said today his separation would be completed by Sunday.

In recent weeks, the 24-year-old righthander has been under observation at the post hospital.

Houtteman suffered critical injuries in an automobile collision at Lakeland, Fla., during the 1949 spring training season.

However, he recovered quickly and turned in 15 victories for the Tigers that year.

Last season, the willowy six-foot-two chunker won 19 while dropping 12 for the second place Bengals.

At Camp Pickett, Pfc. Houtteman was the star of the 43rd Infantry Division team which captured the Virginia State semipro championship.

Romney To Play Six Away, Opens At Berkeley Today

Indians In PVC Bow In Contest At 2 P. M.

Romney High School's Pioneers will launch their 1951 football campaign today by playing the Berkeley Springs High School Indians at Berkeley Springs, W. Va., at 2 p. m.

It will be the first Potomac Valley Conference game of the season for Coach Richard "Dick" McElwee's Hampshire Countains and the game will also mark Berkeley Springs' debut in the West Virginia grid circuit. Berkeley was admitted to membership at the February meeting of the conference at Davis, W. Va.

Undefeated Last Year

Last year, Romney had an undefeated team that won nine games and tied one. In fact, the 1950 eleven rolled up a grand total of 376 points in 10 games, believed to be an all-time scoring record for a high school team in the tri-state district. In 1949 the Pioneers scored nine wins against a single loss and in 1947 and 1948 Romney elevens won 7 and lost 3 each season. During the four consecutive successful seasons the school's football record is 32 wins, 7 losses and one tie.

First stringers of last year's unbeaten team back in uniform are: David Heare, quarterback; Orville "Teenie" Payne, halfback; Gerald Parker and Dick Everett, ends, and Charles Shahan, guard.

Play Six Games Away

The Pioneers are scheduled to play nine games, six of which will be played on the home field. The home games are with Franklin, Ridgeley and Farmington. All are slated to start at 1:45.

Conference opponents are Berkeley Springs, Franklin, Moorefield, Ridgeley and Parsons. Last year Romney shared the conference championship with Moorefield.

The only night game on Romney's card is with Homer Fizer's University High eleven at Morgantown, Friday, October 12. Romney defeated UHS last year by the score of 32-7.

Here's Romney's complete 1951 card with scores of last year's games in brackets:

Sept. 13—Berkeley (46-13), away.
Sept. 21—Charles Town (49-0) away.
Sept. 28—Franklin (39-0), home.
Oct. 5—Moorefield (0-0) away.
*Oct. 12—UHS Morgantown (32-7), away.
Oct. 26—Beall, Frostburg (DNP), away.
Oct. 26—Ridgeley (35-6), home.

LaSalle Host To Pittsburgh Team At Stadium Tomorrow

St. Wendelin Opposes Locals In Opener

Coach Phil Carolan's LaSalle High Explorers will open their 1951 grid campaign by playing host to St. Wendelin's High of Pittsburgh, Pa., tomorrow at Fort Hill Stadium. Game time will be 8 p. m.

LaSalle has nine returning lettermen while the visiting eleven will be composed also of nine seniors and lettermen.

The Pittsburgh squad will be opening its season here and is headed by Coach Wilbert Rall and assistant coach Ben Gigliotti. St. Wendelin defeated LaSalle 25-6 in their first meeting last season.

The 1950 Pittsburgh team captured five of seven decisions and will play another seven-game schedule this year.

Coach Rall is expected to bring a squad of 37 players to Cumberland and has indicated his tentative starting lineup will compose of Tilberry and Hiener at ends; Miller and Bauman at tackles; Jackson and McKibben at guards; Jansky at center and W. Winans, E. Zuzak, Malloy and C. Winans in the backfield. Rall reports his squad is green and inexperienced. The starting line will average 157 pounds in weight and the backfield 151.

Coach Carolan announced yesterday Jim O'Rourke, senior guard, will be LaSalle's acting captain for the opener.

Saturday Linsly Military Institute of Wheeling, W. Va., will visit the local stadium to meet Coach Bill Hahn's championship Fort Hill High eleven. It will be the opening tilt for the West Virginians while Fort Hill will be playing their second game at the Greenway Avenue oval. Game time will be 8 p. m.

Also on Saturday, Cumberland third entry, Allegany High, will begin its campaign by traveling to Frostburg for an afternoon session with Coach Joe Hoopengardner's Beall High eleven. The game will start at 2:30.

LASALLE CAPTAIN — James "Salty" O'Rourke, LaSalle High School guard, has been named acting captain for the Explorers' opening football game tomorrow night at Fort Hill stadium with St. Wendelin's High of Pittsburgh, Pa. Jim is a senior and a letterman playing his third season of varsity ball for the locals. He stands five feet seven inches tall and weighs 135 pounds.

Red Sox Capture Tri-Towns Title

The Red Sox defeated the Cardinals in the third and final game of their series yesterday at Westernport to capture the Tri-Towns Little League title by a score of 8 to 2.

Raines hurled six-hit ball and struck out eight to pace the winners. Fazenbaker, Scalletta and Barracks each had two hits for the Red Sox while Creasy banged a triple for the Cards. The score:

RED SOX ..... 025 001—8 8 3
CARDINALS ..... 000 020—2 6 8
Raines and Barracks. Delilo, Niland (3) and Wilson.

Sugar Ray Wins TKO In Tenth

Middleweight Bout Stopped By Referee With 8 Seconds Left

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, suddenly turned killer by blood streaming from his left eye, won back his world middleweight title from Britain's Randy Turpin tonight on a technical knockout with a violent attack that forced Referee Ruby Goldstein to stop the fight at 2:52 of the tenth round.

Unleasing the full fury of his bombs after the sturdy Briton opened the gash over his left eye, the sleek Harlem Sugar Ray shot the works in one furious burst that yanked to its feet the sellout crowd of over 65,000 at the Polo Grounds.

One thunderous right to the head, coming out of a flurry of blows caved Turpin's tricky defense. Down went the 23-year-old Negro on his back. Taking full advantage of the count he scraped himself off the deck at nine.

But Robinson, who lost his 160-pound crown in a tremendous upset in London July 10, was not to be denied. Pinning Turpin against the ropes with the fury of his drive, he rained blow after blow at the reeling champion.

All Randy could do was twist his head. He couldn't even raise his hands to ward off the stunning blows.

It seemed as though his head surely must be torn from his shoulders by the enraged slasher.

Goldstein peered closely at badly damaged Randy—but still the blows continued in relentless attack. Just when Randy appeared ready to pitch forward on his face, the referee stopped it. At the end Turpin reeled forward wildly and almost sank to his knees.

Dodgers, All-Stars Play 8-8 Deadlock

The Dodgers, Cumberland Little League champions, and the Pen-Mar Little League All-Stars battled to an 8-8 deadlock yesterday at Stitcher field in a game halted because of darkness.

Witt and Martz paced the visitors with three hits apiece, the latter getting a homerun. Fair's three bingles, including a circuit smash topped the Dodgers' attack.

No arrangements have been set for the playoff of the contest, Manager Bill Buzzard of the Dodgers announced last night. The score:

PEN-MAR ..... 010 331—8 9 2
DODGERS ..... 014 102—8 10 7
Martz, Glass (4) and Jamison. Cave and Fair.

Indian Land Wins Fourth Race In Row

Scores Easily In Aqueduct Handicap

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP) — Turning loose a cyclonic charge at the eighth pole, Lee McCoy's Indian Land raced to his fourth straight victory in winning the 34th edition of the Babylon Handicap, a six furlong race for 2-year-olds, before 19,409 fans at Aqueduct Race track today.

The son of Tintagel-Indian Song scored by two and a quarter lengths over Mrs. John L. Knight's Daybrook, who set most of the pace. In third place another length and a quarter back came George D. Widener's Main Line, who won the show end of the purse by a length to the good by Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Whither, coupled with First Refusal, as the race favorite at 5-2.

Indian Land, toting 119 pounds, got five pounds from Baybrook. With Ovie Scurlock in the Irons, the colt stepped the six furlongs in 1:12 2-5.

The victory was worth $10,300 to McCoy, former stable foreman for Vanderbilt. In winning seven races, finishing second twice and third twice in 15 starts, the colt now has total earnings of $27,375.

Baybrook, winner of a stake at Washington Park, broke on top and lead for a quarter miles before being joined by both First Refusal and Whither. Three furlongs from home, Baybrook shook off First Refusal and assumed a clear lead. Indian Land, sixth in the early running, moved up strongly on the outside. Fourth at the eighth pole, he was set down hard and responded gamely to win going away.

Evicted Is Winner.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 12 (AP) — William G. Helis, Jr's Evicted won the $4,000 Invitation Handicap, mile and a sixteenth feature event at Atlantic City today. Installed an even money favorite by the crowd of 11,693 the 3-year-old colt was all out to hold off Mrs. Ellsworth H. Augustus' Euclid in a head photo finish.

The invitation was an innovation at the local race course with the starting field drawn from a list of 24 invited candidates previously weighted by Racing Secretary W. R. (Duke) Dahlstrom.

Seven starters accepted the bid with H. W. Staffer's Milldale earning the third money 4½ lengths away from Euclid. H. W. Fincher's Dooly was fourth.

Indian Land Wins Fourth Race In Row

Scores Easily In Aqueduct Handicap

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP) — Turning loose a cyclonic charge at the eighth pole, Lee McCoy's Indian Land raced to his fourth straight victory in winning the 34th edition of the Babylon Handicap, a six furlong race for 2-year-olds, before 16,409 fans at Aqueduct Race track today.

The son of Tintagel-Indian Song scored by two and a quarter lengths over Mrs. John L. Knight's Daybrook, who set most of the pace. In third place another length and a quarter back came George D. Widener's Main Line, who won the show end of the purse by a length to the good by Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Whither, coupled with First Refusal, as the race favorite at 5-2.

Indian Land, toting 119 pounds, got five pounds from Baybrook. With Ovie Scurlock in the Irons, the colt stepped the six furlongs in 1:12 2-5.

The victory was worth $10,300 to McCoy, former stable foreman for Vanderbilt. In winning seven races, finishing second twice and third twice in 15 starts, the colt now has total earnings of $27,375.

Baybrook, winner of a stake at Washington Park, broke on top and lead for a quarter miles before being joined by both First Refusal and Whither. Three furlongs from home, Baybrook shook off First Refusal and assumed a clear lead. Indian Land, sixth in the early running, moved up strongly on the outside. Fourth at the eighth pole, he was set down hard and responded gamely to win going away.

Evicted Is Winner.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 12 (AP) — William G. Helis, Jr's Evicted won the $4,000 Invitation Handicap, mile and a sixteenth feature event at Atlantic City today. Installed an even money favorite by the crowd of 11,693 the 3-year-old colt was all out to hold off Mrs. Ellsworth H. Augustus' Euclid in a head photo finish.

The invitation was an innovation at the local race course with the starting field drawn from a list of 24 invited candidates previously weighted by Racing Secretary W. R. (Duke) Dahlstrom.

Seven starters accepted the bid with H. W. Staffer's Mildale earning the third money 4½ lengths away from Euclid. H. W. Fincher's Dooly was fourth.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(INS)—The passing show:

Sure was a thrill to see those great conquerors of Japan ,such as Haiti, Colombia, Liberia and Graustark, step up and sign the peace treaty.

Some of the signatories confined their offensive against Japan to destroying all Japanese kewpie dolls at the corner store.

U.S., British and Canadian A-bomb experts are meeting this week in Washington to swap ideas, pass around new discoveries, and standardize their security regulations.

It would be rude to suggest that the delegates submit to a frisk as they enter the conference rooms. But hardly unreasonable. Last time they met in Washington—in November, 1947—one of the members of the British team was Dr. Klaus Fuchs, though his name had been found in the seized papers of Dr. Allan Nunn May, the Canadian scientist who had by that time been jailed as a Soviet spy.

"I am convinced that, looking at the Hiss case in the future, men will say that the significant thing about it was not the espionage revealed," writes Whittaker Chambers in a rare story in the current "Catholic Digest."

"Really significant was the way in which it divided the sheep from the goats. It was the way in which, in general, the 'big' people and the 'nice' people rushed hysterically to the defense of Alger Hiss and the way in which average Americans watched the case develop and slowly made up their minds on the basis of the facts disclosed.

"This showed, for one thing, that the average man was more intelligent than the intelligentsia. It showed what an American is. The people who were for Alger Hiss . . . formed an exclusive party, the party of betrayal.

"In the future, in that war for survival in which we are now engaged,, whether we wish to face the fact or not, they will be in favor of appeasement even when the last American is manning the last foxhole. Their tragedy, and that of the country is that they do not know what America is and never will. They do not really believe in America because they do not really understand its peoples.

"They do not really believe in freedom because they do not believe in the soul, which cannot endure without freedom."

The editorialists have taken pretty good care of Justice William O. "Lippy" Douglas, who suggested that the U.S. recognize the same Red China which is killing and maiming a lot of our fine young men.

But before Douglas is invited to take off his black nightgown and take a slow boat to China, please remember that things might have been worse.

Douglas might have been president. He came awful close. When bosses Ed Flynn, Ed Kelly, Ed Pauley, Bob Hannegan, etc., coaxed Roosevelt into unloading Henry Wallace in 1944—because they were fairly sure that F.D.R. could not survive a fourth term—they also persuaded the President to write to the Chicago convention and mention and recommend either Sen. Truman or Douglas as his running mate.

Before his death, Ed Kelly told me that Truman was selected because his name appeared first in the short note written by the President. I asked him if Douglas would have been picked if his name had been first.

Sure, Ed said. So Relax.

Dr. R. E. Smith To Leave Parsons

PARSONS, W. Va. — Dr. Robert E. Smith, physician of Parsons for the past two years will leave this week for Oak Hill, Ohio where he has accepted a position as head of a new clinic being opened there.

Dr. Smith has been very active in civic and church affairs while in Parsons where he is a member of the Kiwanis Club, chairman of the Boys and Girls' committee of that club. He is also a member of the Tri-County Medical Society and of the River City club. He was a member of the Presbyterian Men's quartet and the church choir.

If your blanket bindings are especially dirty, try tackling them with frothy soapsuds and a soft brush before plunging the entire blanket into the laundry water.

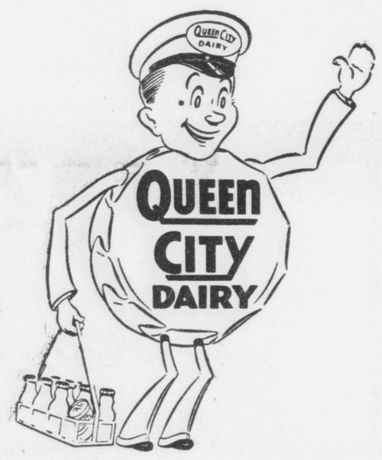
COOKING SCHOOL
STRAND THEATRE
9:15 A. M.



MARIE DAUGHERTY, nationally famous Home Economist and Food Demonstrator will prepare many new and exciting dishes at the THRIFTY KITCHEN COOKING SCHOOL currently in progress at the STRAND THEATRE. THE QUEEN CITY CO-OPERATIVE DAIRY, INC. is proud that their Dairy Products have been chosen for use in these demonstrations for the eleventh consecutive year.
Milk, always a basic food, may be used in many ways to enhance your daily menus. During the course of the Cooking School, Miss Daugherty will demonstrate methods of preparing new and interesting dishes, using Queen City milk. In addition, desserts topped with Queen City whipped cream, and other taste treats will be shown. Economical salads built around Queen City cottage cheese will be made. The many and varied tempting meals which may be prepared with milk and other dairy products as a base will be amazing.
After Cooking School, stop in at the Queen City Dairy and see the Hamilton-Beach Portable Food Mixer to be given as a Cooking School award. Take advantage of your visit to inspect the modern methods used in the dairy for your protection. See the laboratory where milk is tested daily to insure the highest quality and purest product possible.

"Really significant was the way in which it divided the sheep from the goats. It was the way in which, in general, the 'big' people and the 'nice' people rushed hysterically to the defense of Alger Hiss and the way in which average Americans watched the case develop and slowly made up their minds on the basis of the facts disclosed.

"This showed, for one thing, that the average man was more intelligent than the intelligentsia. It showed what an American is. The people who were for Alger Hiss . . . formed an exclusive party, the party of betrayal.

"In the future, in that war for survival in which we are now engaged,, whether we wish to face the fact or not, they will be in favor of appeasement even when the last American is manning the last foxhole. Their tragedy, and that of the country is that they do not know what America is and never will. They do not really believe in America because they do not really understand its peoples.

"They do not really believe in freedom because they do not believe in the soul, which cannot endure without freedom."

The editorialists have taken pretty good care of Justice William O. "Lippy" Douglas, who suggested that the U.S. recognize the same Red China which is killing and maiming a lot of our fine young men.

But before Douglas is invited to take off his black nightgown and take a slow boat to China, please remember that things might have been worse.

Douglas might have been president. He came awful close. When bosses Ed Flynn, Ed Kelly, Ed Pauley, Bob Hannegan, etc., coaxed Roosevelt into unloading Henry Wallace in 1944—because they were fairly sure that F.D.R. could not survive a fourth term—they also persuaded the President to write to the Chicago convention and mention and recommend either Sen. Truman or Douglas as his running mate.

Before his death, Ed Kelly told me that Truman was selected because his name appeared first in the short note written by the President. I asked him if Douglas would have been picked if his name had been first.

Sure, Ed said. So Relax.

Dr. R. E. Smith To Leave Parsons

PARSONS, W. Va. — Dr. Robert E. Smith, physician of Parsons for the past two years will leave this week for Oak Hill, Ohio where he has accepted a position as head of a new clinic being opened there.

Dr. Smith has been very active in civic and church affairs while in Parsons where he is a member of the Kiwanis Club, chairman of the Boys and Girls' committee of that club. He is also a member of the Tri-County Medical Society and of the River City club. He was a member of the Presbyterian Men's quartet and the church choir.

COOKING SCHOOL

STRAND THEATRE
9:15 A. M.

MARIE DAUGHERTY, nationally famous Home Economist and Food Demonstrator will prepare many new and exciting dishes at the THRIFTY KITCHEN COOKING SCHOOL currently in progress at the STRAND THEATRE. THE QUEEN CITY CO-OPERATIVE DAIRY, INC. is proud that their Dairy Products have been chosen for use in these demonstrations for the eleventh consecutive year.

Milk, always a basic food, may be used in many ways to enhance your daily menus. During the course of the Cooking School, Miss Daugherty will demonstrate methods of preparing new and interesting dishes, using Queen City milk. In addition, desserts topped with Queen City whipped cream, and other taste treats will be shown. Economical salads built around Queen City cottage cheese will be made. The many and varied tempting meals which may be prepared with milk and other dairy products as a base will be amazing.

After Cooking School, stop in at the Queen City Dairy and see the Hamilton-Beach Portable Food Mixer to be given as a Cooking School award. Take advantage of your visit to inspect the modern methods used in the dairy for your protection. See the laboratory where milk is tested daily to insure the highest quality and purest product possible.

Rizer Explains County's School "Core" Curriculum

What is a "core curriculum?"

This is a question that has been arousing curiosity ever since it was announced that a number of new teachers had been hired as "core" instructors in public junior high schools throughout the county.

The new program, introduced several years ago, today was explained by Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of county schools.

Several Features

The program, he said, has several features that make it different than the one that has been traditionally followed. The most significant difference is the length of time a group of students is allowed to remain with one teacher. Continuing, Rizer says:

"In the new program a group of approximately 30 students will remain with one teacher for a half-day instead of having this time divided into three periods of one hour each. This arrangement gives the teacher a better opportunity to study the individuals in her class. She can become acquainted with the strengths and weaknesses of each pupil in a more effective way than if she must meet 90 pupils in the same period of time.

"This large block of time with one teacher provides a higher degree of flexibility in planning a daily or weekly schedule than is possible in the old type organization. As a general policy the subjects of English, social studies and reading are taught during this block of time. The teacher, however, may divide this three-hour period in any proportion that she finds necessary.

"In other words, on certain days she may find it desirable to spend two hours on a project in social studies which might involve an excursion to some point of interest in the community. As she alone is responsible for this group of children during this longer period of time, such an excursion would not interrupt or interfere with the plans of another teacher as would certainly be the case if the children were expected to meet a different teacher every 60 minutes.

No Sharp Line

"In the new type program traditional subject boundary lines are not as sharply defined as in the old type. Problems in social studies can be woven into the English program as well as the reading that is related to such problems. With this arrangement a teacher may plan more definitely to provide for the needs of specific pupils rather than be confined to a regimented schedule for each subject. If certain pupils are weak in reading skills, the teacher may plan as much time as seems necessary to correct such weaknesses, and so on for the other subjects.

"Another rather unique feature of the new program is that the subject matter itself is generally drawn from an important area of community living, such as: safe living, How Law is Administered in Our Community, Wise Use of Leisure Time, Conserving Our Natural Resources.

"Such a block of subject matter is referred to as the core of the curriculum being studied; hence, the name 'core curriculum.'

"This program was first introduced in Allegany county at Barton High School. After one-year's experience, high school principals made a survey of the results. Both teachers and pupils reported they liked the new program and would like to continue it. The idea has spread until the present year nine different schools will have introduced the core program into one or more sections in the junior high school program."

Equity Cases Filed

Two equity cases were filed Tuesday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Mary Sue Zembower vs. Harold H. Zembower and Rosalie D. Bennett vs. Vernon I. Bennett.

Holstein Holds Butterfat Mark

A grade Holstein owned by Harry H. Helbrook, Mt. Savage, and named simply No. 27, had the best butterfat production in the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association during August, according to Supervisors Wheeler Arnold and Harry E. Miller.

Delbrook's cow yielded 79 pounds of butterfat during August. Another of his grade Holstein's finished tied for tenth.

Second best production record for August was made by a registered Holstein owned by Lester Raines, Baltimore Pike. Raines had three of his cows in the honor list of 11 bovines.

Paul Greise, Mason Road, and James H. Weimer, Mt. Savage, each had two cows on the top list. Owners with one cow on the roll were Carl Howsare, Centerville, Pa., and Brinker Brothers, Springfield. W. Va.

Of the 11 cows with high butterfat fields seven were Guernseys, three Holsteins and one Jersey.

Property Sold

Two properties were sold for a total of about $30,500, according to deeds filed Tuesday in the office of the clerk of Circuit Court.

Ory J. Curry and Mary E. Curry sold property on the west side of Louisiana Avenue, near Montgomery Avenue, to James M. Pitkelthly and Lillian L. Pitkethly for about $16,500. Lloyd S. McNeil and Martha L. McNeil sold property at the northwest corner of Maplewood Lane and Holland Street to Tallitta B. Noland and Thomas Lloyd Noland for about $14,000.

Teachers To Meet At Allegany

Allegany county teachers and principals are scheduled to meet at Allegany High School at 10 a. m. Saturday.

The speaker will be Dr. John Harvey Furbay, an education specialist with wide experience in various fields.

Luke Man Gets Heavy Sentence In Somerset, Pa.

Convicted On Two Separate Charges

A Luke resident, James Broadwater, has been sentenced in Somerset county, Pa., Court to serve from two to four years in Western Penitentiary on a morals charge involving a 12-year-old West Virginia girl.

Robert D. Wolfe, also of Luke, and Mrs. Eunice Wolford, Keyser, W. Va., who were with Broadwater, also faced the morals counts Saturday. Each was fined $100 and costs.

Woman Paroled

The Wolford woman also drew a suspended three-month jail sentence and was paroled for three years on charges of assault and battery with intent to kill, aggravated assault and battery, assault and battery, robbery and larceny. After entering a plea of nolle contendere, she was ordered to pay costs and make restitution.

Broadwater and Wolfe stood trial Monday on the same charges, all of them an outgrowth of an alleged attack upon Broadwater's father, Robert Paul Broadwater, who resides near Glencoe, Pa. Both entered guilty pleas.

Broadwater was given a two-to-four-year prison term and ordered to pay $500 and costs for assault with intent to kill, aggravated assault and battery and assault and battery. The prison sentences will run concurrently.

Sent To Workhouse

Wolfe was fined $500 and costs and committed to the Allegheny County Workhouse for one year. The two men received concurrent prison terms for robbery and larceny.

The charges resulted from a visit to the elder Broadwater's home by his son, Wolfe, Mrs. Wolford and a Keyser girl, this summer. The father said the accused trio beat him and took money which he had concealed in a book at his home.

Judge Thomas F. Lansberry sentenced the three defendants.

Frostburg Man, Retired After Heart Attack Develops Profitable Industry In Gun-Making At Frostburg

FROSTBURG—A growing Frostburg industry, Morgan's Gun Shop, established by a citizen of the town who was stricken with a heart attack seven years ago is winning the patronage of sportsmen from many of the larger cities of the east and from every section of the Tri-State Area.

The owner of the shop, Harry Morgan, was stricken with a heart attack in December, 1946 while at work in the tool room of the Kelly Springfield Tire Co., which left him partially disabled and forced him to retire.

Started Gun Shop

After being in complete retirement for seven months, he began the slow and gradual process of adjusting himself to limited activities. First he turned his two car garage in the rear of his residence at 141 Frost Avenue into a small gun shop where he started to take in work on guns. Being a marksman with a large circle of friends in local sportsmen's groups he received their help and in a few months Morgan, who could only work two hours a day, secured an assistant, William Lancaster of Borden Mines, to work with him.

With the assistance of Lancaster, who is an expert stock maker, and Morgan's wife, the former Miss Ruth Lancaster who is serving as the secretary, the firm began receiving orders for custom made guns of top quality, and the business expanded so rapidly it was necessary to erect a new concrete block building in 1950 and to install modern machinery of the type required in the manufacture and repair of guns. At the present time special work is being received at the shop from Baltimore, Washington and other eastern cities.

The various types of work being carried out daily are: mounting all types of sights, installing shotgun chokes, rebarreling, rechambering, altering actions, complete refinishing and stock work cut out to meet each customer's requirements.

Modern Methods Used

The most modern type jigs and tools known to the gunsmith trade are used in the mounting of sights and the rebarreling process.

The rebluing is the latest type of bluing development by Bob Brownell of Montezuma, Iowa, who is a nationally known writer and gunsmith.

Many of the jobs that come in are off standard. Both Morgan and Lancaster make up their own special tools to do their job. Among them are special checkering tools which cut their checkering time in half.

Besides working on guns, Morgan handles all types of sporting goods and gives special attention to outboard motors and boats.

Morgan, who seemed destined seven years ago to a life of retirement and inaction is now, by his courage and persistence, head of a concern of which the entire community is proud. Some days he is able to work and at other times he is compelled to rest, but he is always at or near his shop directing its activities.

Family of Marksmen

Morgan, age 40, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Morgan, Carlos, and the father of two children, Eileen 8, and Helen 5. His daughter, Eileen, is one of the outstanding juvenile marksmen in Western Maryland, and his wife, like her husband, is a marksman who has won many prizes in rifle matches in Allegany County and elsewhere.

Morgan is one of the founders of the Frostburg Rifle Club, an official referee of the National Rifle Association, and an executive officer of the Western Maryland Rifle League. He organized the first 4-H Rifle League in the United States to become affiliated with the National Rifle Association. Many of the club members are serving with the armed forces in Korea.

CUSTOM GUNSMITH AT WORK—Harry Morgan (right), Frostburg, chambers a new barrel for one of his custom-built rifles. Later he will fit the weapon's action to the receiver. Tolerances are kept to one-thousandth of an inch. William Lancaster (background) adjusts a rifle scope sight before mounting it on a rifle. To insure accuracy on all sight jobs, Lancaster uses a 48-inch surface plate for checking. A retired Kelly Springfield Tire Company worker, Morgan has been operating the shop since 1947.

Garrett Co. Board Denies Concealment Of Gas Facts

"There has not been, and there will not be, any attempt by this board to conceal anything."

With this statement, Jonas W. Sines, president of the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, answered charges filed by a Baltimore paper that the county was attempting to conceal production figures and tax returns from gas wells.

The answer was contained in a letter to the paper last week. In his letter, Sines said that Dr. Joseph T. Singewald, director of the State Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources, had written the county commissioners for information "at a time when he knew that same was not available to the county commissioners. The act of the legislature levying the tax provides that the first returns would not be due on or before July 31, 1951."

Following this date, Sines pointed out, the production figures and tax receipts were publicly announced, and he said this information is now available and would continue to be available.

Sines also took exception to the paper's claim of a potential tax income from the gas wells to the county of $280,000 annually. He pointed out that returns for the first six months of this year were only $17,344.27.

"All income and expenditures of the county," Sines continued, "are reported annually and this report is published in the local papers. Also, the same information goes to the State under the provisions of the Uniform Accounting Act of 1949.

"The purpose of Dr. Singewald's dissatisfaction is not his failure to receive certain production data but rather his failure to obtain autocratic control of every phase of natural gas production in the state."

Sines concluded his letter with the admonition to "Please gather all facts before again attacking the personal integrity of the governmental officials of Garrett county."

Luke Man Gets Heavy Sentence In Somerset, Pa.

Convicted On Two Separate Charges

A Luke resident, James Broadwater, has been sentenced in Somerset county, Pa., Court to serve from two to four years in Western Penitentiary on a morals charge involving a 12-year-old West Virginia girl.

Robert D. Wolfe, also of Luke, and Mrs. Eunice Wolford, Keyser, W. Va., who were with Broadwater, also faced the morals counts Saturday. Each was fined $100 and costs.

Woman Paroled

The Wolford woman also drew a suspended three-month jail sentence and was paroled for three years on charges of assault and battery with intent to kill, aggravated assault and battery, assault and battery, robbery and larceny. After entering a plea of nolle contendere, she was ordered to pay costs and make restitution.

Broadwater and Wolfe stood trial Monday on the same charges, all of them an outgrowth of an alleged attack upon Broadwater's father, Robert Paul Broadwater, who resides near Glencoe, Pa. Both entered guilty pleas.

Broadwater was given a two-to-four-year prison term and ordered to pay $500 and costs for assault with intent to kill, aggravated assault and battery and assault and battery. The prison sentences will run concurrently.

Sent To Workhouse

Wolfe was fined $500 and costs and committed to the Allegheny County Workhouse for one year. The two men received concurrent prison terms for robbery and larceny.

The charges resulted from a visit to the elder Broadwater's home by his son, Wolfe, Mrs. Wolford and a Keyser girl, this summer. The father said the accused trio beat him and took money which he had concealed in a book at his home.

Judge Thomas F. Lansberry sentenced the three defendants.

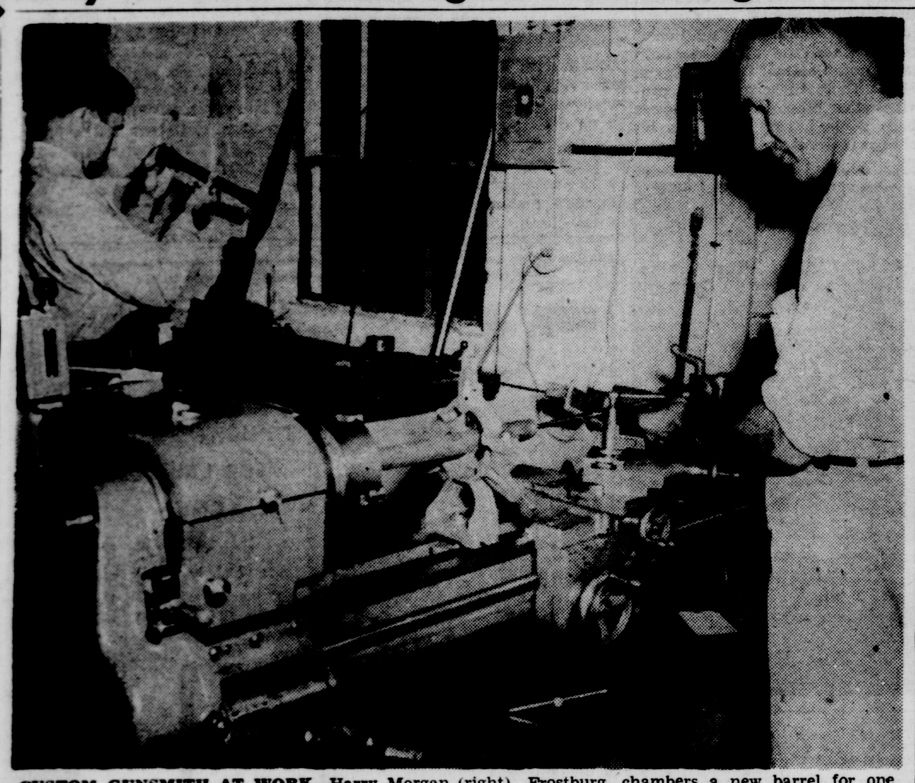
Frostburg Man, Retired After Heart Attack Develops Profitable Industry In Gun-Making At Frostburg



CUSTOM GUNSMITH AT WORK—Harry Morgan (right), Frostburg, chambers a new barrel for one of his custom-built rifles. Later he will fit the weapon's action to the receiver. Tolerances are kept to one-thousandth of an inch. William Lancaster (background) adjusts a rifle scope sight before mounting it on a rifle. To insure accuracy on all sight jobs, Lancaster uses a 48-inch surface plate for checking. A retired Kelly Springfield Tire Company worker, Morgan has been operating the shop since 1947.

FROSTBURG—A growing Frostburg industry, Morgan's Gun Shop, established by a citizen of the town who was stricken with a heart attack seven years ago is winning the patronage of sportsmen from many of the larger cities of the east and from every section of the Tri-State Area.

The owner of the shop, Harry Morgan, was stricken with a heart attack in December, 1946 while at work in the tool room of the Kelly Springfield Tire Co., which left him partially disabled and forced him to retire.

Started Gun Shop

After being in complete retirement for seven months, he began the slow and gradual process of adjusting himself to limited activities. First he turned his two car garage in the rear of his residence at 141 Frost Avenue into a small gun shop where he started to take in work on guns. Being a marksman with a large circle of friends in local sportsmen's groups he received their help and in a few months Morgan, who could only work two hours a day, secured an assistant, William Lancaster of Borden Mines, to work with him.

With the assistance of Lancaster, who is an expert stock maker, and Morgan's wife, the former Miss Ruth Lancaster who is serving as the secretary, the firm began receiving orders for custom made guns of top quality, and the business expanded so rapidly it was necessary to erect a new concrete block building in 1950 and to install modern machinery of the type required in the manufacture and repair of guns. At the present time special work is being received at the shop from Baltimore, Washington and other eastern cities.

The various types of work being carried out daily are: mounting all types of sights, installing shotgun chokes, rebarreling, rechambering, altering actions, complete refinishing and stock work cut out to meet each customer's requirements.

Modern Methods Used

The most modern type jigs and tools known to the gunsmith trade are used in the mounting of sights and the rebarreling process.

The rebluing is the latest type of bluing development by Bob Brownell of Montezuma, Iowa, who is a nationally known writer and gunsmith.

Many of the jobs that come in are off standard. Both Morgan and Lancaster make up their own special tools to do their job. Among them are special checkering tools which cut their checkering time in half.

Besides working on guns, Morgan handles all types of sporting goods and gives special attention to outboard motors and boats.

Morgan, who seemed destined seven years ago to a life of retirement and inaction is now, by his courage and persistence, head of a concern of which the entire community is proud. Some days he is able to work and at other times he is compelled to rest, but he is always at or near his shop directing its activities.

Family of Marksmen

Morgan, age 40, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Morgan, Carlos, and the father of two children, Eileen 8, and Helen 5. His daughter, Eileen, is one of the outstanding juvenile marksmen in Western Maryland, and his wife, like her husband, is a marksman who has won many prizes in rifle matches in Allegany County and elsewhere.

Morgan is one of the founders of the Frostburg Rifle Club, an official referee of the National Rifle Association, and an executive officer of the Western Maryland Rifle League. He organized the first 4-H Rifle League in the United States to become affiliated with the National Rifle Association. Many of the club members are serving with the armed forces in Korea.

Morgan attributes his success in establishing his present prospering business to the untiring effort of his wife, loyalty of his friends, and to the encouragement he received from the many sportsmen's groups with which he is affiliated.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 12 (INS) — That pretty Maureen O'Hara, who is always sweet and good in our movies, is anything but in Errol Flynn's new picture, "Against All Flags." For your information you'll see Maureen as a wicked lady pirate who is a member of a gang of buccaneers.

It's Errol who saves her. A member of the British police, he joins the pirates to round them up, falls in love with Maureen and presto, arrests all but the lady.

An unrehearsed scene for a test in "Androcles And The Lion" brought smiles to the face of even Gabriel Pascal. Dolores Barrymore, Jr., who has changed her screen name to Blythe Barrymore, was rehearsing a scene she is to play as Jean Simmons' friend when she suddenly realized she had forgotten to give the neighbor who was caring for her baby the food formula. So, off she rushed, returning in time to finish the test.

Blythe is the sister of John Barrymore, Jr., and her mother is Dolores Costello, and her father the late John Barrymore. This is Dolores, Jr.'s motion picture debut. She is married to Tommy Fairbanks, and the baby whose food she almost forgot is their ten months old daughter.

While I was on my vacation I found a story in Virginia City, now an almost deserted ghost town, that would make a dramatic motion picture.

Father Boyle, a young priest at St. Mary's in the Mountains, the famous church built by Clarence Mackey's father, was blind for many years. He visited a condemned prisoner in Carson City who willed his eyes to the priest. Now Father Boyle sees as well as anybody, and while we were visiting Ross Shattuck, who is painting historical St. Mary's, the priest himself drove up to the house.

I talked to an old miner who said that St. Mary's, which now numbers 30 parishoners, used to be so crowded on Easter Sunday in the lush days of the Comstock mines, that they had to pass the collection box three times to hold all the twenty dollar gold pieces.

The only income St. Mary's has now is derived from tourists who go through the church.

BOSTON CITY COUNCILMAN Julius Ansel has a $4,000 hippopotamus on his hands, and doesn't know what to do with it. After ordering the hippo from South Africa for the Boston Zoo, Ansel discovered that the city didn't want it, and wouldn't pay for it. Pending some solution of the problem, the beast has been taken to an animal farm at Egypt, Mass. There the city official provides the hippo with a shower bath while paying a visit to his charge. (International Soundphoto)

Just before Farley Granger and Shelley Winters took TWA to Paris today, Farley confided that they plan to marry in Paris.

• — • — •

Wonder if Shelley and Farley really know their own minds? They told me about six months ago they planned to marry and then later denied the story they had given me.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Bette Davis has been having serious talks with Hal Wallis about playing the lead in "Come Back, Little Sheba." Looks good.

Betsy Drake's birthday gift from Cary Grant was a guitar complete with instruction book. Betsy says if it takes a hundred years she's going to learn to play.

Deanna Durbin writes she has taken off pounds and hopes to return to movies in Hollywood.

League Champions Are Entertained

Members of the Dodgers Little League Champions were entertained by their parents and friends with a covered dish supper, recently in Constitution Park. A program of entertainment was arranged and a wiener and corn roast followed. Two large decorated cakes centered the table.

Tokens of appreciation for their work were presented to William Buzzard, manager and William DeVries, coach.

The highlight of the evening was a ball game between the fathers and sons, with the latter winning.

Adults attending were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hillegas, Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Martin, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Cave, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Geller, Mr. and Mrs. Y. Love, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dietz, Mr. and Mrs. William Valentine, Mr. and Mrs. William Buzzard, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lafferty, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Van Parsons, Mr. DeVries, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Meter, Mrs. Dorothy Wallace, Miss Joan Dunbar and Miss Beverly Bruce.

A Column for Men

STAG LINES

By BERT BACHARACH

Craig Wood and Leo Durocher.

Knit Ties

FASHION: Well-dressed athletes, Golfer Craig Wood and Leo Durocher, appear (in photo at left) to like crocheted ties. Craig's is a maroon; Lippy's a silver gray. Knitted ties, adaptable for both dress-up and sportswear, will be seen more and more now that summer ties are being put away in the drawer until next year.

Food Notes: Want to impress your best gal by knowing the difference between a fruit cocktail and a fruit cup? It's a cocktail if piquant in flavor—to stimulate the appetite. If it's sweetened, it's a dessert and a cup.

Care of Clothes: We once advised stitching tape around inside of trouser cuffs for longer wear. A reader suggests adhesive mending tape, in suitable color, that can be ironed right on the cuff. . . . Don't be in a hurry to get your fall clothes out of camphor. It's still moth weather—and it takes but a day to air your clothes so that they will be free of the smell of moth proofing when the time comes for you to put them on.

Gadgets: A new memo box, for desk or phone table top, with magnetic pencil, memo sheets, calendar—plus a three-minute timing glass to check your toll and long-distance calls. . . . Leather-covered "books" that hold two bottles of liquor, and fit into your bookcase like rare first editions. Different "titles" for rye, Scotch and gin.

Evolutions: The transition in men's shoes, in our day, has been a big one. First they were laced through hooks (remember?); then through eyelets; and they now stay snug with laceless elastic gores. . . . You'd probably still be wearing union suits if the Army, in World War I, hadn't had so much trouble fitting the varied-sized rookies. That's when they adopted shirts and shorts.

Travel: The secret of good packing is to keep things from shifting in transit. Fill up all corners with socks, handkerchiefs, small articles (right).

Odd Items: Atlanta, Ga., was first known as Terminus, Ga. It must be better to build houses than minds. Bricklayers average $6,500 a year; college professors, $5,500. . . . This week's "Pass the Cigars" to Comedian Jerry Lewis, who, when advised to take it easy as all future earnings would go to the government, answered "The government needs tanks!"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THROW THE ACE AWAY

ACES and kings are usually the most valuable of all cards. But they can be a liability when they stand in the way of some lower card or cards which otherwise would win the tricks that make the contract. Discarding one of the tops can sometimes be absolutely necessary to unblock a suit and create an entry into the opposite holding. When a keen declarer makes a contract requiring such a play, he gets a great kick out of it, which is matched only by his chagrin when he notices after failing in a contract that the spectacular move would have salvaged it.

	♠ A K 3 ♥ A 8 ♦ A Q J ♣ 8 7 5 3 2
♠ 4 ♥ Q 10 3 ♦ K 8 5 ♣ A K Q 10 9 6	N W E S	♠ Q 10 9 8 7 6 ♥ 6 5 2 ♦ 9 6 3 ♣ 4
	♠ J 5 2 ♥ K J 9 7 4 ♦ 10 7 4 2 ♣ J

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Dbl	1 ♠	2 ♥
2 NT	Dbl	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 ♥	Pass	Pass
Dbl

Though double-dummy defense would beat West's 2-No Trumps doubled, South's takeout into hearts should have proved profitable, since a game could be made in the suit. It wasn't, however, as the declarer fumbled his chance for a nice play.

West won the opener with his club K and the Q was ruffed by the heart 4, East discarding a spade. The diamond J was finessed, the heart A scored and the heart J finessed to the Q. West's club K return was ruffed by the heart 9, East shedding another spade. The heart K drew the last hostile trumps, a club being shed from the dummy. Now the diamond Q was finessed, the A scored, also the spade K and A. That made nine tricks, but dummy had only a small card of each black suit left, so the last two tricks were lost to East's spades to beat the contract.

South's mistake came when he discarded a club on the heart K at the seventh trick. He should have tossed off either the A or K of spades. After finessing the diamond Q, he should have scored the A, also his one spade top, and then should have led the spade 3. East would have had to win for his side's third trick, but his obligatory spade return would have been won by the J and the diamond 10 would have taken the game trick.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ Q ♥ A J 5 ♦ J 8 7 5 4 2 ♣ 9 6 3
♠ 8 7 ♥ K 10 8 ♦ A K Q 9 ♣ A Q 10 7	N W E S	♠ 9 6 3 ♥ 9 7 3 2 ♦ 10 6 3 ♣ J 5 4
	♠ A K J 10 5 4 2 ♥ Q 6 4 ♦ None ♣ K 8 2

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

If South makes the only bid, 4-Spades, West doubles and leads the diamond K, how should the declarer play?

Craig Wood and Leo Durocher.

Knit Ties

FASHION: Well-dressed athletes, Golfer Craig Wood and Leo Durocher, appear (in photo at left) to like crocheted ties. Craig's is a maroon; Lippy's a silver gray. Knitted ties, adaptable for both dress-up and sportswear, will be seen more and more now that summer ties are being put away in the drawer until next year.

Food Notes: Want to impress your best gal by knowing the difference between a fruit cocktail and a fruit cup? It's a cocktail if piquant in flavor—to stimulate the appetite. If it's sweetened, it's a dessert and a cup.

Care of Clothes: We once advised stitching tape around inside of trouser cuffs for longer wear. A reader suggests adhesive mending tape, in suitable color, that can be ironed right on the cuff. . . . Don't be in a hurry to get your fall clothes out of camphor. It's still moth weather—and it takes but a day to air your clothes so that they will be free of the smell of moth proofing when the time comes for you to put them on.

Gadgets: A new memo box, for desk or phone table top, with magnetic pencil, memo sheets, calendar—plus a three-minute timing glass to check your toll and long-distance calls. . . . Leather-covered "books" that hold two bottles of liquor, and fit into your bookcase like rare first editions. Different "titles" for rye, Scotch and gin.

Evolutions: The transition in men's shoes, in our day, has been a big one. First they were laced through hooks (remember?); then through eyelets; and they now stay snug with laceless elastic gores. . . . You'd probably still be wearing union suits if the Army, in World War I, hadn't had so much trouble fitting the varied-sized rookies. That's when they adopted shirts and shorts.

Travel: The secret of good packing is to keep things from shifting in transit. Fill up all corners with socks, handkerchiefs, small articles (right)..

Odd Items: Atlanta, Ga., was first known as Terminus, Ga. It must be better to build houses than minds. Bricklayers average $6,500 a year; college professors, $5,500. . . . This week's "Pass the Cigars" to Comedian Jerry Lewis, who, when advised to take it easy as all future earnings would go to the government, answered "The government needs tanks!"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THROW THE ACE AWAY

ACES and kings are usually the most valuable of all cards. But they can be a liability when they stand in the way of some lower card or cards which otherwise would win the tricks that make the contract. Discarding one of the tops can sometimes be absolutely necessary to unblock a suit and create an entry into the opposite holding. When a keen declarer makes a contract requiring such a play, he gets a great kick out of it, which is matched only by his chagrin when he notices after failing in a contract that the spectacular move would have salvaged it.

	♠ A K 3 ♥ A 8 ♦ A Q J ♣ 8 7 5 3 2
♠ 4 ♥ Q 10 3 ♦ K 8 5 ♣ A K Q 10 9 6	N W E S	♠ Q 10 9 8 7 6 ♥ 6 5 2 ♦ 9 6 3 ♣ 4
	♠ J 5 2 ♥ K J 9 7 4 ♦ 10 7 4 2 ♣ J

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Dbl	1 ♠	2 ♥
2 NT	Dbl	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 ♥	Pass	Pass
Dbl

Though double-dummy defense would beat West's 2-No Trumps doubled, South's takeout into hearts should have proved profitable, since a game could be made in the suit. It wasn't, however, as the declarer fumbled his chance for a nice play.

West won the opener with his club K and the Q was ruffed by the heart 4, East discarding a spade. The diamond J was finessed, the heart A scored and the heart J finessed to the Q. West's club K return was ruffed by the heart 9, East shedding another spade. The heart K drew the last hostile trumps, a club being shed from the dummy. Now the diamond Q was finessed, the A scored, also the spade K and A. That made nine tricks, but dummy had only a small card of each black suit left, so the last two tricks were lost to East's spades to beat the contract.

South's mistake came when he discarded a club on the heart K at the seventh trick. He should have tossed off either the A or K of spades. After finessing the diamond Q, he should have scored the A, also his one spade top, and then should have led the spade 3. East would have had to win for his side's third trick, but his obligatory spade return would have been won by the J and the diamond 10 would have taken the game trick.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ Q ♥ A J 5 ♦ J 8 7 5 4 2 ♣ 9 6 3
♠ 8 7 ♥ K 10 8 ♦ A K Q 9 ♣ A Q 10 7	N W E S	♠ 9 6 3 ♥ 9 7 3 2 ♦ 10 6 3 ♣ J 5 4
	♠ A K J 10 5 4 2 ♥ Q 6 4 ♦ None ♣ K 8 2

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

If South makes the only bid, 4-Spades, West doubles and leads the diamond K, how should the declarer play?

Card Of Thanks

I would like to take this means of thanking my friends and neighbors for their kindness and generosity during my recent bereavement, the loss of my wife, Mrs. Catherine M. Nichols. I would also like to thank those who sent flowers and food and donated cars for the funeral; also Rev. Father Hardesty, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church.
Bernard S. Nichols & family.

I wish to thank all of my friends who were so kind to me at the time of the death of my husband, Hiram N. B. Twigg. I especially thank Rev. W. Randolph Keefe, Jr., Mr. & Mrs. Thomas Carter, Fort Cumberland Post American Legion, and also those who furnished cars for the funeral.
Mrs. Hiram N. B. Twigg.

Card Of Thanks

I would like to take this means of thanking my friends and neighbors for their kindness and generosity during my recent bereavement, the loss of my wife, Mrs. Catherine M. Nichols. I would also like to thank those who sent flowers and food and donated cars for the funeral; also Rev. Father Hardesty, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church.
Bernard S. Nichols & family.

I wish to thank all of my friends who were so kind to me at the time of the death of my husband, Hiram N. B. Twigg. I especially thank Rev. W. Randolph Keefe, Jr., Mr. & Mrs. Thomas Carter, Fort Cumberland Post American Legion, and also those who furnished cars for the funeral.
Mrs. Hiram N. B. Twigg.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"We must not lose our sense of values, gentlemen!. . . what profit if we save civilization . . . but lose the next election?"

Stock Market Resumes Rise To Reach New High For 1951

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP) — After a one-day reaction the stock market today turned upward again with its best gain in two weeks.

Major divisions heading the rise included aircrafts, copper mining, steels, gold mining, and the rails.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks added a strong 60 cents at $99.90.

That is another new high for 1951 and has not been topped since Sept. 18, 1930.

The industrial component of the AP average advanced 70 cents, rails 80 cents, and utilities 10 cents.

The volume of business came to 2,170,000 shares, as compared with 2,030,000 shares yesterday.

There were 1,171 individual issues traded of which 649 advanced and 280 declined with 75 new highs and four new lows.

International Telephone was the day's most active issue off ½ at 17¼. Directors today declared the same 15-cent dividend as in previous quarters, and there probably was some disappointed selling. The company reported first half income at $8,693,000 as against $4,972,000 a year ago.

It was followed in the most active list by AVCO up ¼ at 7¾, Continental Motors up ⅛ at 10, Consolidated Coppermines up ⅛ at 12¼, Universal Laboratories up ⅝ at 3⅞, Curtiss-Wright up ⅛ at 11¼, Calumet & Hecla up ¼ at 11, and South American Gold & Platinum up ⅛ at 5½.

Reynolds metals was up 4⅞ at 66⅜ today on top of a five point rise yesterday.

Aluminum Co. of American gained 3 at 86½, Aluminum Ltd. was up 2⅜ at 97, and Kaiser Aluminum gained 2½ at 39½.

Position Of Treasury

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — The position of the Treasury Sept. 10:

Net budget receipts, $148,543,466.14; budget expenditures, $138,895,249.13; cash balance, $3,796,170,638.05; customs receipts for month, $11,359,296.24; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $6,738,117,890.81; budget expenditures fiscal year, $11,282,117.675.66; budget deficit, $4,543,999,784.85; total debt, $25,642,910,676.18; increase over previous day, $12,666,625.305; gold assets $21,853,276,667.76.

Stock Market Resumes Rise To Reach New High For 1951

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP) — After a one-day reaction the stock market today turned upward again with its best gain in two weeks.

Major divisions heading the rise included aircrafts, copper mining, steels, gold mining, and the rails.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks added a strong 60 cents at $99.90.

That is another new high for 1951 and has not been topped since Sept. 18, 1930.

The industrial component of the AP average advanced 70 cents, rails 80 cents, and utilities 10 cents.

The volume of business came to 2,170,000 shares, as compared with 2,030,000 shares yesterday.

There were 1,171 individual issues traded of which 649 advanced and 280 declined with 75 new highs and four new lows.

International Telephone was the day's most active issue off ½ at 17¼. Directors today declared the same 15-cent dividend as in previous quarters, and there probably was some disappointed selling. The company reported first half income at $8,693,000 as against $4,972,000 a year ago.

It was followed in the most active list by AVCO up ¼ at 7¾, Continental Motors up ⅛ at 10, Consolidated Coppermines up ⅛ at 12⅛, Universal Laboratories up ⅝ at 3⅞, Curtiss-Wright up ⅛ at 11¼, Calumet & Hecla up ¼ at 11, and South American Gold & Platinum up ⅛ at 5½.

Reynolds metals was up 4⅞ at 66⅝ today on top of a five point rise yesterday.

Aluminum Co. of American gained 3 at 86½, Aluminum Ltd. was up 2⅜ at 97, and Kaiser Aluminum gained 2½ at 39½.

Position Of Treasury

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — The position of the Treasury Sept. 10:

WIFE IS KILLED, MOTHER WOUNDED AT HYNDMAN

Kelly Worker Is Held Here In Shooting

Clarence Burkett, 33, Surrenders To Police

Twenty-seven-year old Mrs. Myra Grace Burkett was fatally wounded by her estranged husband in an afternoon shooting yesterday at the home of her parents about one mile south of Hyndman, Pa.

Wounded in the shooting was the housewife's mother, Mrs. Helen Shaffer, who is in Memorial Hospital. Her condition is not regarded as serious.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy Allegany County medical examiner, said last night Mrs. Burkett's death was due to loss of blood. Mrs. Burkett was admitted to Memorial Hospital about 3:50 p. m. after being brought from the scene of the shooting in the Hyndman Volunteer Fire Company ambulance. She died about 4:28 p. m., according to hospital attaches.

Clarence Burkett, 33, husband of the dead woman and a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company employe, is being held in the county jail here in connection with the shooting and will be turned over to Pennsylvania authorities today. He was quoted yesterday as saying he would waive extradition. Two Pennsylvania state policemen were questioning him last night and taking a statement from him.

Phoned To Surrender

Allegany County Deputy Sheriff George Harris said Burkett, with whom he was acquainted, telephoned him from his home at Ellerslie after the shooting and asked the deputy to "come get me."

Harris, alone at the jail, told Burkett to "stay there and I'll have somebody get you."

Then Harris notified Maryland State Police Sgt. Harry Holsinger. When Holsinger arrived at Ellerslie Burkett, recognized the police car, approached and gave himself up.

Holsinger asked if he had figured in the shooting at Hyndman and as Burkett replied that he had he handed the officer the weapon, a .38 calibre pistol, and 27 bullets.

Deputy Sheriff Harris said Burkett had been in ill health and had spent some time in a hospital for observation.

The shooting happened about 3:05 p. m., according to Police Chief Paul A. Wise of Hyndman, on the truck farm of the Shaffer family. The young housewife was standing on a small pickup truck in the rear of the house unloading wood with her mother when Burkett approached them from between two houses nearby, Wise added.

Burkett, who has been separated from his wife for some time, is reported to have told his wife to come back and stay with him. When she refused, Burkett said, 'I'll fix you," drew out the pistol and began firing, police related.

Shot Three Times

In the meantime the mother grappled with Burkett, Wise added, and one of the shots entered her right arm and grazed the tissue of her abdomen. Burkett then left the scene and Mrs. Burkett was taken to Hyndman in the truck to receive emergency first aid at the office of Dr. John Topper. The victim and her mother were then brought to Cumberland in the fire company's ambulance.

According to his father-in-law, Wilbert J. Shaffer, Burkett previously had come to the house and threatened the family, and about a week ago Hyndman authorities were asked to keep Burkett away from the house.

Chief of Police Wise said he told the complainant a peace warrant would have to be obtained before he could take any action. Wise said he understood Shaffer, the dead woman's father, then went to Bedford, Pa., for advice but, the chief added, he heard nothing more about the matter until the shooting yesterday afternoon.

Married In 1948

Burkett admitted yesterday he had gone to the Shaffer home on previous occasions, authorities related, and had been ridiculed by the mother-in-law concerning their marriage and separation. He admitted threatening the entire family and had aimed to shoot them all, police said.

The Burkett's, who were married in 1948, had no children. Mrs. Burkett was born March 9, 1928, in Londonderry Township and was a daughter of Wilbert J. and Helen Deremer Shaffer. Survivors other than her husband and parents are three brothers, George M. Shaffer, Hyndman, Wilmer C. Shaffer, 432 North Centre Street, Cumberland, Edward J. TOUGHEST BLAZE IN 30 YEARS—Firemen are shown fighting a fire which broke out about 5 p. m. yesterday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Llewellyn, 220 Emily Street. Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, said the fire was the toughest to fight in about 30 years because flames were between wall sections, ceiling and roof. Four firemen were overcome by smoke, and flames threatened to spread to adjoining houses which were only about 10 inches from the burning structure. Firemen had to cut holes in the tin roof in order to reach the flames. The East Side Fire Company and Central Ladder and Pumper Companies were kept busy for about two hours before the blaze was brought under control. The fire which began in the back part of the building ate its way up the stairs and in between ceiling and roof. The other person living in the house, Mrs. Anna L. Reith, was taken to neighbors across the street. No one was injured, but damage from flames and water was heavy.

Heart Display Opens Today

The Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association's educational display at 20 North Centre Street, is expected to open today at noon, according to Thomas F. Conlon, president.

The program of the display, about heart diseases, features a movie called "Heart of the Home," based on work simplification research of the New York Heart Association, affiliate of the American Heart Association.

Catherine Landis, a typical housewife is heroine of the film. She has just learned from Dr. Hopkins that she must "take it easy" because of a defective heart. She is a woman who has a special reason for finding a simplier way to manage her home.

Also as part of the display, are a series of 13 pictures mounted on large white cards showing and explaining how a cardiac clinic works.

Other features of the display are facts and figures about heart diseases, including pamphlets, charts and pictures.

John Manuel and Dr. S. M. Jacobson are in charge of the program.

Sonner's Will Probated In Orphans' Court

The will of W. B. Sonner, 73, 200 Massachusetts Avenue, who died August 29, was admitted to probate in Orphans' Court.

His daughter, Mrs. Thelma Z. Thomas, who lived at the Massachusetts Avenue address, qualified as executrix under $1,000 bond.

Under the will, dated January 6, 1950, the home and two lots on Massachusetts Avenue, his car, personal property and savings account were left to his daughter. The will also provided that after funeral expenses are paid from his insurance money that the remaining insurance money be divided equally among his three sons, Harold B. Sonner, Phillip C. Sonner and Glen W. Sonner, and a grandson, Elbert C. Walsh.

The Weather

Cumberlanders wilted a little more yesterday, as they wiped their damp brows, and wondered what happened to those cool, crisp and generally pleasant days of early last week. The cool nights are still around, but Lady Summer apparently just can't make up her mind to go away for another year. Yesterday's high was a sweltering 90, and by 8 p. m. the mercury had gone down only to 79, although the overnight low was a cool 53. At 6 p. m. the humidity stood at 54 per cent, and today doesn't look much better. The Weather Bureau foresees another partly cloudy and warm day, with temperatures up to 85 and 90, and with scattered showers in the mountains by tonight.

Jury Will Be Drawn Today

Members of the October grand and petit juries will be drawn this morning at the Court House.

The new method of selecting members of the grand juries will be used for the first time since legislation was passed for the change at the last session of the Maryland General Assembly.

In the past the court drew the names of 48 veniremen. On the opening day of the term of court the court then drew 23 names to comprise the grand jury and a foreman was named.

Under the new procedure the first 23 names drawn by the court will constitute the grand jury and the balance of the veniremen will be members of the petit jury. The three judges of the Circuit Court requested the change as it will speed the process of handling the court term and will also allow for replacement of any members of the jury panel who may have sufficient cause for being excused.

St. Louis Expert Begins Study Of Smoke Ordinance

Raymond R. Tucker, head of the department of mechanical engineering at Washington University, St. Louis, arrived here yesterday to begin a survey of Cumberland's smoke control problems.

Before starting his preliminary work yesterday he met briefly with Mayor Thomas S. Post and City Attorney W. Earle Cobey. He said he expects to be here three or four days.

Purpose of Tucker's survey is to determine whether the city's smoke ordinance is strict enough. Local civic groups have charged that the law is lax. The Smoke Control Advisory Board has recommended that the ordinance be tightened and violators be prosecuted.

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, has termed the present law adequate for the next five years, and said he welcomed the survey by an outside expert.

Tucker, who instituted the St. Louis abatement program, was first smoke commissioner of the Missouri city . He has been on loan from the university since last February to organize the St. Louis Civil Defense program at the request of businessmen.

A report by Tucker formed the basis for the Los Angeles smoke

C&P Would Hike Md. Phone Rates By $5,500,000

PSC Begins Hearing Arguments In Case

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company pleaded yesterday inflation has bitten deeply into its earnings and it needs an increase of about $5,500,000 in its Maryland rates.

This would apparently be a boost of about 10 per cent.

The arguments were placed before the Maryland Public Service Commission at the start of a hearing on the company's application for higher charges.

A decision by the commission is not expected for several months, perhaps not until early in 1952.

The company did not specify how much it would like to raise the rates for individual customers. The utility said it needs $2,750,000 in additional net income each year to make a fair return on its investment.

Willam G. Gassaway, company attorney, told the Commission it takes about $2 in additional revenue to produce $1 in additional earnings because of higher taxes, wages, and cost of equipment.

Ten Per Cent Increase

The company's revenue from telephone service in 1950 was about $53,616,000, so a $5,500,000 increase would be about 10 per cent.

"It adds up to only a few cents a day for the individual customer," said W. Griffin Morrel, vice-president and general manager.

The Public Service Commission has granted three previous increases since the end of World War II, increases designed to boost net income by $9,376,695 a year.

The last of these was in March, 1949, when the Commission approved an increase of $4,087,000. It turned down an additional $2,500,000 the company asked.

Opposition Raised

Attorneys for the state, the City of Baltimore and the Peoples Counsel of the PSC were on hand to oppose the new increase.

If the pattern of previous hearings is followed, they will ask and be granted a long delay in which to study the technical financial testimony of the company's auditor of disbursements, R. M. Fowler.

Gassaway started off the company's case by declaring it "has been hit hard and is being hit harder every day by the cost of inflation."

He said the key thing the Commission must do in making its decision is to determine the fair value of the telephone company's property and a fair return on that valuation.

Morrel said "higher rates are the only answer if the company is going to give the people of Maryland the kind of service they want when they want it."

Heavy Wage Increases

In a matter of months, he con-

Insurance Case Is Clarified

In an account of new developments in the case of Mrs. Ruth Iser Oates, Keyser, W. Va., against two insurance companies for claims in a fire which destroyed her house last year, yesterday's NEWS inadvertently said a verdict of arson had been returned against Mrs. Oates last November.

Actually, a Mineral County (W. Va) Circuit Court jury granted a verdict in favor of Mrs. Oates, in effect exonerating her of the charge levelled by defense attorneys during the trial but never filed as a criminal charge.

Since the case was a civil trial, no criminal verdict could have been rendered. Mrs. Oates never faced an arson charge, although the defense asked in a special plea that the case be dismissed on grounds Mrs. Oates was responsible for the fire.

The jury granted Mrs. Oates some $6,000, but Judge Ernest A. See ruled it out, granting one company a new trial and dismissing the case against the other firm on grounds Mrs. Oates' policy with that company was void at the time of the fire.

Mrs. Oates later appealed to the West Virginia Supreme Court, which said this week it would hear her appeal.

CHURCH COUNCIL HEAD—Miss Ada Lucas Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Snyder, LaVale, was elected president of the Youth Council of the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, at a convention at St. David's Episcopal Church, Baltimore. The council directs youth programs for various parishes throughout the state. A senior at Allegany High School, she is president of Young Peoples Fellowship at Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

Farm Bureau Leader Opposes Policy Review

Contends Politics Behind Movement

Wilson Heaps, a Washington County farmer who is president of the Marvland Farm Bureau, believes that politics of some sort is back of the Family Farm Review and the county meetings now being held around the country.

Meanwhile, Charles S. Harvey of Frostburg, who is president of the Allegany County Farm Bureau, said that officially his organization has taken no action concerning the farm meeting. However, he said he personally agrees with Heaps' views.

Three Meetings

Meetings were held last week at LaVale Fire Hall, Eckhart Square Circle Club and Flintstone High School on three successive nights. At those sessions statements were made concerning programs which various agencies under the United States Department of Agriculture offer. This week followup meetings for discussion of the programs have been arranged. First of these was last night at LaVale. Tonight the second will be at Eckhart Square Circle Club at 8 o'clock. Friday at 8 p. m. the third and last will be held at Flintstone High School.

Heaps has raised a question as to what kind of politics is behind the national plan for these meetings.

"This could be departmental politics to place the PMA in command," he said. "It could be party politics to build the groundwork for the 1952 campaign, or it could be ideological politics for further socialistic ideas. Probably it is a mixture of all three," Heaps added.

Seek Improvement

"We are for the improvement of the department and the services it renders to farmers. However, we do not think that workers in any government agency are the ones to develop policies. It smacks of authoritarian government procedure. Could this be the start of a five-year plan?

"Our business of farming depends on private enterprise. This right we must guard. Politics of all description should be kept out of the Department of Agriculture.

"Administrative agencies are not intended to formulate policies. Why is the department attempting the present policy survey? Did the farmer ask for it? I think not," the Farm Bureau president concluded.

Six Area Youths Enlist In Navy

Six area men were sworn into the Navy this week in Baltimore, Chief E. R. Morgan, local recruiter, announced yesterday.

They were John Franklin Kenney, RFD 1, Ridgeley; John Victor Lawrence, 204 Elder Street, Cumberland; Joseph Lee Wallizer, Jr., Flintstone; William Thomas Adams, 209 Hay Street, Cumberland; Paul Jackson Dohrman, Pattersons Creek, W. Va., and Ralph M. Lancaster, Eckhart Mines.

All were sent to the Naval Training Center at Bainbridge.

"Tough" Fire Guts Emily Street Home

Four City Firemen Overcome By Smoke

For approximately two hours, firemen fought what Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker called the "toughest fire in about 30 years" yesterday afternoon on Emily Street.

The blaze, which gutted the house of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Llewellyn, 220 Emily Street, caused four firemen to be overcome by smoke and threatened to envelope the two adjoining houses with flames.

East Side Fire Company and Central Ladder and Pumper Companies answered a call at about 5:15 p. m.

According to Mrs. Llewellyn, two families lived in the home. The Llewellyns and their five children, ages ranging from two to nine years, occupied the upper apartment of the ten-room house while Mrs. Anna L. Reith lived in the downstairs apartment.

The Llewellyns had recently bought the brick and wood building from Mrs. Reith.

Heard Cries Of "Fire"

Mrs. Llewellyn said that she, her husband and children were in their car outside the house ready to leave for their old home in Gilmore when they saw smoke coming from behind the house. Mrs. Llewellyn stated that she thought it came from Mrs. Reith's kitchen.

The Llewellyns then heard Mrs. Reith's cries of "fire," followed by what Mrs. Llewellyn said sounded like an explosion of some kind.

Flames could be seen lapping the back portion of the building as Mrs. Reith, the only person in the house at the time, was taken to a neighbor's home. Neighbors across the street called the fire department.

Fire Chief Parker said that this was the toughest fire to fight in about 30 years. He stated that the blaze was "mean to reach" since the fire began either in the kitchen or one of the back rooms of the house, climbed up the stairs, behind wall partitions, and was burning upwards toward the roof.

The flames were hidden between the ceiling and the tin roof, making the fire hard to get to with the hoses. All that could be seen was thick smoke which firemen entered to locate the burning sections of the building.

Unconscious Five Minutes

The first fireman to be overcome by smoke was Lt. Harry Davidson, of East Side Fire Department, who was unconscious for about five minutes. When he was revived, he again resumed his place with the other men.

Assistant Chief James A. Jackson, of Central Fire Company, was overcome soon afterward, followed by two others who were brought out of the house for air.

Chief Parker declared that the "men did a fine job."

The two adjoining houses, one a wood frame and the other a brick structure, were filled by smoke, but no damage was done.

After the blaze was under control, Detective Edwin R. Lilya was called to investigate the cause of the fire. Lilya said last night that the cause was unknown and that the owner of the building will be questioned at Police Headquarters this morning in an effort to determine the cause.

Conrad Addresses Traffic Club

Cpl. Samuel M. Conrad, of the Maryland State Police, discussed with members of the Tri-State Traffic Club at their dinner meeting last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, problems developed in the Maryland accident prevention program.

Cpl. Conrad has spoken before a number of other organizations recently and his message has resulted in quite a number of vital traffic suggestions being brought out into the open for discussion.

Albert B. Wenner, assistant traffic supervisor of the Celanese Corporation, presented the docket, highlighting topics covering new pickup and delivery rates and rules which were effective September 10 in Eastern territories of the railroads.

Arrangements for the meeting were under the direction of Thomas E. Kearney, Matthew W. Grove, Clarence E. Gehr and John L. Carnochan.

SOLDIER MEETS SENATOR—Sergeant J. Delaney, Frostburg, is introduced to South Dakota's Senator Carl Mundt (left) by Grady Gore, Potomac, Md., at a party at the Gore home for more than 300 servicemen. Also among the guests were nine other senators and their wives, and the former Shirley Temple Black, former screen star. The party was a part of the Operation Homefront program, designed to entertain servicemen at homes near their stations. Parties are held every Sunday and servicemen from nearby camps are invited.

WIFE IS KILLED, MOTHER WOUNDED AT HYNDMAN

Kelly Worker Is Held Here In Shooting

Clarence Burkett, 33, Surrenders To Police

Twenty-seven-year old Mrs. Myra Grace Burkett was fatally wounded by her estranged husband in an afternoon shooting yesterday at the home of her parents about one mile south of Hyndman, Pa.

Wounded in the shooting was the housewife's mother, Mrs. Helen Shaffer, who is in Memorial Hospital. Her condition is not regarded as serious.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy Allegany County medical examiner, said last night Mrs. Burkett's death was due to loss of blood. Mrs. Burkett was admitted to Memorial Hospital about 3:50 p. m. after being brought from the scene of the shooting in the Hyndman Volunteer Fire Company ambulance. She died about 4:28 p. m., according to hospital attaches.

Clarence Burkett, 33, husband of the dead woman and a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company employe, is being held in the county jail here in connection with the shooting and will be turned over to Pennsylvania authorities today. He was quoted yesterday as saying he would waive extradition. Two Pennsylvania state policemen were questioning him last night and taking a statement from him.

Phoned To Surrender

Allegany County Deputy Sheriff George Harris said Burkett, with whom he was acquainted, telephoned him from his home at Ellerslie after the shooting and asked the deputy to "come get me."

Harris, alone at the jail, told Burkett to "stay there and I'll have somebody get you."

Then Harris notified Maryland State Police Sgt. Harry Holsinger. When Holsinger arrived at Ellerslie Burkett, recognized the police car, approached and gave himself up.

Holsinger asked if he had figured in the shooting at Hyndman and as Burkett replied that he had he handed the officer the weapon, a .38 calibre pistol, and 27 bullets.

Deputy Sheriff Harris said Burkett had been in ill health and had spent some time in a hospital for observation.

The shooting happened about 3:05 p. m., according to Police Chief Paul A. Wise of Hyndman, on the truck farm of the Shaffer family. The young housewife was standing on a small pickup truck in the rear of the house unloading wood with her mother when Burkett approached them from between two houses nearby, Wise added.

Burkett, who has been separated from his wife for some time, is reported to have told his wife to come back and stay with him. When she refused, Burkett said, 'I'll fix you," drew out the pistol and began firing, police related.

Shot Three Times

In the meantime the mother grappled with Burkett, Wise added, and one of the shots entered her right arm and grazed the tissue of her abdomen. Burkett then left the scene and Mrs. Burkett was taken to Hyndman in the truck to receive emergency first aid at the office of Dr. John Topper. The victim and her mother were then brought to Cumberland in the fire company's ambulance.

According to his father-in-law, Wilbert J. Shaffer, Burkett previously had come to the house and threatened the family, and about a week ago Hyndman authorities were asked to keep Burkett away from the house.

St. Louis Expert Begins Study Of Smoke Ordinance

Raymond R. Tucker, head of the department of mechanical engineering at Washington University, St. Louis, arrived here yesterday to begin a survey of Cumberland's smoke control problems.

Before starting his preliminary work yesterday he met briefly with Mayor Thomas S. Post and City Attorney W. Earle Cobey. He said he expects to be here three or four days.

Purpose of Tucker's survey is to determine whether the city's smoke ordinance is strict enough. Local civic groups have charged that the law is lax. The Smoke Control Advisory Board has recommended that the ordinance be tightened and violators be prosecuted.

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, has termed the present law adequate for the next five years, and said he welcomed the survey by an outside expert.

Tucker, who instituted the St. Louis abatement program, was first smoke commissioner of the Missouri city. He has been on loan from the university since last February to organize the St. Louis Civil Defense program at the request of businessmen.

A report by Tucker formed the basis for the Los Angeles smoke abatement program, and many New York smoke regulations are his work. He also helped to draw up smoke laws for the "model city" of Kingsport, Tenn., and has been a smoke consultant in Syracuse, N. Y. He has spoken on smoke problems in Cleveland, Nashville, Pittsburgh, Louisville and Chicago.

C&P Would Hike Md. Phone Rates By $5,500,000

PSC Begins Hearing Arguments In Case

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company pleaded yesterday inflation has bitten deeply into its earnings and it needs an increase of about $5,500,000 in its Maryland rates.

This would apparently be a boost of about 10 per cent.

The arguments were placed before the Maryland Public Service Commission at the start of a hearing on the company's application for higher charges.

A decision by the commission is not expected for several months, perhaps not until early in 1952.

The company did not specify how much it would like to raise the rates for individual customers. The utility said it needs $2,750,000 in additional net income each year to make a fair return on its investment.

Willam G. Gassaway, company attorney, told the Commission it takes about $2 in additional revenue to produce $1 in additional earnings because of higher taxes, wages, and cost of equipment.

Ten Per Cent Increase

The company's revenue from telephone service in 1950 was about $53,616,000, so a $5,500,000 increase would be about 10 per cent.

"It adds up to only a few cents a day for the individual customer," said W. Griffin Morrel, vice-president and general manager.

The Public Service Commission has granted three previous increases since the end of World War II, increases designed to boost net income by $9,376,695 a year.

The last of these was in March, 1949, when the Commission approved an increase of $4,087,000. It turned down an additional $2,500,000 the company asked.

Opposition Raised

Attorneys for the state, the City of Baltimore and the Peoples Counsel of the PSC were on hand to oppose the new increase.

If the pattern of previous hearings is followed, they will ask and be granted a long delay in which to study the technical financial testimony of the company's auditor of disbursements, R. M. Fowler.

Gassaway started off the company's case by declaring it "has been hit hard and is being hit harder every day by the cost of inflation."

He said the key thing the Commission must do in making its decision is to determine the fair value of the telephone company's property and a fair return on that valuation.

Morrel said "higher rates are the only answer if the company is going to give the people of Maryland the kind of service they want when they want it."

Heavy Wage Increases

In a matter of months, he con-

Farm Bureau Leader Opposes Policy Review

Contends Politics Behind Movement

Wilson Heaps, a Washington County farmer who is president of the Marvland Farm Bureau, believes that politics of some sort is back of the Family Farm Review and the county meetings now being held around the country.

Meanwhile, Charles S. Harvey of Frostburg, who is president of the Allegany County Farm Bureau, said that officially his organization has taken no action concerning the farm meeting. However, he said he personally agrees with Heaps' views.

Three Meetings

Meetings were held last week at LaVale Fire Hall, Eckhart Square Circle Club and Flintstone High School on three successive nights. At those sessions statements were made concerning programs which various agencies under the United States Department of Agriculture offer. This week followup meetings for discussion of the programs have been arranged. First of these was last night at LaVale. Tonight the second will be at Eckhart Square Circle Club at 8 o'clock. Friday at 8 p. m. the third and last will be held at Flintstone High School.

Heaps has raised a question as to what kind of politics is behind the national plan for these meetings.

"This could be departmental politics to place the PMA in command," he said. "It could be party politics to build the groundwork for the 1952 campaign, or it could be ideological politics for further socialistic ideas. Probably it is a mixture of all three," Heaps added.

Seek Improvement

"We are for the improvement of the department and the services it renders to farmers. However, we do not think that workers in any government agency are the ones to develop policies. It smacks of authoritarian government procedure. Could this be the start of a five-year plan?

"Our business of farming depends on private enterprise. This right we must guard. Politics of all description should be kept out of the Department of Agriculture.

"Administrative agencies are not intended to formulate policies. Why is the department attempting the present policy survey? Did the farmer ask for it? I think not," the Farm Bureau president concluded.

Insurance Case Is Clarified

In an account of new developments in the case of Mrs. Ruth Iser Oates, Keyser, W. Va., against two insurance companies for claims in a fire which destroyed her house last year, yesterday's NEWS inadvertently said a verdict of arson had been returned against Mrs. Oates last November.

Actually, a Mineral County (W. Va) Circuit Court jury granted a verdict in favor of Mrs. Oates, in effect exonerating her of the charge levelled by defense attorneys during the trial but never filed as a criminal charge.

Since the case was a civil trial, no criminal verdict could have been rendered. Mrs. Oates never faced an arson charge, although the defense asked in a special plea that the case be dismissed on grounds Mrs. Oates was responsible for the fire.

The jury granted Mrs. Oates some $6,000, but Judge Ernest A. See ruled it out, granting one company a new trial and dismissing the case against the other firm on grounds Mrs. Oates' policy with that company was void at the time of the fire.

Mrs. Oates later appealed to the West Virginia Supreme Court, which said this week it would hear her appeal.

Six Area Youths Enlist In Navy

Six area men were sworn into the Navy this week in Baltimore, Chief E. R. Morgan, local recruiter, announced yesterday.

They were John Franklin Kenney, RFD 1, Ridgeley; John Victor Lawrence, 204 Elder Street, Cumberland; Joseph Lee Wallizer, Jr., Flintstone; William Thomas Adams, 209 Hay Street, Cumberland; Paul Jackson Dohrman, Pattersons Creek, W. Va., and Ralph M. Lancaster, Eckhart Mines.

All were sent to the Naval Training Center at Bainbridge.

"Tough" Fire Guts Emily Street Home

Four City Firemen Overcome By Smoke

For approximately two hours, firemen fought what Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker called the "toughest fire in about 30 years" yesterday afternoon on Emily Street.

The blaze, which gutted the house of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Llewellyn, 220 Emily Street, caused four firemen to be overcome by smoke and threatened to envelope the two adjoining houses with flames.

East Side Fire Company and Central Ladder and Pumper Companies answered a call at about 5:15 p. m.

According to Mrs. Llewellyn, two families lived in the home. The Llewellyns and their five children, ages ranging from two to nine years, occupied the upper apartment of the ten-room house while Mrs. Anna L. Reith lived in the downstairs apartment.

The Llewellyns had recently bought the brick and wood building from Mrs. Reith.

Heard Cries Of "Fire"

Mrs. Llewellyn said that she, her husband and children were in their car outside the house ready to leave for their old home in Gilmore when they saw smoke coming from behind the house. Mrs. Llewellyn stated that she thought it came from Mrs. Reith's kitchen.

The Llewellyns then heard Mrs. Reith's cries of "fire," followed by what Mrs. Llewellyn said sounded like an explosion of some kind.

Flames could be seen lapping the back portion of the building as Mrs. Reith, the only person in the house at the time, was taken to a neighbor's home. Neighbors across the street called the fire department.

Fire Chief Parker said that this was the toughest fire to fight in about 30 years. He stated that the blaze was "mean to reach" since the fire began either in the kitchen or one of the back rooms of the house, climbed up the stairs, behind wall partitions, and was burning upwards toward the roof.

The flames were hidden between the ceiling and the tin roof, making the fire hard to get to with the hoses. All that could be seen was thick smoke which firemen entered to locate the burning sections of the building.

Unconscious Five Minutes

The first fireman to be overcome by smoke was Lt. Harry Davidson, of East Side Fire Department, who was unconscious for about five minutes. When he was revived, he again resumed his place with the other men.

Assistant Chief James A. Jackson, of Central Fire Company, was overcome soon afterward, followed by two others who were brought out of the house for air.

Chief Parker declared that the "men did a fine job."

The two adjoining houses, one a wood frame and the other a brick structure, were filled by smoke, but no damage was done.

After the blaze was under control, Detective Edwin R. Lilya was called to investigate the cause of the fire. Lilya said last night that the cause was unknown and that the owner of the building will be questioned at Police Headquarters this morning in an effort to determine the cause.

Conrad Addresses Traffic Club

Cpl. Samuel M. Conrad, of the Maryland State Police, discussed with members of the Tri-State Traffic Club at their dinner meeting last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, problems developed in the Maryland accident prevention program.

Cpl. Conrad has spoken before a number of other organizations recently and his message has resulted in quite a number of vital traffic suggestions being brought out into the open for discussion.

Albert B. Wenner, assistant traffic supervisor of the Celanese Corporation, presented the docket, highlighting topics covering new pickup and delivery rates and rules which were effective September 10 in Eastern territories of the railroads.

Arrangements for the meeting were under the direction of Thomas E. Kearney, Matthew W. Grove, Clarence E. Gehr and John L. Carnochan.

SOLDIER MEETS SENATOR—Sergeant J. Delaney, Frostburg, is introduced to South Dakota's Senator Carl Mundt (left) by Grady Gore, Potomac, Md., at a party at the Gore home for more than 300 servicemen. Also among the guests were nine other senators and their wives, and the former Shirley Temple Black, former screen star. The party was a part of the Operation Homefront program, designed to entertain servicemen at homes near their stations. Parties are held every Sunday and servicemen from nearby camps are invited.
